I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Hill, Holliday, Connors and Cosmopolis, 137 Newbury Street, Boston, Mass. 02116, for professional services to EEPA in connection with the designing and production of a brochure for business and industry as part of the federally sponsored Private Sector Initiative Program (PSIP). The contractor was selected from among seven agencies solicited for proposals and estimates for the work. Hill, Holliday emerged as the most responsive to the needs of the project at a reasonable cost in light of other offers.

Funds for this contract will be provided to the city through a federal government planning grant under Title III of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period July 25, 1978, through September 30, 1978, at a total cost not to exceed $3,800. This request is retroactive in order to pay for the preparation of copy and layout commenced in good faith at EEPA's request.

Because this is a negotiated contract for professional services, consistent with federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by further solicitation for bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 5.

Sincerely,
Erik C. Butler,
Acting Administrator.

ELECTION DEPARTMENT
Voting Machines Setup

Dear Mr. Mayor:
Under the terms of a current vote, the Boston Election Commission authorized me in its name and on its behalf, as I now do, from your Honor, permission to dispense with publicly advertising for bids and award a contract to R. F. Shoup Corporation, P.O. Box 380, Bryn Mawr, Pa., to assist the voting machine division of this department in the preparation of voting machines for the September 19, 1978, State Primary, at a reasonable cost for such services furnished, not to exceed $10,000.

We are unable to publicly advertise at this time, because of the time factor involved, September 13, 1978, through September 20, 1978. It would be impossible to set up the voting machines for the State Primary on September 19, 1978, without the additional help of skilled voting machine custodians. This problem was generated by a court case holding up the printing of ballots for the voting machines.

In view of the very special nature of the services furnished and the competency of the R. F. Shoup Corporation that has been exhibited in the past to this department we feel that public advertising would not be in the best interest of this municipality.

Respectfully,
BOARD OF ELECTION COMMISSIONERS,
John M. Robinson,
Chairman.

HEALTH AND HOSPITALS DEPARTMENT

Data Systems Repairs, etc.

Dear Sir:
Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I hereby respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a maintenance and repair contract to Medical Data Systems Corporation, 3920 Varsity Drive, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48104, for the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $7,875.

This contract was not filed on a timely basis because the equipment was covered by warranty through June 30, 1978, and the department's responsibility for maintenance which began July 1, 1978, was overlooked.

Under this contract, Medical Data Systems Corporation, will provide all maintenance and repair services, including parts and travel expenses with the exception of customer consumables, to keep the listed equipment in good operating condition.

This service will be performed between the hours of 8 a.m. and 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, exclusive of holidays.

Therefore, because Medical Data Systems Corporation is the manufacturer of this equipment and can supply trained personnel competent in the repair of this complex equipment, at a reasonable cost, no benefit would inure to the city by publicly advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

LAW DEPARTMENT
Legal Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:
I request your approval for the award, without public advertising, of a contract for legal services to Laurence H. Tribe, professor of law, Harvard Law School, for an effective period of June 1, 1978, through October 31, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $15,000. I have determined that the cost is reasonable.

The services are to be provided in connection with litigation anticipated concerning the city's expenditure of funds for the purpose of urging the passage of the classification amendment. We are fortunate to have Mr. Tribe, who is a renowned expert in the field of constitutional law. Advertising for bids would, therefore, serve no useful purpose.

Yours very truly,
Herbert P. Gleason,
Corporation Counsel.

LICENSING BOARD
Stenographic Services

Dear Mayor White:
I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to J.G.F. Court Reporters, Ltd., 40 Thorndike Street, Middlesex Superior Court, Cambridge, Mass. for services that were rendered during the period July 1, 1977, through December 30, 1977, at a cost not to exceed $3,617.50. Under the terms of this contract, J.G.F. Court Reporters, Ltd. provided stenographic services at public hearings held by the Licensing Board.

Since this contract is being awarded retroactively, I believe an explanation is in order regarding the timing of my submission of this request.

In reviewing records of the Board from July, 1977, forward, it appears that former Chairman Charles Byrne did not send out invitations for bids for a public stenographer's services for the Boston Licensing Board when the 1976-1977 contract with J.G.F. Court Reporters expired on June 30, 1977. Furthermore, there was never a letter sent to your Honor requesting permission to dispense with bidding and to award a contract to any contractor relative to stenographic services. Although their contract had expired on June 30, 1977, the 1976-77 contractor, J.G.F. Court Reporters, Ltd., continued to provide stenographic services for the Board at its regularly scheduled weekly public hearing.

On September 12, 1977, I was appointed by the Governor to succeed Chairman Charles Byrne and shortly afterwards, I was advised that J.G.F. Court Reporters, Ltd. were providing stenographic services for the Board without a contract. Based on that information, I prepared a letter dated October 4, 1977, soliciting informal bids for a public stenographer.

Names of three public stenographers were chosen at random from the yellow pages, as well as J.G.F. Court Reporters, Ltd., the 1976-1977 contractor. Letters soliciting invitations to bid were sent to vendors listed below and the bids received were as follows:
Acme Reporter and Transcription Service, no response; Mass. Telephone and Dictation Service, no response; McKenna & Mendes Reporting Associates, sitting, $60 a day, $1.75 per page for transcription; J.G.F. Court Reporters, Ltd., sitting, $70 a day, $1.50 per page for transcription.

J.G.F. Court Reporters, Ltd. was at the time a dependable contractor, and in view of the fact that a high percentage of hearings before the Board require transcription and since their fee for transcription was $.25 less than the McKenna and Mendes bid, the Board voted to award the contract to J.G.F. Reporters, Ltd. The rate charged by J.G.F. Court Reporters, Ltd. was reasonable and below other competitors.

Accordingly, on November 15, 1977, the Board's executive secretary submitted a letter to your Honor requesting permission to dispense with bidding and to award a contract to J.G.F. Court Reporters, Ltd. The Board was later advised by the Law Department that such a letter should be signed by the awarding authority, consequently this letter was returned for my signature.

At approximately the same time this letter was returned, two incidents occurred which further complicated and delayed this request being resubmitted. J.G.F. Court Reporters, Ltd. advised the Board by telephonic communication that they would no longer attend public hearings at the Boston Licensing Board since they had not been paid for part of their services rendered since July 1, 1977. Furthermore, the Board at this time in communications with Assistant Corporation Counsel Kenneth Mickiewicz, was advised by Mr. Mickiewicz that the recommendation concerning a contract of this nature would be to advertise for invitation for bids for a public stenographer. As a result of these developments the letter initially sent to your Honor was not resubmitted under my signature. Pursuant to Mr. Mickiewicz's suggestion, the Board prepared a notice to contractors and public invitation to bid has resolved the administrative difficulties which have occurred since July of 1977.

However, the facts are that J.G.F. Court Reporters, Ltd. performed stenographic service for the Board from July through November, 1977. Because of the unusual circumstances surrounding this case, we request that the requirement to advertise be dispensed with and a contractual relationship between J.G.F. Court Reporters, Ltd. and the Licensing Board be established at this time.

Very truly yours,
Andrea W. Gargiulo,
Chairwoman.

PARKS AND RECREATION DEPARTMENT
Entertainment Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your permission to dispense with inviting proposals by advertising in the City Record, in awarding to the Ted Auletta Association, 101 Eton Road, Bronxville, New York 10708, a contract to supply entertainment for "Wednesday Evening on the Plaza," August 23, 1978, "Irish Night," for a total not to exceed $2,300. This is to be charged to the Parks and Recreation Department Budget 1-11-41 (29), Miscellaneous Contractual Services.

The services to be provided by the Ted Auletta Association include organizing and providing entertainment for the evening of August 23, 1978. The entertainers are Carmel Quinn, singer of Irish songs and popular ballads and the Ted Auletta Trio. This is the standard rate for professional services of this nature and is a reasonable price.

Because the Ted Auletta Association is the agent for this talent, no useful purpose will be served by publicly advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
Alan M. Austin,
Commissioner.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

You are respectfully notified that an invitation for proposals for guard and protection service at Parks and Recreation facilities and various locations in the City of Boston, Contract T, was advertised in the City Record on May 8, 1978, and bids were publicly opened and read aloud in this office on May 23, 1978. The following was the sole bid received:

Urban Building Services, Inc., 37 Washington Street, Melrose, Mass., $8,675.

The contract will provide security services at designated park facilities which are a constant target of vandals during hours when the buildings are closed.

The only bidder, Urban Building Services, Inc., failed to sign page 11 of the Form for General Bid filed with the Awarding Authority and failed to sign page 9 and 11 of the Form for General Bid filed with the City Auditor, thereby making its bid defective.

As the contract price filed by the only bidder is, in my opinion, fair and reasonable and the firm is qualified to perform the services called for in the contract I propose, with your authorization, to reject the bid of Urban Building Services, Inc. and to award the contract to this firm, without further advertising. The contract will be awarded at the unit price set forth in the bidder's proposal. All other terms and conditions of the form for General Bid, contract documents and specifications will remain unchanged.

The period of performance under this contract will be between July 1, 1978, and June 30, 1979.

Therefore your approval is respectfully requested to award the contract, without advertising, to Urban Building Service, Inc., 37 Washington Street, Melrose, Mass., for the approximate sum of $8,675, to be charged to 1-11-41 (29).

Very truly yours,
Alan M. Austin,
Commissioner.

DORCHESTER'S ASHMONT HILL: A REPORT

Part IV

There are a number of individual buildings within the Study Area which are of particular significance either historically or architecturally, to both the neighborhood and the city. In most cases their importance, as well as the overall significance of the Ashmont Hill district, is largely a result of the individuals associated with them, including two prominent Boston architects and numerous residents who were well-known Bostonians in their day. With only two exceptions, the buildings that these people built and lived in survive today as reminders of their associations with the neighborhoods.

The single architect responsible for the greatest number of Ashmont Hill houses was Edwin J. Lewis, Jr., F.A.I.A. (1859—1937), a Roxbury native who lived, during the period he was active on Ashmont Hill, a short distance away on Adams Street. Lewis studied architecture at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and began work as a draftsman with the prominent Boston firm of Peabody & Stearns. By 1885, he began practice on his own, distinguishing himself particularly in the design of churches and suburban residences, many of them in Roxbury, Hyde Park, Jamaica Plain, and especially Dorchester. By the close of his active career, Lewis had achieved regional and perhaps even national significance.

Lewis designed at least a dozen houses on Ashmont Hill between 1890 and 1893, most of them in the Shingle Style. Probably the most notable among these is the house built for George Eastman at 60 Ocean Street in 1890, one of the largest and most prominently situated houses on the hill. The house which is in an excellent state of preservation, is of an accomplished Shingle Style design, with characteristic semi-enclosed porches, wrapped shingling, and a complicated roof line.

Lewis also designed at least eleven additional Ashmont Hill houses, as well as the Peabody Terrace Apartments on Ashmont Street just outside of the district. In addition to his architectural accomplishments, Dorchester's prolific Shingle Style architect seems to have been a local history buff, having written a chapter on "The English Dorchester" in The Dorchester Book, published locally in 1899.

A second architect with close ties to the neighborhood was Harrison Henry Atwood (1893—1954). Born in Vermont, Atwood first studied law and then architecture at the Boston Architectural School. Following a term as state representative in 1887-89, he was appointed city architect from 1889-91, during which time he designed numerous public buildings—particularly schools and firehouses. Among his designs are Roxbury High School, grammar schools, in South Boston and Jamaica Plain, and fire houses in East Boston, South Boston, Brighton, Jamaica Plain, and Boston. Atwood served four separate terms as state representative between 1915 and 1928, carrying on his architectural practice in between terms.

Atwood designed at least seven houses on Ashmont Hill, at 61, 65, 77, 87, and 91 Alban Street, and 515 and 521 Talbot Avenue, and was somewhat more eclectic than

BOSTON'S FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

Twenty-Third Mayor
SAMUEL C. COBB

Samuel Crocker Cobb, Boston's twenty-third mayor, served from 1874 to 1876. He was long one of the merchants who carried on a foreign trade with Europe and South America. He was born at Taunton, May 22, 1826, and prepared for Harvard at Bristol Academy, Taunton, a school founded by his grandfather. But he was obliged to go to work when he was about sixteen as a clerk with A. and C. Cunningham, foreign shipping merchants at 15 Rowe's Wharf. In 1847, he went into business with J. Henry Cunningham, his friend and fellow clerk, under the name Cunningham and Cobb. He was an alderman for Roxbury in 1860, and, when Roxbury was annexed, became a member of the Boston Board of Aldermen.

At a meeting of the citizens November 11, 1873, he was nominated for mayor, and was elected by 19,191 votes. So great was the demand for his renomination that he again ran, and was elected unanimously; and again he was elected in 1875. As the annexation of Charlestown, West Roxbury, and Brighton had added forty-four thousand inhabitants to Boston, Mayor Cobb supported heartily the revision of the charter by the commission which had been appointed by Mayor Pierce. The recommendation of the commission was not adopted, but many of the provisions

Lewis, designing with seemingly equal facility in the Queen Anne, Shingle, Colonial Revival, and Bungalow Styles. Perhaps his most notable design was for a Bungalow house at 61 Alban Street, completed in 1890, which he and his family lived in until 1938. The house exterior is a strikingly simple, rectangular box with a low, overhanging, hipped roof and dormer windows—a simplicity which belies a lavishly detailed interior that one local historian has termed “the most flamboyant and the most extravagant in Dorchester.”

Among Atwood's designs as city architect was one for the Romanesque Revival Henry L. Pierce School, built in 1892, on the former site of the Welles Mansion on Washington Street. Rich in associations with the neighborhood (many of whose residents either attended it or taught there), the school was demolished in 1974, and has recently been replaced by the Codman Square Branch of the Boston Public Library.

There are a number of other architect-designed houses in the neighborhood, particularly on Alban Street, Ocean Street, and Welles Avenue. The most notable firm to design an Ashmont Hill house is Little & Browne, nationally reputed for their Colonial Revival designs, who designed the surprisingly plain house at 87 Ocean Street.

Besides General Henry Knox and Daniel Webster (who lived in the long-ago-demolished Welles mansion) a number of prominent Bostonians made their homes on Ashmont Hill. Perhaps the best known of these was John J. Fitzgerald (1863-1950). Nicknamed “Honey Fitz,” he was twice elected Mayor of Boston (1906-7 and 1910-14), and was the grandfather of the late President John Fitzgerald Kennedy. Born in the North End, Fitzgerald moved with his family to the Denmark Hotel near Uphams Corner in 1903, settling in the large, rambling, mansard-roofed house at 31 Welles Avenue the following year. The house is said to have been the scene of frequent late-night, political meetings during Honey Fitz's tenure as Mayor and was the house Rose Fitzgerald Kennedy was married from. Lived in by the Fitzgeralds until the late 1920s, the house then stood vacant for a number of years, finally being demolished following a fire in 1938.

The previously mentioned house at 60 Ocean Street was built for another of Ashmont Hill's more notable residents, George Eastman, who was in the insurance business in Boston. The Eastman family lived in the house until it was sold to its present owner in 1972.

Other noteworthy residents of the neighborhood include a Mr. Loring, also an insurance man who lived in the so-called “Loring Estate” at 16 Harley Street; Franklin Wood, owner of a steam printing plant and the benefactor of the Wood Home, who lived at 34 Alban Street; former Superintendent of Schools Jeremiah E. Burke, and numerous other local politicians, educators, and public figures.

There are at least three buildings which are of particular significance in the district, in addition to those previously mentioned. The house at 770 Washington Street (now almost hidden behind two storefronts) is a late-eighteenth-century farmhouse which has two added rear ells and various other exterior alterations. However, the house's original late Georgian portal survives and the house itself remains as the only vestige in the district of the rural character of the area before suburban development.

The Dorchester Temple Baptist Church, on the corner of Washington Street and Welles Avenue, is individually noteworthy, both for its accomplished Shingle Style design and interior craftsmanship, and for its associations with the neighborhood. The church building was built in 1898-90 by a group which had split off from the Tremont Temple in downtown Boston five years earlier. The church's membership, which included many Ashmont Hill residents, numbered ninety-nine in 1890, and peaked in the late 1920s, when it exceeded 1,000. Although membership has declined since then, the church is still active, and owns the house at 17 Ocean Street, which is used as a parish house.

Finally, the commercial building at 1911-1913 Dorchester Avenue at the corner of Ashmont Street, has significance as a prominently situated and architecturally distinctive building which has housed a retail establishment—O'Brien's grocery and liquor store—that has served the neighborhood for over half a century. This Queen Anne Style building was built in 1884 using a combination of materials and surface textures—brick, clapboards, shingles, stucco, and slate—that is characteristic of the style. Particularly notable are the brick-arched, first floor (which is largely obscured by storefront alterations), the patterned decoration in the stuccoed gable, and the terra cotta cresting on the edges of the roof.

Justification of Designation Category

The proposed district meets the criteria for designation as an Architectural Conservation District, as established in section 4 of chapter 772 of the Acts of 1975, in that it is associated significantly with the lives of locally outstanding historic personages, embodies distinctive characteristics of a late-Victorian, residential suburb, and contains the notable work of architects whose work influenced the development of the city. FUN FOR THE YOUNGSTERS!

With less than three months before the Children's Museum opens at Museum Wharf on Boston's waterfront, the museum is closing its Jamaica Plain site with a flourish, April 13 to 22.

"See Ya Later Alligator Week" features the return of Molly the Elephant, a Waterfront Hunt, the filling of a time capsule, special entertainment daily, and a final farewell party on April 22. The museum is open daily, 10 to 5, and Friday nights, 6 to 9.

Children finding one of the Waterfront Hunt cards hidden in the museum each morning receive a free pass to the new Children's Museum at Museum Wharf or to one of the museum's new neighbors in the Waterfront/Downtown area — the Museum of Transportation, the Boston Tea Party Ship, the New England Aquarium, the Hancock Observatory, Where's Boston? and the Skywalk at the Prudential Center.

Throughout See Ya Later Alligator Week, kids are invited to bring small objects that represent the 1970s for the Children's Museum's Great Time Machine — posters, toys, and T shirts. A selection of these objects will be placed inside the time capsule, taken in July to the museum's new home at Museum Wharf, and opened in the year 2000!

An exhibit in the lobby, "Benjamin Bear Moves to Museum Wharf," explains to children how the museum is moving.

At the final farewell party at 3 p.m. on April 22, Museum Director Michael Spock and his staff will thank the neighborhood children who've worked as Museum Helpers and Junior Volunteers; seal up the Great Time Machine; and say See Ya Later Alligator to all the museum's visitors until July 1, when the museum opens at Museum Wharf.

Special events schedule: Saturday, April 14 — Ondeko-Za, a Japanese "demon drummer" group; Sunday, April 15 — Susan Linn and her puppets; Monday, April 16 — "Dragon's Tale," Arthur Miller and Verbal the Dragon; Tuesday, April 17 — Gerwick Puppets, "Adventures of Thornton W. Burgess"; Wednesday, April 18 — Tom Smith, folksongs and storytelling; Thursday, April 19 — Steven Shakespeare, "Fool at Large," magic and mime; Friday, April 20 — Larry Sayco, yoyo champ; Saturday, April 21 — Hank Chapin's Suitcase Circus; Sunday, April 22 — the Cooperative Artists Institute's Tribal Rhythms explores common roots with storytelling, movement and jump-up music (one performance only); Farewell Party, 3 p.m.

Except as noted, there will be two performances for each event starting at 2 p.m.; first-come, first-served. There's no additional charge beyond museum admission. Call the What's Up Line (617) 426-8855, for more information.

NEW HOUSING COMPLEX SET FOR ROXBURY

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has given its approval for construction of Taurus at Fountain Hill, a seventy-three-unit, low-and moderate-income housing project to be built on St. James and Akron Streets in Roxbury.

The housing complex, which will cost $3.2 million, is being developed by John B. Cruz III. Rental subsidies for the apartments are being provided by section 8 funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and construction financing is being provided by the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency.

Mayor Kevin H. White, commenting on the BRA action, said, "I am extremely pleased that this project has been given the necessary approvals. Mr. Cruz has previously developed quality housing projects in the Campus High area and I am fully confident that this project will be a source of pride to both the Roxbury community and the city as a whole."

The project will consist of twenty-nine, one-bedroom units, thirty-four, two-bedroom units, eight, three-bedroom units, and four units specially designed for occupancy by physically handicapped persons. Sixty-three of the units will be housed in a five-story building with three-story townhouses providing the remainder of the units. There will also be sixty-six, off-street, parking spaces.

BRA SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT!

Robert J. Ryan, director of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, on March 22, announced that the BRA has established a Boston Harbor Task Force to coordinate all planning and development activities along Boston's waterfront.

The task force is multidisciplinary, consisting of people from every area of expertise within the BRA.

Mr. Ryan said, "The BRA is the city's planning agency and the task force is a logical extension of that responsibility. The task force will report directly to me and its job is to see that development along Boston Harbor is carried out within a framework that balances economic growth with protection of the environment.

"In a sense, this task force represents a slight shift in emphasis for the BRA. Of necessity, the BRA had to be primarily concerned with encouraging development at a time when the waterfront was in decline. Today, our job is not so much a matter of encouraging development as it is overseeing and coordinating the many and varied plans and proposals for Boston's waterfront."

Ryan said the task force will consider the topics of harbor transportation, land use patterns, and the question of development versus conservation.

He said a first step of the task force is to produce an inventory of the entire Boston shoreline. The document will catalog available land and facilities.

In announcing the task force, Ryan said the BRA will consult regularly with all interested parties and the numerous groups which are concerned with the future of the harbor, particularly Boston Harbor Associates.

they suggested were afterward incorporated in special laws. He recommended to the General Court the organizing of the present system of public parks, established a paid Water Board, and helped to pass an act limiting the indebtedness of municipalities. After he retired from office, he had many public and private trusts, and was a director in many institutions. At the time of his death, February 19, 1891, he was president of the Massachusetts Society of the Cincinnati.

Twenty-Fourth Mayor
FREDERICK O. PRINCE

The twenty-fourth mayor of Boston, Frederick Octavius Prince, was noted primarily for his eloquent speeches. He had a long line of ancestors who were more or less prominent in Boston. He could trace his line back to 1584, when John Prince, rector of East Sheffield, Berkshire, England, owned the estate called Abbey Foregate. Elder John Prince, of Hull, came to this country in 1633, and his grandson, Thomas Prince, who graduated from Harvard in 1707, was pastor of the Old South Church. Mayor Prince was born January 18, 1818. He was fitted for college at the Boston Latin School, and was Class Poet at Harvard. He studied law, and became a member of the legislature for Winchester, serving in 1851, 1852, and 1853, attaining great popularity by his speeches on reform. In 1854 he was a member of the Constitutional Convention, and also of the State Senate. He attended many Democratic national conventions. He was elected mayor by the Democrats, and was economical during the first half of his administration, but later spent more money improving the East Boston ferries. He adopted the Public Park scheme, improved the sewerage system, and was instrumental in building the English and Latin High School buildings.

He had tact, sagacity, and energy, but was often unable to make party and civic interests meet. He died on June 6, 1899.

ART IN THE MARKETPLACE

Museum of Fine Arts and the Rouse Company bring art closer to the people.

Howard W. Johnson, president of the Museum of Fine Arts, and James W. Rouse, chairman of the board of the Rouse Company, have announced plans to open "The Museum of Fine Arts at Faneuil Hall," late this spring in the South Market Building of the popular marketplace. The downtown space has been donated to the MFA until July 1, 1981, by the Rouse Company (subject to resolution of the required variances of the Board of Appeals of the City of Boston Building Department), developers of the marketplace, by which time the MFA expects to complete its new construction and renovation of the main museum on Huntington Avenue.

Johnson stated, "This is a perfect time and place for the museum to continue its program of reaching out to a wider public. Great art belongs where the people are — more than a million people visit the marketplace every month."

The installation will be under the direction of Kenworth Moffett, curator of the Department of Twentieth Century Art. He will lead a team of staff members drawn from every curatorial department of the museum who will select some of the most important works of art from the museum's permanent collections.

"This is an opportunity to bring important works of art into the heart of the city," Moffett said. "We will try some innovative ideas there. We expect to learn a great deal more about our public and ourselves."

The museum space will occupy over 12,000 square feet in the South

Market Building. "The Museum of Fine Arts at Faneuil Hall" will be open six days a week, including weekends and most holidays. Present plans call for public hours from late morning to early evening. Opening date and hours will be announced later.

Jan Fontein, director of the Museum of Fine Arts, said, "It is marvelous to see a great corporation such as the Rouse Company recognize a public need in this way and at this time. Even though the main museum will remain open and active throughout the renovation program now under way, the Faneuil Hall site will let us keep many great objects on public view which would otherwise have to be placed in storage."

The Rouse Company has had a long-standing policy of bringing art and art programs into its shopping centers throughout the county. "We do this everywhere we can, simply because we believe art is such an important part of the human experience," said Mr. Edwin Daniels, vice-president of the Rouse Company, and director of the Company's "Art in the Marketplace" program. He continued, "The MFA at Faneuil Hall is the largest of these projects ever, for us. We commend the museum for its boldness in taking it on, and welcome them as partners."

Mr. Daniels stated that the value of space (over 12,000 square feet) is "in excess of $300,000" for the twenty-eight months presently planned.

The space will be designed by Tom Wong, museum designer, and Judith Downes, assistant designer. It will include a separate entry lobby on the ground floor with displays and information at street level. Special security installations and procedures are being installed, as well as new systems for orderly handling of visitors to avoid overcrowding in the new galleries. "We learned a great deal about handling crowds at the Pompeii and Irish exhibitions," Wong said. "All of that will be useful here. The site is a challenging one and the results will be exciting."

IT'S THAT TIME AGAIN!

Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin announces the annual spring motor vehicle inspection will be held from April 1, through May 15.

With more than 3½ million vehicles registered in the Commonwealth, the registrar urges businesses and individuals to make an effort to get vehicles inspected as soon as possible.

Registrar McLaughlin also urges operators to perform a "personal inspection" prior to their driving the vehicle to a Registry-approved, inspection station.

"Turn on all the lights, walk around the car, make sure all bulbs are working. Have someone stand to one side and check the brake lights. Set the hand brake and test it yourself. You may be able to catch minor breakdowns in equipment before arriving at the station and being rejected," McLaughlin added.

The spring sticker is rectangular, yellow in color, and has a picture of a Registry of Motor Vehicles safety car on the window side.

The inspection fees remain the same, $2 for vehicles and 50 cents for trailers.

Contrary to common belief, the fees paid to the inspection stations remain with the station, and are not turned back to the Registry. In fact, the cost of the printing of the fall and spring stickers, in excess of $20,000 each printing, is borne by the Registry.

Stickers are delivered from the thirty-four Registry branches to the Registry-approved inspection stations, again at no cost to the station.

A garage wishing to become authorized to inspect and issue stickers makes application to the Registry. It is inspected by the Registry and issued a permit to do so. There is no charge to the garage to obtain permission to perform this service.

Inspection includes brakes, lights, horn, exhaust system, steering, windshield and wipers, number plate, rear window, tires, fenders, bumpers, external sheet-metal, and the factory-installed, pollution control system. Inspection of reflectors, chock blocks, and splash guards are included on trucks.

McLaughlin also said that if the owner's inspection finds a discrepancy between the license plate and vehicle identification listings on the registration certificate and the numbers on the car, the insurance company should be notified so proper forms may be obtained.

Motor vehicle owners are warned that the vehicle may have no signs or decals on either the front or rear window, except the inspection sticker itself, which must be affixed to the lower-right corner of the windshield, whether the vehicle is right- or left-hand drive. Also, no ornaments may hang from the inside, rear-view mirror.

Registrar McLaughlin noted mopeds and foot-driven bicycles are exempt from inspection. In 1977, the Commonwealth listed as registered some 3,110,612 passenger cars, which includes 4,500 taxicabs, 11,070 buses, 86,233 motorcycles, 359,773 commercial vehicles, and 32,000 state and municipal vehicles.

McLaughlin concluded, "When a car is found to have defective equipment during the inspection, a round, rejection sticker is affixed, and the vehicle immediately becomes an outlaw on the highway. This means it cannot be driven until the equipment is repaired. I strongly urge the motorist to make a 'first inspection' of his or her vehicle to avoid having to unexpectedly leave the car at the inspection station. It cannot be driven with a rejection sticker."

PHOTOGRAPHERS DISPLAY ARTISTRY

An exhibit of professional photography will be on display at the fifth floor, Main Gallery, at Boston City Hall from April 5, to April 27, 1979. The event will be sponsored by the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs and the New England Chapter of the American Society of Magazine Photographers (ASMP).

Contributors from ASMP are leading professionals from major publications in the New England area. Their theme, "The Captured Image," presents a remarkable display of high-quality images produced under the pressure of deadlines and short notice.

Editorial, advertising, commercial, publishing, fine arts, and experimental will be on view for the visitor to compare the many different modes of professional photography.

A tour for the exhibit and an archives library for ASMP are possibilities under consideration following the Boston showing.

The Boston City Hall Main Gallery is open to the public Monday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

HEY, LOOK US OVER!

On Tuesday, April 10th, from 9 to 11 a.m., all Boston District Elementary Schools will have Open House. The Magnet Elementary Schools will have Open House on the following day, Wednesday, April 11th, from 9 to 11 a.m. Classrooms will be open for observation. Refreshments will be served.

This is the first time in recent history that parents and neighbors have been invited to sit in and watch classrooms in action. Principals and teachers, together with parents from the Home and School Association, as well as local Racial Ethnic Parent Councils, will host visitors.

The purpose of such a program is obvious. School closings will become a reality unless Bostonians begin to use and understand their public school system more fully. Toward that end, Superintendent Robert Wood has asked the newly formed Office of Community and Public Affairs to coordinate a recruitment effort. The "Look Us Over" campaign, designed to encourage interest in our elementary schools, is a first effort.

Please share this notice with friends, parents, grandparents, and other relatives and come LOOK US OVER on Tuesday, April 10th, in the District Elementary Schools, or on Wednesday, April 11th, in the Magnet Elementary Schools.

"PILOT WEEK" IN MASSACHUSETTS

Governor Edward J. King signed a proclamation on March 22, that officially declared September 5 through 12, 1979, as "Pilot Week in Massachusetts." The signing took place in the Governor's office at the State House.

The eight-day period constitutes the focal point of The Pilot's year-long sesquicentennial observances. The paper's first edition was published on September 5, 1829, while September 12, 1979, is the date of the sesquicentennial dinner marking the publication's 150th year.

In his proclamation, Governor King urges all citizens of the Commonwealth "to take cognizance of this event and to participate fittingly in its observance."

The Governor salutes The Pilot as it "fully typifies the highest ideals of freedom, vigor, integrity, and value so cherished by the free press everywhere."

He also remarks The Pilot's 150 years "of service to its readership, its community, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the entire Church for which it has spoken so long and so well.

"Massachusetts," he says, "is pleased to salute any institution of its own that has informed, educated, inspired, and served the Commonwealth for a century and a half."

The Pilot was established in 1829 by the second Bishop of Boston, the Most Reverend Benedict J. Fenwick. At first, it was called The Jesuit, then became known by several other names, and finally settled on The Boston Pilot in 1836. A quarter century later, it dropped Boston and has been known since then as The Pilot.

In observance of its 150 years, The Pilot has announced art and essay contests for primary and secondary students, and it plans to publish a commemorative booklet in its issue of September 7. In addition, a special award, academic seminars, book displays, liturgical rites, and the like are also in the planning stage. Full details will be announced.

PHOTOGRAPHING STARS AT SCIENCE MUSEUM

"The stars at night/ big and bright/ deep in the heart of . . . New England."

Wouldn't you like to capture their glow on film?

A course, starting March 29 at Boston's Museum of Science, teaches exactly how to photograph astronomical objects. It also provides information about the selection and use of telescopes and other instruments need by the serious amateur.

Tools of Astronomy runs for eight Thursday evenings, at times adjusted to lengthening daylight. It includes a field trip to an observatory in the area. It is taught by Stephen Little, Ph.D., assistant professor of astronomy at Wellesley College.

The fee is $40, with a discount of $5 for Museum family and contributing members. To register, call 723-2500, ext. 274.

N.E. SELECTED AS REGION OF THE YEAR

The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) has announced that the New England region has been selected as the 1978 "SBA Region of the Year." The award was presented last month in Washington to Stanley C. Weinberg, Jr., the agency's New England regional director.

According to SBA Chief Administrator, A. Vernon Weaver, who made the presentation, the award is given each year to the SBA region which "best meets its program goals and objectives." The selection is made by the agency's National Management Board.

In accepting the award, Weinberg said it was "a recognition of the New England SBA staff and its efforts for the small business community in the region." He cited as an example, $83 million in government contracts awarded to New England area small businesses in 1978 under the SBA Set-aside Program. "This program is part of our procurement assistance effort and it insures small businesses an opportunity to bid on government contracts," Weinberg said.

Also mentioned was the SBA's advocacy program, management and technical assistance, free counseling, courses and conferences. Small businesses, financial institutions, and colleges and universities were urged to "find out about these programs and how we can help."

HEALTH CENTER RELOCATED

Mayor White praises new Bowdoin Street Health Facility as "great boost" for the Meetinghouse Hill Community.

Mayor Kevin H. White today praised the relocation of the Bowdoin Street Neighborhood Health Center to newly renovated, more spacious quarters as a "great boost" to the Meetinghouse Hill community.

The new site for the six-year-old health center is the former home of the Meetinghouse Hill Cooperative Bank at 200 Bowdoin Street. The former site was at 222 Bowdoin Street.

Health services offered by the center include: adult medicine, pediatrics, dermatology, nutrition, psychiatry, social services, outreach programs, sickle cell screening, pap smear screening, ob-gyn and podiatry.

Mayor White said, "The health center concept is an important one for two reasons: it makes health care more accessible to individual by being based in the neighborhood and it stresses preventative health care over hospitalization, making it far cheaper to stay healthy."

Mayor White added, "This expanded health center will allow the number of patient visits to nearly double here at Meetinghouse Hill. That stands as a reaffirmation of the strength of this community, and its commitment to its people."

Approximately 8,500 patient visits were logged at the health center's former site in 1978. Projections call for the patient caseload to rise to more than 15,000 visits annually in the new building.

The cost of the renovation project totaled $83,500 in grants from Permanent Charities, the Geoffrey Hyams Foundation, and Community Development Block Grants. That total does not include the building purchase price of $86,000.

SELF-SERVICE POSTAL CENTER

The post office doesn't have to be open to take care of your mailing needs. You can, literally, help yourself.

That's because there is a do-it-yourself post office — officially known as a Self-Service Postal Center — in Boston that provides convenient services twenty-four hours a day, 365 days a year.

Postmaster Sullivan said such a unit sells stamps, envelopes, postal cards, changes bills into coins, provides ZIP Code Directory information, and accepts letters and packages. Customer information signs tell patrons how to use the center.

Postmaster Sullivan said a recent Postal Service survey of customers using the self-service centers in other cities found the overwhelming majority of users preferred them for "fast, time-saving service without long lines that sometimes occur at regular post offices."

In Boston, a Self-Service Postal Unit is located at the Main Post Office, at Milk and Devonshire Streets.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT

Lab Testing Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The Public Works Department does not have a testing laboratory, therefore a private engineering firm must be engaged to control the quality of the large amounts of salt (sodium chloride) to be used for snow and ice control for the winter of 1978-1979. The contract for the purchase of this salt provides for a range of prices for payment that is controlled by the percentage of moisture, sodium chloride content, and gradation. In order to properly determine these factors, samples are taken, from the salt to be delivered, for laboratory tests.

It is not customary to select professional engineering assistance by public bidding, so after careful consideration I have selected the Thompson & Lichtner Company of Brookline to perform this work. They have performed this work for us for many years and inasmuch as their work has always been satisfactory and their expertise in this field has been proven and the cost for this service has always been reasonable, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Accordingly, your permission is requested to dispense with public advertising and award a contract for the sampling and testing of rock salt to the Thompson & Lichtner Co., Inc., 8 Alton Place, Brookline, Mass. The contract period will be from November 1, 1978, to April 30, 1979, and will include Social Security, Unemployment Compensation, insurance, payroll costs, overhead, and profit. The laboratory tests will be made at a unit price per test.

It is understood and agreed that the total to be paid under this contract will not exceed $13,000, which I consider to be a reasonable cost.

Very truly yours,
Joseph F. Casazza,
Commissioner of Public Works.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

Various Foods

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to Davey Bros., Inc., Littlefield Street, Avon, MA. 02322, for the purchase of perishable foods and other edible commodities, during the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979.

It is the practice of the School Committee to purchase perishable foods and other edible commodities on the basis of bids submitted weekly or monthly because of the perishable nature of these goods, the fluctuation in their prices, and the quantities required. The cost of all perishable foods and other edible commodities purchased under this contract will be based on formal quotation prices received from several suppliers.

Because the purchasing procedures, which accrue considerable savings to the School Committee, do not lend themselves to formal public bids, it's my opinion that advertising would serve no useful public purpose.

Very truly yours,

Leo J. Burke,
Business Manager.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your Honor's written permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to Dandy Dinners, Inc., 86 Liberty Street, Quincy, Mass., for the purchase of perishable foods and other edible commodities, during the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979.

It is the practice of the School Committee to purchase perishable foods and other edible commodities on the basis of bids submitted weekly or monthly because of the perishable nature of these goods, the fluctuation in their prices, and the quantities required. The cost of all perishable foods and other edible commodities purchased under this contract will be based on formal quotation prices received from several suppliers.

Because the purchasing procedures, which accrue considerable savings to the School Committee, do not lend themselves to formal public bids, it's my opinion that advertising would serve no useful public purpose.

Very truly yours,

Leo J. Burke,
Business Manager.

Chapter 636 Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston and upon the recommendations of its Board of Superintendents, I request your authorization for the award of a contract to Massachusetts College of Art. The contract shall be in effect during the period of September 30, 1978, to June 30, 1979, and incur a cost not to exceed $30,203, which is deemed to be reasonable by the Committee.

The contractor will provide the following instructional services at the Jeremiah E. Burke High School: (1) Continuation of collaboration between the J.E. Burke High School and the Mass. College of Art in implementing a major program in the communications field; (2) to provide continued training and support for the teachers in the J.E. Burke program; (3) to identify and utilize community resources in the area of the Burke High School, in the City of Boston, and in the Greater Boston Area.

The contractor is especially qualified to provide the above services because of a past record of accomplishment with this program.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be provided under this agreement and the expertise of the contractor in providing such services, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

This agreement is to be executed without an appropriation of funds, under the provision of General Laws chapter 44, s. 53A, and is to be subject to the receipt of funds under grant from chapter 636, state-approved Project 79-5S-0334.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

Consultant Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I am writing this letter on behalf of the School Committee, and upon the recommendation of its Board of Superintendents to request your authorization for the award of a contract, without public advertising, to Educational Research Corporation (E.R.C.) Watertown, to act as a consultant to the staff of the Transitional Bilingual Education Department and Raffael DeGruttola, its director. E.R.C. will provide leadership training seminars for ten bilingual, central administration staff who design and supervise bilingual education programs for the Boston Public Schools.

E.R.C. will provide three, full-day, training seminars from August 1, 1978, to September 30, 1978, for the specified services stated in the attached contract at a cost of $2,500. This will cover a daily salary of $833.33 (one day at $833.34) for three days. This contract is to be charged to Cost Center 107.

E.R.C. has been selected because of its specific background and expertise in the area of bilingual education over the past few years.

Therefore, it is the determination of the School Committee that the interest of the Boston School Committee would not be served by public advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
Edward Winter,
Secretary.

Pulsar Machine

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to Research Technology, Incorporated, a corporation, located at 4700 Chase Avenue, Lincolnwood, Illinois 60646, for the purchase of a Pulsar IC inspection machine for the Boston Public School Department of Audio-Visual Instruction.

Under the terms of the contract, the contractor will furnish a $8,650, Pulsar IC, inspection machine, less year-end discount and a turn-in of a Harwald inspection machine, Serial No. 4512, for the compensation of $3,800. The contract cost of $4,850 is most reasonable.

It is necessary to contract with Research Technology, Inc. for the Pulsar IC inspection machine since it is the only company now making such equipment that is compatible with our other equipment. It is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,
Thomas J. Loftus,
Acting Director.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with the usual form of advertising and to award a contract for contractual services to Beacon Systems and Design of 140 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass. The amount of the contract will not exceed $15,000, and will run from September 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979. I deem the above-proposed contract cost to be reasonable.

The work to be performed under the proposed contract will involve the following:

1. Creation of a Zip Code file in the following taxes: Real Estate, Excise, and Personal Property; 2. programming and keypunch cards to be converted to the City of Boston computer; 3. programming and keypunching for the Delinquent Tax Unit, address corrections, date of birth corrections on all taxes — Real Estate, Excise, and Personal Property — to update the City of Boston computer file for the location and collections of delinquent tax payers.

I have discussed this project with other potential vendors in the field of such processing and have concluded, both in terms of cost and capability, that the public interest would be served by awarding of this contract to Beacon Systems and Design.

Respectfully,
Newell Cook,
Collector-Treasurer.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to Hans P. Birle, of 109 Westchester Road, Jamaica Plain, MA 02130, an individual, for the purpose of assisting in collection services for a special temporary effort to collect the city's delinquent real estate, motor excise, and personal property taxes.

Mr. Birle has experience providing similar services, and I would like to contract these services from him due to his knowledge of the work and his excellent experience.

Compensation under this contract shall not exceed $5,000, which is, in my opinion, a reasonable cost. The term of this contract shall be from August 21, 1978, through to June 30, 1979.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be performed, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful public purpose.

Very truly yours,
Newell Cook,
Collector-Treasurer.

Box 1388, Boston, Mass. 02104. The amount of the contract will not exceed $5,000, and will run from August 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979. I deem that the proposed contract cost is reasonable.

The work to be performed under the proposed contract will involve the following:

A. To photocompose pages from magnetic tapes supplied to us by the city of the names of the 1978 tax delinquents for the City Record; B. computer process and compose 125 pages of 1978 list (first run); C. make negatives and stripped flats.

We contacted other vendors and Sperry Rand Corp./Recording & Statistical Division is the only company that goes from tape to composition. In view of the nature of the work to be performed, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Sincerely,
James V. Young,
Collector-Treasurer.

These goals are applicable to all the contractor's construction work (whether or not it is federal or federally assisted) performed in the covered area.

As used in this notice, and in the contract, the covered area is Boston, and the Islands of Boston Harbor, Mass.

The transfer of minority or female employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's goals shall be a violation of the contract, the Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4. Compliance with the goals will be measured against the total workhours performed.

Bids may be held by the Boston Redevelopment Authority for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days from the date of the opening of bids for the purpose of reviewing the bids and investigating the qualifications of the bidders, prior to awarding of the contract.

SECTION THREE AFFIRMATIVE ACTION PLAN

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the provisions of the contract documents, including, without limitation, the notice to all bidders (including subbidders), and the provisions with respect to bonds, insurance, equal employment opportunity, minimum wages, time of performance, liquidated damages, and the requirements set forth in the specifications on supplemental equal employment opportunity, anti-discrimination and affirmative action program contract provisions, and to the requirements of mandatory compliance with section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and Executive Order 11246. DORCHESTER'S ASHMONT HILL: A REPORT

ECONOMIC STATUS

Current Assessments

The average assessment on a single-family or two-family house on Ashmont Hill is about $6,800, of which an average of roughly one-third is for the land and the remaining two-thirds for the building. Actual individual assessments range from $3,900 to $9,700. Assessments on commercial property on boundary streets and on multifamily residential property, tend to be considerably higher and vary with each property.

Property Values

According to a recent housing market study by the "Living in Boston" program of the Mayor's Office of Program Development, present market values of smaller Ashmont Hill houses, with a minimum of architectural detail and in good condition, range from about $14,000 to about $25,000. Mid-size houses with a moderate degree of architectural detail are presently worth between $25,000 and $35,000, while the handful of very large, generously sited, and architecturally distinctive houses in the neighborhood have present market values of between $35,000 and $50,000.

These figures show a rate of increase which is somewhat greater than the city-wide average for about the last five years. This increase has been most significant in regard to the area's more architecturally distinctive and well-preserved houses, whose value has been increasing at the rate of almost 10 percent per year. Smaller, plainer, or heavily altered houses have been increasing in value at only about half that rate.

PLANNING CONTEXT

Background

For planning purposes, the BRA Neighborhood Planning Program has divided Dorchester into over a dozen subareas. The Ashmont subarea of the Dorchester/Fields Corner planning district includes all of Ashmont Hill, except Brent Street, and extends between Washington Street and Adams Street south to Gallivan Boulevard. The subarea is characterized by low-density residential neighborhoods with a predominance of well-maintained, owner-occupied, single- and two-family dwellings. It is one of Dorchester's most stable neighborhoods, with generally higher-income levels and a recent influx of younger homeowners.

The subarea also has a high percentage of elderly residents (many of whom have difficulty keeping their homes in good repair), and some housing deterioration, principally along commercial arteries. The Codman Square business district, adjacent to the subarea on the north, is also a matter of some concern to the community as a result of its recent decline.

Current Planning Issues

The chief planning issues for Dorchester as a whole, as identified in the Dorchester/Fields Corner District Profile and Proposed 1978-1980 Neighborhood Improvement Pro-

BOSTON'S FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

Twenty-fifth Mayor
SAMUEL A. GREEN

Samuel Abbott Green became Boston's twenty-fifth mayor in 1882. Dr. Green was born in Groton on March 16, 1830. His ancestors came to America in 1636. He was educated at Groton Academy, which later became known as Lawrence Academy, and at Harvard. After four years study abroad in some of the best hospitals he returned to Boston and began the practice of medicine. He became surgeon of the Second Massachusetts Militia Regiment in 1858, and went to the front at the outbreak of the Civil War, where he served with distinction in his chosen profession. He planned the cemetery on Roanoke Island, one of the first cemeteries for soldiers who fell in the war, and had charge of the hospital ship Recruit on the Burnside expedition to Roanoke Island. His official connection with the city of his adoption extends over many years and covers many activities.

From 1860 to 1862 he was a member of the School Board, and again from 1865 to 1872, when he was also superintendent of the Boston Dispensary. From 1868 to 1878, he was trustee of the Boston Public Library, and acting librarian from 1877 to 1878. He was the donor of the Franklin collection of books and engravings now in the Public Library. He was city physician from 1871 to 1882, and in the last part of 1881, was elected mayor as a can-gram, are housing deterioration and commercial center decline.

Housing deterioration is of moderate concern in the immediate neighborhood of Ashmont Hill, where it occurs largely on commercial arteries — Talbot Avenue and Washington Street. Due to their relative lack of residential desirability, dwellings on these streets are the first to be neglected and finally abandoned, particularly if absentee-owned. As an incentive for rehabilitation of housing, the city has made available rebates of 20 percent of the cost of necessary improvements to owner-occupied housing, under the Housing Improvement Program. The City of Boston, through the Little City Hall program and the BRA through the Neighborhood Planning Program are also acting to assist and encourage neighborhood groups and associations; to improve the area's public image by providing more timely and accurate information on real estate values and activity; and to program capital improvements such as new sidewalks, streetlights, parks, and public facilities in areas where they will have the greatest positive impact.

Also of concern to the Ashmont Hill neighborhood is the decline of neighborhood commercial centers, such as nearby Codman Square. Largely due to suburban exodus, competition from auto-oriented, shopping malls, and increased crime problems, many small businesses have failed and stores have been boarded up. Fortunately, Peabody Square has remained basically stable and economically healthy.

In order to renew the vitality of these commercial areas, the city has recently begun a Storefront Improvement Program, which operates on a system of 20 percent rebates similar to the Housing Improvement Program. The city is also providing capital improvements such as new parking facilities and pedestrian improvements, as well as police foot patrols in areas where crime is a major problem.

Current Zoning

All of the Ashmont Hill Study Area is zoned for moderate density, residential use (R-5) with the exception of short segments of Washington Street and Talbot Avenue, which are zoned for local retail and business uses (L-1 and B-1).

ALTERNATIVE DESIGNATION APPROACHES

Type

The Ashmont Hill Study area has been proposed for Boston Landmarks Commission designation as an "Architectural Conservation District," which would provide for the review of proposed physical changes regarding most exterior alteration or repair, as well as demolition and new construction.

Alternative designation categories under BLC legislation are "Landmark District" and "Protection Area." The former provides a somewhat greater degree of protection, but requires that the area proposed for designation be of significance to the Commonwealth, the New England region, or the nation. A Protection Area provides only limited design control on building height, bulk, setback, land coverage, and demolition, and is designed to protect area's which surround Landmarks, Landmark Districts, or Architectural Conservation Districts and are essential to their character.

The area has also been determined by the staff of the Boston Landmarks Commission to appear to meet eligibility requirements for listing on the National Register of Historic Places, which would provide limited protection where federal funds are involved in proposed physical changes, as well as various tax incentives for rehabilitation for depreciable property. This form of designation would not, however, provide any design review powers over changes undertaken by private owners at their own expense.

Both the level of significance of the Ashmont Hill Study Area, and the degree of protection sought by its residents, suggest that the designation category be limited to that of Architectural Conservation District.

Boundaries

The proposed boundary of the Ashmont Hill Architectural Conservation District represents the simplest possible line which encloses all of those properties of architectural and historical merit which comprise a cohesive residential neighborhood. Because Washington Street and Talbot Avenue are busy commercial arteries which constitute natural boundaries, the center line of these streets has been chosen. Brent and Ashmont Streets, however, are relatively narrow, residential streets which do not act as physical or psychological barriers. Further, the houses on both sides of these streets relate to each other as an ensemble; hence the rear lot lines of these streets have been chosen.

Any further expansion of these boundaries would include properties which either are not of sufficient significance to be included, or do not visually or physically relate to it. Further boundary constriction would exclude significant structures or diminish the cohesiveness of the district.

RECOMMENDATIONS

The Ashmont Hill Study Committee makes the following recommendations;

1. That the Ashmont Hill Study Area be designated by the Boston Landmarks Commission as an Architectural Conservation District under chapter 772 of the Acts of 1975;

2. That the boundaries shown in section 1 of this report be adopted without modification;

3. That the attached standards and criteria recommended by the Study Committee for the district be accepted;

4. That the Boston Landmarks Commission establish an Ashmont Hill Architectural Conservation District Commission in accordance with chapter 772 of the Acts of 1975, which stipulates that there be five district commission members: two members and two alternates from the district, and three members from the Boston Landmarks Commission. The Study Committee further recommends that the following provisions for the selection of members and alternates from the district:

i) all members and alternates from the district shall be resident property owners within the district;

ii) all members and alternates from the district shall serve two-year terms, except as provided below;

iii) for the initial appointment of members and alternates from the district, the Ashmont Hill Study Committee shall by majority vote nominate one member and one alternate to serve a term of one year, and shall nominate one member and one alternate to serve a term of two years;

iv) nominations for subsequent members and alternates shall be solicited by the Boston Landmarks Commission from the Ashmont Hill Association and/or its successor organization(s) representative of the district. In the event that no such nominations are forthcoming within sixty days of written solicitation by the Boston Landmarks Commission, the Boston Landmarks Commission shall make the nominations; and

v) the same procedure as described in "iv" shall be followed for the replacement of a member or alternate who is unable to complete his/her term.

STANDARDS AND CRITERIA, ASHMONT HILL DISTRICT, DORCHESTER Introduction

As required by sections 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8 of the statute creating the Boston Landmarks Commission (chapter 772 of the Acts of 1975 of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts), standards and criteria must be adopted for each district designation by the commission. These standards and criteria are intended to serve two purposes, first to inform property owners of what kinds of changes are permitted in the district, and second, to guide the members of the District Commission in deciding what proposed changes are permissible.

These standards apply only to proposed exterior changes which are visible from any street, sidewalk, park, or other public way. They are not retroactive, but apply only to changes proposed after the formal designation of the district. The administration of these standards is proposed to be by a District Commission composed of two, property-owning, district residents and three Landmarks Commissioners. After a public hearing, the review commission may grant a Certificate of Design Approval for proposed changes which are consistent with these guidelines, or a Certificate of Exemption when substantial economic hardship would be imposed on the property owner if proposed changes were not approved. A Certificate of Exemption may also be granted for proposed changes which involve only routine maintenance or repair not materially affecting the building or which are necessary for reasons of public safety. A certificate is required before work can begin.

It is recognized that changes may be required for a variety of reasons, not all of which are under the complete control of the commission or the owners. Building code conformance and safety requirements are primary examples of causes of such changes.

Conformance with these other requirements may, in some cases, present conflicts with the standards and criteria. Evaluation of an application for a certificate in such cases will be based upon the degree to which such changes are in harmony with the character of the property and the district in which the property exists.

GENERAL STANDARDS FOR PROPERTIES IN DISTRICTS DESIGNATED BY THE BOSTON LANDMARKS COMMISSION

The intent of the standards and criteria is to preserve the existing qualities that brought about the designation of the district.

As intended by the statute, a wide variety of districts are eligible for designation, and an equally wide range exists in the latitude allowed for change. Some districts of truly exceptional architectural and/or historical value that are designated as Landmark Districts will permit only minor modifications, while for some other areas, designated as Architectural Conservation Districts, the commission encourages changes and additions with a contemporary approach, consistent with existing features.

In all cases, the design approach to a proposed change in a district should begin with an understanding of the fact that the overall character of a district is greater than the sum of its parts, and that a pattern exists within a district, which is made up of each building, each landscape element, and each detail. It is this aggregate character which is most important.

Additions and new construction should not disrupt the essential form and integrity of an individual building or of the district. The size, scale, color, material, and character of this work should be compatible with the character of the existing buildings and their environment. The design should be contemporary and not imitative of an earlier style or period of architecture.

In the design of alterations, which may have a less significant impact than additions or new construction, one should, whenever possible, retain or repair existing materials and features, rather than remove and replace them.

When it is necessary to replace such materials or features, replacement should, whenever possible, be based on physical evidence, or evidence contained in documents such as plans and photographs indicating the appearance and other characteristics of the materials or features being replaced. New materials used in replacement should, if possible, match the materials being replaced in physical properties, design, color, texture, and other visual qualities.

Careful evaluation should be made as to the nature of changes which have occurred over time to a building or the district as a whole. These changes are a part of the history of the area and may be significant in their own right.

In general, proposed changes which are easily reversed are far less serious than those which are irrevocable.

didate of the Citizens and Republican parties. During his administration politicians found that it did not pay to lounge in the corridors of City Hall. The Police Commissioners were removed, and receipts from liquor licenses increased by over $22,000, a great sum for the times. In a paper advocating his reelection, it said:

"After ten years as city physician he has probably more intimate knowledge of the poor and a firmer hold on their heartstrings than any man in the community. His home is, and has been for a long period, on Kneeland Street, and there, in the midst of the suffering classes, he has been ever ready to listen to any tale of sorrow or discouragement and any request for counsel or comfort from the lips of the needy."

When the Prince of Wales, later Edward VII of England, visited Boston, he was shown the rooms of the Massachusetts Historical Society, where Dr. Green was at the time librarian. The Prince was interested in John Winthrop's History of New England and George Washington's epaulets. The date of the visit happened to be the anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis.

Twenty-sixth Mayor ALBERT PALMER 1883

Albert Palmer, the twenty-sixth mayor of Boston, was wholly a self-made man. He was the son of a small farmer in Candia, New Hampshire, where he was born on January 17, 1831. In the intervals of work in this small community he obtained what elementary education he could. When he was but fourteen years old he taught school to get the means with which to go to Phillips Academy, Exeter, and when he was twenty-three entered Dartmouth, where he graduated second in his class. He taught school in West Cambridge and in the Boston Latin School. He organized the Jamaica Pond Ice Company, which was a great financial success, and he served for many years as its treasurer, and later as president. Becoming interested in politics, he was elected in 1872 to the House of Representatives, serving until 1874, inclusive, acting as chairman of the Joint Committee on Railroads. He was in the State Senate from 1875 to 1880, and for a time was chairman of the Committee on Federal Relations. He left the Republican party in 1879, and became a Democrat and a follower of General Butler. He was defeated for mayor in 1882 by Dr. Samuel Green, but was elected the following year. Through his efforts Franklin Park was started. He died on May 21, 1887.

Twenty-seventh Mayor AUGUSTUS P. MARTIN 1884

In 1884, Augustus Pearl Martin presided as twenty-seventh mayor of Boston. General Martin was born November 23, 1835, in Piscataqua, Maine, and was brought to Boston early in life. He attended public and private schools, and engaged in the leather trade. He enlisted in the army at the outbreak of the Civil War, and his bravery in leading a battery to the top of "Little Round Top" helped greatly in achieving the Union victory. He was chief marshal at the dedication of the Army and Navy Monument and at the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Boston. After much urging he became, in 1883, the Citizens and Republican candidate for mayor, and gave the city a "plain, practical, resolute, and honest government." He was made a chairman of the Board of Police under Greenhalge, to rid the city of crime and to enforce the laws. His enemies brought charges against him, but the council did not sustain them. At the time of his death, on March 13, 1902, he was water commissioner.

CHARLES V. BARRY: HAPPY RETIREMENT!

Charles V. Barry, Deputy Superintendent of the Boston Police Department, and former Secretary of Public Safety for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, has retired from active duty with the Boston Police Department, according to Police Commissioner Joseph M. Jordan.

Barry began his law enforcement career in 1948, when assigned to Boston Police Division 1 as a foot patrolman. He recently returned to active duty with the department and had been serving Commissioner Jordan as a special assistant for administration.

During his thirty years with the Boston Police Department, Barry received promotions to the rank of detective, sergeant, lieutenant, and captain. His steady ascension through the command hierarchy of the department parallels a reputation for excellent administration of crime prevention resources and application of law enforcement techniques.

In 1974, former Governor Michael S. Dukakis capitalized on Barry's reputation for outstanding police performance when he appointed the West Roxbury resident secretary of public safety. Barry held the cabinet position until December, 1978.

While on active duty with the Boston Police, Barry received several commendations and awards, including the department's prestigious Department Medal of Honor and the Thomas F. Sullivan Award. The latter awards were presented in 1961 shortly after the then Sergeant Barry and two fellow officers had apprehended five mugging suspects in the Boston Public Garden.

The arrest and eventual convictions of the mugging suspects was instrumental in producing a dramatic decline in the number of assault incidents terrorizing the Public Garden area.

Commenting on Barry's decision to retire, Commissioner Jordan noted: "Few officers of the Boston Police Department will ever equal the distinction and recognition bestowed upon Charles Barry. The Deputy Superintendent's sensitivity to the police needs of our city and his continuous zeal for perfection are qualities which our department will sorely miss.

"I know every member of our department joins with me in recognizing a gentleman who represents the highest standards of professionalism, integrity, and efficiency."

Raised in Dorchester, Barry graduated from Boston English High School in 1943. He enlisted in the U.S. Army one year later and attained the rank of master sergeant with the Signal Corps of the 89th Signal Operating Battalion, Company A.

Although discharged in May, 1946, Barry interrupted his service as a patrolman when he returned to active duty with the Army in 1951, following the outbreak of hostilities in Korea.

Since his retirement, Barry has not announced plans for the immediate future.

GIANT GARAGE SALE AT MUSEUM OF SCIENCE

A 700-pound, white elephant is standing in the garage of the Museum of Science waiting to be tagged for its sixth annual Giant Garage Sale. It is the life-size papier-mache donation of Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey to the Service League's annual May 5 and 6 fund-raiser.

If you are driving down Memorial Drive, you may catch a glimpse of it through the windows facing the Charles — there to jog your memory so you will ferret out your own white elephants from attic and basement and bring them to the Science Museum.

They're looking for household items, appliances (large and small), home and office furniture, stereos, televisions, phonographs, sports equipment, books, toys, and games — everything except used clothing and items broken beyond repair.

The museum is in the process of building a $2.8-million Hall of Energy. The Service League has underwritten a $100,000 pledge to the museum to provide within the Hall of Energy a solar greenhouse, to be used as a teaching center for the study of alternative sources of energy.

Volunteers have raised most of the funds for this project from prior sales; this year's garage sale goal is to raise the remaining $40,000. Proceeds will be used to match a challenge grant the museum has received from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Donations may be brought to the museum Monday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Pickup of large items may be arranged by calling 723-2500, Ext. 259. All donations are tax deductible.

FISHERMEN, GET READY!

Quabbin Reservoir filled to capacity; opens for fishing Saturday, April 14.

The Metropolitan District Commission announced on March 23, its Quabbin Reservoir will be opened to public fishing beginning on Saturday, April 14, at 6 a.m.

Quabbin Reservoir covers 39 square miles of river valley and is surrounded by a forested, hilly watershed approximately 65 miles west of Boston, easily accessible either via the Mass. Turnpike or Route 2.

Quabbin is 17.9 miles in length and contains sixty islands. There are 118 miles of shore line. It was filled to capacity for the first time in May, 1946, after the filling process began in August, 1939. The MDC has announced it is again filled to capacity for the first time since April, 1978. When filled, Quabbin contains 412 billion gallons of water.

The major reason for the fact Quabbin is now at capacity is the abundant rainfall throughout Massachusetts during the recent winter, plus substantial runoff from nearby rivers and streams, according to MDC officials.

As in other years, the MDC will rent boats and/or motors to those wishing to fish at Quabbin and not bringing their own watercraft. The rental fee for outboard motor skiffs has been increased from 60 cents an hour to 85 cents an hour for the 1979 season, with a maximum charge of $5 per day. Deposits of $5 each are required for outboard motors and for outboard motor skiffs. All other fees remain unchanged.

EXPANSION PLANNED FOR MUSIC HALL

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has given tentative designation to Metropolitan Center, Inc., to develop 10,000 square feet of land on Stuart Street as part of the Music Hall.

The parcel of land is located midway between Tremont Street and Washington Street. It is needed to provide space for expansion of the backstage area of the Music Hall.

The Music Hall, the largest theatre in Boston (4,200 seats) is severely limited in use because it does not have sufficient space backstage to accommodate large dance companies and opera productions.

The Metropolitan Center, Inc., a nonprofit organization, formed to carry out renovation of the Music Hall, is planning an expansion of the backstage as the first step in a rebuilding program that will result in a new performing arts facility.

Mayor Kevin H. White, who had recommended that the BRA designate Metropolitan Center as redevelopers of the parcel, said, "This will facilitate the renovation of the Music Hall, which is an important element in the city's overall plan for revitalization of the theatre district. I am extremely pleased that the lavish movie palace, as we now call the Music Hall, will take on a new lease on life as a major performing arts center."

BRA Director Robert J. Ryan, said "Designation of the Metropolitan Center for this piece of land serves a twofold purpose. It helps bring the Music Hall renovation one step closer. In addition, the new stage house, which will front on Stuart Street, will serve as an anchor for our efforts to upgrade and improve Stuart Street."

New England Medical Center Hospital presently owns the existing Music Hall, but has entered into an agreement to lease the facility to Metropolitan Center. A provision of the lease is that Metropolitan Center obtain from the BRA the 10,000 square feet of land needed to expand the backstage of the Music Hall.

The Metropolitan Center is in the process of raising the $3.5 million needed to renovate the Music Hall. At present approximately $1 million has been committed or pledged to the project.

YOUNGSTERS: PITCH, HIT AND RUN!

Pitch, Hit, & Run, Major League Baseball's official youth program will be sponsored this year by the 2,300 participating Burger King® restaurants.

Pitch, Hit, & Run is now in its third year of national competition.

The program is cosponsored by the National Recreation and Park Association and developed in cooperation with the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

"Major League Baseball is pleased Burger King has joined our team," Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said. "We expect the 1979 competition to be the biggest and best yet."

Close Relationship

Commented Chris Schoenle, executive vice-president, director of marketing for Burger King Corporation: "For the past twenty-four years, Burger King has enjoyed a close and lasting relationship with the kids and families of America. Our new association with Pitch, Hit, & Run should extend that relationship greatly."

The more than 2,300 Burger King restaurants throughout the country are preparing for a larger-than-ever turnout for the competition, Mr. Schoenle said. Approximately 2.4 million children, aged nine through twelve, or 16.6 percent of the national total, are expected to compete this year.

Part of All-Star Festivities

Boys and girls can obtain Pitch, Hit, & Run registration forms at their local Burger King restaurant or recreation department. Competition continues through four levels of elimination until two contestants remain in each age bracket. The finals will be held as part of the All-Star Game festivities, July 17.

Each youngster competes in three categories: pitching at a target; hitting for distance; and running the base paths for speed.

Pitch, Hit, & Run competitions are conducted by the local participating recreation and park departments.

NEW NURSING HOME PLANNED FOR NORTH END

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has given tentative designation to the North End Community Health Center to develop a 140-bed, nursing home on a 22,000-square-foot parcel at the corner of Richmond and Fulton Streets. In recommending the tentative designation, BRA Director Robert J. Ryan said, "I want to state my firm support for a nursing home in the North End community. The Authority recognizes this need and is committed to working with the North End Community Health Center to submit a determination of need application to the State Department of Public Health by May 1, 1979, and otherwise to expedite the processing of this proposal."

The site on Richmond and Fulton Streets is presently used a parking lot for community residents. However, the present proposal for the nursing home would still allow for a portion of the site to provide parking for North End residents.

ONE SOLITARY LIFE

He was born in an obscure village the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in still another village, where he worked in a carpenter shop until he was thirty.

Then for three years—

He was itinerant preacher.

He never wrote a book.

He never held an office.

He never had a family or owned a house.

He didn't go to college.

He never visited a big city.

He never traveled two hundred miles from the place where he was born.

He did none of the things one usually associates with greatness.

He had no credentials but himself. He was only thirty-three when the tide of public opinion turned against him.

His friends ran away.

He was turned over to his enemies and went through the mockery of a trial.

He was nailed to a cross between two thieves.

While he was dying, his executioners gambled for his clothing, the only property he had on earth.

When he was dead,

He was laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

Nineteen centuries have come and gone, and today he is the central figure of the human race and the leader of mankind's progress.

All the armies that ever marched,
All the navies that ever sailed,
All the parliaments that ever sat,
All the kings that ever reigned, put together,

Have not affected the life of man on earth as much as that

One Solitary Life.

HAPPY EASTER.

CAB FARES REDUCED FOR ELDERLY AND HANDICAPPED

The Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court on March 23, affirmed Boston Police Commissioner Joseph M. Jordan's authority to provide Boston's elderly and handicapped taxicab passengers with a special 20 percent reduction on existing rates of fare for taxicabs.

The court's ruling stipulates that Commissioner Jordan may impose financial reporting obligations as a condition for hackney license renewal. Several taxicab companies throughout Boston brought suit against the commissioner, seeking an injunction against the 1976 special order.

The Supreme Court's ruling reverses an earlier decision of the Suffolk County Superior Court which ruled in favor of the taxicab companies and invalidated the commissioner's order.

Hailing the ruling as approval of his efforts to maintain decent and affordable taxicab fares in Boston, Commissioner Jordan stated the decision will enable him to further protect Boston's elderly and handicapped citizens from unnecessary and unwarranted personal expenses. "I don't think our actions are unfair to the taxi companies," noted the Commissioner, "since the 1976 order also mandated a general rate increase."

Commenting further on the portion of the ruling which affirms his authority to require submission of financial reports, the commissioner stated the ruling will allow him to gather the information necessary to make informed decisions regarding future requests for taxi rate increases.

GOLFERS, START SWINGING!

The Metropolitan District Commission has announced its two golf courses — Ponkapoag on Route 138 in Canton, and the Leo J. Martin off Route 128 in Weston — will open for the 1979 season on Wednesday, April 18, weather and ground conditions permitting.

Golfers may register at both courses to obtain seasonal memberships. The Ponkapoag office is open Monday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and on Saturday and Sunday each week until opening day, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., for such registrations. The office at the Martin course is open Monday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and Saturday, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., for the same purposes.

Annual membership fees are $150 for seven days a week, and $100 for Mondays through Fridays. For golfers sixty-five years of age and over, the seasonal fee is $75 for Mondays through Fridays, except for holidays. Daily green fees are $4 on weekdays, and $5 for Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays. The fee after 5 p.m. is $2. For golfers eighteen and under, and sixty-five and over, daily fees are $1.50 Mondays through Fridays, except for holidays. Locker rentals are $10.

The 1979 fees are the same as those at MDC courses for the past two years.

A season pass for either golf course is good for both of the courses.

SPECIAL PHOTOGRAPHY EXHIBIT IN CITY HALL

A unique exhibition of photography is being featured now through May 2, in Boston City Hall's Main Gallery. The exhibit will mark the first gathering of a wide variety of New England talent.

The ASMP, founded in 1944, has as its aims the establishing and affirming of standards of professional ethics and the fostering of artistic development among its members.

The exhibit will highlight photography of the day with emphasis on editorial, fashion, advertising, commercial, and fine arts photography.

"The Captured Image: An ASMP Exhibition," will be open to the public from Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

NEW BEACON HILL RESIDENT PARKING PROGRAM

Mayor Kevin H. White today announced a new Beacon Hill Resident Parking Program for car renters. Under the new pilot program, which began April 6, Beacon Hill residents who rent cars will be issued parking passes allowing them to park in areas designated as "Beacon Hill Resident Parking Only."

Under the current Resident Parking Program, Beacon Hill car owners are issued stickers allowing them to park in the resident parking zones. In addition, the program exempts residents from the two-hour parking limit in the areas designated as "Beacon Hill Visitor Parking." However, the sticker does not exempt residents from posted parking regulations, including restrictions for snow removal and street cleaning. The car rental program will follow the same guidelines.

"Under this new program the benefits of resident parking will now be available to those who live in the area but do not own cars and occasionally rent them," said Emily Lloyd, Commissioner of the Traffic and Parking Department.

Residents may obtain passes at the Beacon Hill Little City Hall located at 181 Tremont Street. Passes will be issued for daily rental vehicles for a maximum period of one month. A valid driver's license and lease or rental agreement must be presented with a Beacon Hill address on each. The Little City Hall is open 9 to 5, Monday through Friday. The telephone number is 725-4590.

When the Little City Hall is closed, passes may be obtained at the Mayor's 24-Hour Service, Room 113, entrance to Boston City Hall on Congress Street located at Dock Square. The telephone number is 725-4000.

MAYOR ANNOUNCES $63 MILLION NEIGHBORHOOD REVITALIZATION PROGRAM

Mayor Kevin H. White, on March 28, announced a $62.6-million Neighborhood Revitalization Program, emphasizing housing and commercial development, human services, and capital improvements.

The program is a result of extensive community input combined with the results of the recent Plesser Neighborhood Survey. Funding for the program's housing, commercial development, and human services components will be secured through the Department of Housing and Urban Development in the form of Community Development Block Grants totaling $24.9 million. The remainder of the funding for capital improvements will come from the city's Capital Budget.

"The Neighborhood Revitalization Program continues the city's major commitment to its neighborhoods, especially in the area of neighborhood economic development," Mayor White said. "The program is a direct response to the needs of each neighborhood as expressed by its people."

In the area of housing, the program places special emphasis on public housing improvements and services and expansion of the popular Housing Improvement Program's low-interest, loan program. Open-space lot cleanup is also targeted in the program.

Neighborhood commercial development will focus on assisting neighborhood businesses in restoration of property, such as storefronts, and loans for business development and expansion. The program will also address a wide range of economic and job-creating needs through the promotion of community-based, development organizations.

Major increases in neighborhood capital improvements are planned, keying on street improvement and construction, repair of public buildings, and improved lighting for residential streets.

A substantial commitment is made to community-based, human service agencies in the areas of elderly and youth services. Day care services for low-income residents will also increase.

The Neighborhood Revitalization Program is the result of forty neighborhood meetings and two, citizen's participation hearings to review performance and proposals. The proposal was submitted to the City Council on March 29, at a third public hearing for review and approval. Final approval of the program will come after a series of community meetings to be conducted by the City Council throughout the month of April.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT

Purchasing Division

Business Machines Rental

Dear Mr. Mayor:

It is requested that permission be granted me to dispense with publicly advertising for bids and award contracts, without advertising, for the leasing of rental of previously installed office business machines for the various city departments for the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979, to the following-named companies in the amounts not to exceed those indicated:

IBM Corporation, $310,000, net; Eastman Kodak, $130,000, net; Savin Business Machine Corporation, $25,000, net; Saxon Business Products, Inc., $12,000, net; Olivetti Corporation of America, $10,000, net; Pitney Bowes, $10,000, net; Spaulding Business Products, $10,000, net; Royal Typewriter Co., $5,000, net; Monroe Calculator Company, $5,000, net.

This office had planned to conduct a survey of the office equipment requirements of all city departments during FY 77-78 so that all machines could be grouped, by type and function to facilitate development of specifications for advertising for public bids. Due to lack of funds and personnel the survey could not be made. Another effort will be made this fiscal period. Until this is accomplished it is not feasible to invite public bids.

In the interim it will be necessary for the various city departments to retain the equipment presently leased or rented from the particular companies mentioned above. A complete list of the various types of equipment to be supplied by each company will be included in each contract. All companies are responsible companies. Prices are reasonable for this type of equipment. Total amounts are based on projected usages for the period indicated.

In my opinion the best interests of the city will be served by awarding contracts in the above manner.

Respectfully yours,
Eugene K. Welsh,
Acting Purchasing Agent.

Composition System

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your permission to award, without advertising, a contract for the leasing of the following Editwriter photocomposition systems for the city's Printing Section to Compugraphic Corporation of Wilmington, Mass., in the amount of $24,707.04, for the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979: two Editwriter 7500s; one Editwriter 7700; one 7200L; and two Editwriter 2750s; plus accessory equipment.

Prior to public bidding approximately fifteen months ago, we investigated available phototypesetting equipment and determined that the following features must be available on the selected system to meet the needs of our operation:

1. Computer-based, file-management system utilizing low-cost, floppy disc storage.
2. Secretarial shift keyboard for ease of operation and training.
3. Dedicated keys to eliminate complex coding. For the past thirty years the city Printing Section has been setting hot type. This was a completely new concept and the elimination of complex coding requiring long training times and less productivity was essential.
4. Simultaneous operation of keyboard and phototypesetter so 100 percent productivity would be realized in 60th — the input and output stages.
5. Tabbing — due to extensive forms work the system must have strong tabbing features.
6. CRT screen and scrolling in the counting mode — ability to work with large amounts of material and be able to see all line endings and hyphenation before final output, resulting in easy editing, less rekeyboarding, and minimal resetting.
7. Phototypesetter must have ability to set from 6 to 36-point type and have numerous type styles and sizes. On-line — must produce comparable quality as present method.
8. Wide variety of output materials available from numerous sources.
9. Training and service support.
10. Equipment cost.

Based on these requirements we investigated the following manufacturers of phototypesetting equipment who responded to the public invitation for bids: Addressograph-Multigraph Corporation, ITEK Corporation, Mergenthaler Linotype Corporation, and Compugraphic Corporation. Compugraphic was selected for the following reasons:

1. Computer-based file management — ITEK does not offer floppy disc storage, both A-M and Mergenthaler offer disc storage; however, they are not completely computer-based and are more complex in operation. Compugraphic offers the most productive and cost-effective method (i.e., disc costs were 50 percent less with Compugraphic).
2. Secretarial keyboard — offered by all equipment manufacturers.
3. Dedicated keys — Compugraphic was the only vendor offering this feature. All other manufacturers require complex codes to achieve typographic functions.
4. Simultaneous operation of keyboard and phototypesetter — Only Mergenthaler and Compugraphic offer this feature.
5. Tabbing — All manufacturers offered conventional tabbing capabilities but Compugraphic also offers automatic and floating tabs to allow for easy forms composition.

6. CRT screen and scrolling/counting — All manufacturers offer CRT screens. ITEK has only 256 character memory and all others at least 6,000 characters. Only Mergenthaler and Compugraphic offered scrolling/counting and hyphenation on the screen.

7. 6 to 36-point type styles — All manufacturers offered 6 to 36-point capability. A-M, ITEK, and Mergenthaler have four styles of type on-line, Compugraphic offered eight styles on-line.

8. Output materials — All vendors offered conventional type S and resin-coated papers. Compugraphic also offered film, pernapographic and duragraphic materials.

9. Training and service — All vendors offered training and service support. It should be mentioned that Compugraphic is headquartered in Wilmington, Mass., and all service and training would be provided directly from the factory.

10. Equipment cost — After careful evaluation of specifications needed from all manufacturers, Compugraphic offered the lowest price.

The Printing Section has been renting the Editwriter 7500s since October, 1977, as a result of a competitive bid award. After thorough evaluation of this equipment and competitive units since then, the Printing Section has determined the unique features offered by the Compugraphic Editwriter to be of the utmost importance to its production operation. This system has proven extremely productive and reliable and best suited to the needs of our typesetting department. Accordingly, it is my intention, subject to your approval, to enter into this lease with Compugraphic which offers the following advantages over the previous rental plan:

1. Lower monthly payments — We are currently spending $2,443.50 per month for installed equipment. By converting to a Municipal Lease, the new monthly cost will be $2,058.92.
2. Cancelable if restricted by fiscal funding requirements.
3. Ten percent buy-out at termination of lease.
4. We will install an additional Editwriter 7700 (Hi-Speed Model) and 7200L (Headline Phototypesetter) that are badly needed to meet growing production requirements and still save $384.58 per month over present costs. This will result in an annual saving of $4,614.96.
5. Based on this past year's rental payments, the city will realize a $9,652.84 credit as rental equity to be put on open account at Compugraphic Corporation to be used at the city's discretion.

Based on the facts above, and because the cost in my opinion is reasonable, I respectfully submit that it is in the best interest of the city to dispense with public advertising and award this contract to Compugraphic Corporation under the terms and conditions stated above.

Respectfully yours,
Eugene K. Welsh,
Acting Purchasing Agent.

AFFAIRS OF THE ELDERLY Crafts Program

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to the Boston Foundation, Inc., located at 1 City Hall Plaza, Boston, Mass., for the management of an elderly crafts project.

Under the terms of the contract, the contractor will maintain a crafts cart in various locations in the City of Boston, purchase materials and senior citizen craft labor, and dispense crafts designed and manufactured by the elderly of Boston.

Boston Foundation will make no profit or charge no administrative fee for its service. The foundation has successfully administered programs for senior citizens for years and has unique knowledge of Boston elderly groups and cultural activities.

Compensation under this contract shall not exceed $7,500. This is a reasonable amount to cover the costs involved in this project. The term of this contract shall be from September 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be performed and the reasonable cost of these services, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,
Elaine F. Guiney,
Commissioner.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT Repairing Sidewalls, CDBG

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The following building or structure has been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. This building or structure is a menace to the neighborhood. The location follows:

23 Highland Park Avenue, Ward 11.

Emergency bid submitted in bid box by 11 a.m., Monday, August 7, 1978, for the emergency repair of sidewalk — one copy to Auditing Department. Bid box was opened by the Office of Development and Construction. Water was seeping into side of wall making unsafe and dangerous conditions — a hazard to the occupants. Further deterioration had to be prevented.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 802, Acts of 1972, as amended, particularly section 124 thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to repair the sidewalks.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the sidewalk repairs of this building or structure.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

Donald Clancy and Sons, $14,800; James G. Grant Co., Inc., $11,500.

James G. Grant Co., Inc., 28 Wolcott Street, Readville, Mass., has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance, and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding, without advertising, as required in the City Charter, of a contract in the sum of $11,500, to James G. Grant Co., Inc., 28 Wolcott Street, Readville, Mass.

Very truly yours,
Francis W. Gens,
Building Commissioner.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The following buildings or structures have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings or structures are a menace to the neighborhood. The location follows:

13 West Cottage Street, Ward 8.

Emergency bid submitted in bid box by 11 a.m., Wednesday, September 6, 1978, for the emergency repair of sidewalk — one copy to Auditing Department. Bid box opened by Office of Development and Construction. This contract was awarded to prevent further seepage of water into walls and further deterioration brought on by hazardous weather conditions.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 802, Acts of 1972, as amended, particularly section 124 thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to repair the sidewalks.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the sidewalk repair of these buildings or structures.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

Donald Clancy and Sons, $9,100.

Donald Clancy and Sons, 339 Dorchester Street, South Boston, MA 02127, has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance, and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding, without advertising, as required in the City Charter, of a contract in the sum of $9,100, to Donald Clancy and Sons, 339 Dorchester Street, South Boston, MA 02127.

Very truly yours,
Richard L. Granara, Jr.,
For Building Commissioner.

Razing of Buildings, CDBG

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The following buildings or structures have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings are a menace to the neighborhoods. The locations follow:

44 Jones Avenue, Ward 14; 5 Elwyn Road, Ward 17.

Emergency bid submitted in bid box 11 a.m., September 6, 1978 — one copy to Auditing Department. Box opened by Office of Development and Construction. These buildings are in an unsafe and dangerous condition — a hazard to the general public. Fire-gutted buildings and collapsed walls present imminent danger.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 802, Acts of 1972, as amended, particularly section 124 thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to raze the buildings or structures.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the entire lot of buildings or structures, but to break down their bids to show the charge against each separate address. This breakdown is necessary for later departmental use in billing demolition costs incurred against the individual property owner of each house.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

James G. Grant Company, Inc., $8,700; Mystic Wrecking Company, Inc., $8,740; Napoli Wrecking Company, Inc., $9,200.

James G. Grant Company, Inc., 28 Wolcott Street, Readville, Mass., has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance, and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Bids for the individual buildings or structures were not requested because it would be a practical, physical impossibility for several different contractors to conduct efficient contracting operations simultaneously in individual buildings or structures. Under such conditions, there would be much mutual interference and each contractor would be exposed to severe hazards not under his control, by the operations of adjacent contractors. I also believe that the aggregate cost of individual bids would be much higher than the cost of one bid for the total buildings or structures to be demolished, and that handling the buildings or structures as one unit results in one administrative cost to the city rather than what would result from handling the individual buildings or structures as separate bids and contracts. Unit handling results, however, in this case in a contract price of over $2,000, or over the statutory limitations upon awards that can be made without advertising, unless your Honor approves the transaction.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding, without advertising, as required in the City Charter, of a contract in the sum of $8,700, to James G. Grant Company, Inc., 28 Wolcott Street, Readville, Mass.

Very truly yours,
Richard L. Granara, Jr.,
For Building Commissioner.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your permission to dispense with advertising in the City Record, and to award a contract to Innovation Associates, Framingham, Mass. The contract will be in the amount of $5,000, for the period of October 17, 1978, through December 15, 1978. Provision for this contract will be provided from Building Department funds. I have determined that the cost of this services is reasonable.

The purpose of this contract is to provide organization and management development consistent with implementation of an automated management information system (MIS) for the Building Department. Top Building Department management will use Innovation Associates to: set department goals and objectives; make better decisions; clarify internal responsibilities; and create workable relationships. Application of these skills enables the department to make the most productive and effective use of the MIS information.

The Building Department selected Innovation Associates in consultation with the Office of Management and Budget. Based on its management experience, OMB determined that no other firm offered the particular set of resources provided by Innovation Associates. The technical product offered by Innovation Associates uniquely combines technologies to build organizational and individual productivity with processes for attitudinal change. It has proved successful in such companies as Digital Equipment Corporation and Bose Corporation. Innovation Associates' cost is competitive with programs offered by other consulting firms and the American Management Association. In addition, OMB will provide technical assistance which reduces costs to the city by 25 percent. The program schedule is consistent with MIS implementation. Accordingly, Innovation Associates was selected for the implementation of an organization and management development program.

Therefore, for the reasons cited above, public advertising would not serve any useful or practical purpose.

Sincerely,

Francis W. Gens,
Commissioner.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

Psychological Screening Services

Dear Sir:

I respectfully request your Honor's approval to dispense with public bidding in the award of a contract to Russell Boxley, Ph.D., professor of psychology at Boston University, not to exceed $7,000, for a period of time commencing July 1, 1978, to September 1, 1978. The cost of this contract is fair and reasonable considering the type of expertise required.

The purpose of this contract is to provide for psychological screening of fire applicants. It is expected that approximately 100 candidates will be tested and evaluated, with follow-up interviews in selected cases, in order to select fifty recruits. This psychological examination will fill a definite need to the department and allow for a more accurate evaluation of potential fire fighters.

Dr. Boxley developed and performed a validation study of sixty Boston fire fighters, establishing standards for the psychological testing for fire fighter applicants. He consequently tested, screened, and evaluated ninety fire fighter applicants for probationary positions. The results of the testing and evaluating of these applicants have proven to be of tremendous value to the Fire Department in the selection of probationary fire fighters and will in the long run be a direct benefit to the citizens of Boston.

Dr. Boxley has had broad experience in dealing with similar situations. In addition to his experience with the Police and Fire Departments, his work with diverse cultural, racial, and ethnic backgrounds, provides him with the needed skills and insight. He was selected from a large number of qualified candidates.

Therefore, because of the unique services required to perform this contract and in light of the qualifications and prior service of Russell Boxley, Ph.D., it is believed that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully submitted,

George H. Paul,
Fire Commissioner.

EEPA

Language Program

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with the Cardinal Cushing Center, 1375 Washington Street, Boston, Mass. 02118, for the operation of an English as a Second Language (ESL) program for 244 Hispanic, CETA trainees selected from a CETA-designated significant segment of the economically disadvantaged citizens of Boston.

The contractor was selected pursuant to federal regulations by EEPA's Employment and Training Department after consultation with the Committee for Boston, which body serves as the CETA Prime Sponsor Planning Council, to provide employment and training services to those most in need through the continued funding of Title I contractors of demonstrated effectiveness (29 CFR 95.14).

Funds for this contract will be provided to the city through a federal government grant under Title I of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period October 1, 1978, through September 30, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $204,000.

Because this is a negotiated contract at a reasonable cost, consistent with federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 5.

Sincerely,

Erik C. Butler,
Acting Administrator.

Rehabilitation Project

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with the Salvation Army, 407 Shawmut Avenue, Boston, Mass. 02118, for the purpose of implementing the Alcoholism Rehabilitation Project. The program is designed to assess the treatment needs of elderly alcoholics living in Boston and develop some strategies for meeting these needs. In addition, seven City of Boston CETA Public Service Employment participants (PSE) will provide counseling services to 300 Boston residents suffering from alcoholism.

Funds for the operation of this contract will be provided to the City of Boston through a federal government grant under Title VI-B of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period August 15, 1978, through February 15, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $39,007. This request is retroactive because of a delay in the proposal and budget process. The project was selected through a competitive evaluation based on the following criteria:

1) The ability of the product to employ the unskilled, long-term unemployed; 2) the ability of the project to provide suitable training to CETA enrollees; 3) the ability of the project agency to offer unsubsidized employment to CETA enrollees upon completion of the project; 4) the project's value in addressing the unmet needs of the residents of Boston; 5) the ability of the agency to administer the project and supervise the enrollees.

Because the contractor was selected based on a competitive process, the reasonable cost involved, and since this contract conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 5.

Sincerely,

Erik C. Butler,
Acting Administrator.

Programs for Disadvantaged

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Third World Jobs Clearinghouse, 15 Worcester Street, Boston, Mass. 02118, to operate a CETA, Title I program during the federal fiscal year 1979. This program will provide job development services in the construction and building trades industries to a portion of the economically disadvantaged citizens of Boston.

The contractor was selected pursuant to federal regulations by EEPA's Employment and Training Department after consultation with the Committee for Boston, which body serves as the CETA Prime Sponsor Planning Council, to provide manpower services to those most in need through the continued funding of Title I contractors of demonstrated effectiveness (29 CFR 95.14).

Funds for this contract will be provided to the city through a federal government grant under Title I of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period October 1, 1978, through September 30, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $196,000.

Because this is a negotiated contract at a reasonable cost, consistent with federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 5.

Sincerely,
Erik C. Butler,
Acting Administrator.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Opportunities Industrialization Centers, Inc., 184 Dudley Street, Roxbury, Mass. 02119, to operate a CETA, Title I program during the federal fiscal year 1979. This program will provide classroom training, assessment services, and English as a Second Language (ESL) in Adult Basic Education for 815 CETA trainees selected from the economically disadvantaged population of the City of Boston.

The contractor was selected pursuant to federal regulations by EEPA's Employment and Training Department after consultation with the Committee for Boston, which body serves as the CETA Prime Sponsor Planning Council, to provide manpower services to those most in need through the continued funding of Title I contractors of demonstrated effectiveness (29 CFR 95.14).

Funds for this contract will be provided to the city through a federal government grant under Title I of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will be effective for the period October 1, 1978, through September 30, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $890,000.

Because this is a negotiated contract at a reasonable cost, consistent with federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 5.

Sincerely,
Erik C. Butler,
Acting Administrator.

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to contract with Action for Boston Community Development, Inc., 150 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass. 02111, to deliver a comprehensive program of CETA services under Titles, I, II, and III of the Act to economically disadvantaged residents of Boston. As the city's official anti-poverty agency, ABCD, Inc., was selected to operate these programs pursuant to federal regulations requiring that employment and training services be provided to those most in need through the continued funding of contractors of demonstrated effectiveness (29 CFR 95.14). Programs to be operated under contract include classroom training in Adult Basic Education (ABE) and English as a Second Language (ESL), work experience training, and assessment services for youth and adults.

Funds for the operation of these services will be provided to the city through federal grant under Titles I, II, and III of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The programs will operate from October 1, 1978, through September 30, 1979, at a total cost not to exceed $3,500,000.

Because this is a negotiated award at a reasonable cost that conforms to federal procurement requirements for CETA programs, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 5.

Sincerely,
Charles M. Atkins, Administrator.

One copy shall be filed at the office of the Commissioner, designated above, and the other copy shall be filed at the office of the City Auditor, City Hall, Boston, Mass. The bid deposit shall be in a separate envelope, plainly marked.

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the provisions of the contract documents, including, without limitation, the notice to all bidders (including subbidders) and the provisions with respect to bonds, insurance, equal employment opportunity, minimum wages, time of performance, liquidated damages, and the requirements set forth in the specifications on supplemental equal employment opportunity, antidiscrimination and affirmative action program contract provisions, and to the requirements of mandatory compliance with section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and Executive Order 11246. A statement of work-force needs as required by section 3 and a section 3 Affirmative Action Plan shall be submitted with the contractor's proposal. These are tables AAP-1—AAP-3 and form AAP-1 and can be found at pages ST1-ST7 of the contract documents. This requirement will be strictly adhered to. Proposals submitted without the required forms will be rejected. No bidder shall be eligible for award on this project unless he is able to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Awarding Authority his ability to comply with these requirements.

The contractor's attention is called to the "Equal Opportunity Clause" and "Standard Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Construction Contract Specifications" set forth in this part.

The goals and timetables for minority and female participation, expressed in percentage terms for the contractor's aggregate workforce in each trade on all construction work in the covered areas (see pages EEO-1 and EEO-2 of the bid specifications for goals and timetables).

These goals are applicable to all the contractor's construction work (whether or not it is federal or federally assisted) performed in the covered areas.

As covered in this notice, and in the contract, the covered area is Arlington, Boston, Belmont, Brookline, Burlington, Cambridge, Canton, Chelsea, Dedham, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Milton, Norwood, Reading, Revere, Somerville, Stoneham, Wakefield, Westwood, Winthrop, Winchester, Woburn, and the Islands of Boston Harbor, Massachusetts.

No bid for the award of this project will be considered acceptable unless the contractor complies fully with the following requirements for Minority Business Enterprise Utilization.

Pursuant to the minority participation section of the City of Boston contract, the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least 10 percent of his bid price shall be expended for minority business enterprise. For the purposes of this paragraph, the term minority business enterprise means a business at least 50 percent of which is owned and controlled by minority group members or, in the case of a publicly owned business, at least 51 percent of the stock is owned by minority group members who are Black, Hispanic, Oriental, or American Indians.

Included with the contract documents are copies of the "Minority Business Utilization Form," "Minority Business Identification Statement," "Minority Business Utilization Progress Report," and the "Minority Business and the General Contractor's Letter of Intent."

Each contractor must complete, sign, and file with his bid the Minority Business Utilization Form. Failure to do so will result in the rejection of the bid proposal. The three lowest responsive bidders are required to submit a minority business and general contractor's letter of intent. The letter of intent shall be completed and signed by the minority business enterprise and the general contractor within five days after the time set for receiving bids. At the request of the city, one or more of the three lowest bidders may also be required to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement.

The contractor's compliance with the Executive Order and the regulations in the 41 CFR Part 60-4 shall be based on its implementation of the Equal Opportunity Clause, specific affirmative action obligations required to meet the goals established for the geographical area where the contract is to be performed.

The hours of minority and female employment and training must be substantially uniform throughout the length of the contract in each trade, and the contractor shall make a good-faith effort to employ minorities and women evenly on its projects.

The transfer of minority or female employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's goals shall be a violation of the contract, the Executive Order, and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4. Compliance with the goals will be measured against the total workhours performed.

Contractors shall also avail themselves of the list of minority businesses to be provided by the city through the Office of Minority Business Enterprise to facilitate compliance with these requirements.

No bidder may withdraw his bid within thirty days after the actual date of the opening thereof. The rate per hour of the wages to be paid to mechanics, chauffeurs, and laborers in the work to be performed under the contract shall not be less than the rate of wages in the schedule determined by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries of the Commonwealth, a copy of which schedule is annexed to the form of contract referred to herein. Copies of said schedule may be obtained, without cost, upon application therefor at the office of the Commissioner.

Specifications and other contract documents may be obtained at the office of the Commissioner at and after 9 a.m., Boston time, Monday, April 9, 1979, upon the deposit of cash or a certified check, payable to the City of Boston, for $5 per set of specifications. The full amount of the deposit will be refunded upon the return of all documents in good condition, within thirty days after the opening of the bids (Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded).

The successful bidder will be required to provide by insurance for the payment of compensation and the furnishing of other benefits under the Workmen's Compensation Law, General Laws (Ter. Ed.), chapter 152, to all persons to be employed under the contract, and sufficient proof of compliance with the foregoing stipulation will be required before commencing performance of this contract.

A performance bond and also a labor and materials or payment bond, each of a surety company qualified to do business under the laws of the Commonwealth and satisfactory to the Commissioner and in the sum of 100 percent of the contract price, as well as certain public liability and property damage insurance will be required of the successful general contractor.

The Commissioner reserves the right to waive any informalities and to reject any and all bids if it be in the public interest so to do.

PATRIOTS' DAY, APRIL 19 — 204th ANNIVERSARY

The shot heard round the world

Less than a month after Edmund Burke urged Parliament to keep the peace, Great Britain and its American colonists were at war. The first shots of the American Revolution were fired at Lexington, Massachusetts, where British troops marching toward Concord attacked the American Minutemen.

Briefly, this is how the fighting started. At Boston, British General Gage secretly ordered soldiers to destroy war materials which the colonists had stored at nearby Concord. He also commanded his men to seize Samuel Adams and John Hancock, two members of the Massachusetts Committee of Correspondence, who were staying in Lexington.

However, when General Gage's secret was discovered on the night of April 18, 1775, three colonists, Paul Revere, William Dawes, and Dr. Samuel Prescott, rode through the towns and villages west of Boston, warning the people that the "British are coming!" and called the Minutemen to arms.

Paul Revere roused Adams and Hancock at Lexington, and they fled from the town. On the westward road both Revere and Dawes got by the British patrols, but only Prescott got through to warn the Concord residents. At dawn on April 19, 1775, the British troops marched through Lexington toward Concord.

Minutemen faced them on the village green at Lexington, but did not attempt to halt their march. Nevertheless, the British fired at the Minutemen, and eight Americans were killed.

At Concord the British soldiers destroyed the colonists' supplies, but now the Minutemen were ready. At North Bridge, in Concord, a battle began which will be remembered in our country's history. There, approximately 450 Minutemen met the British force, and the battle ensued.

Finally the enemy broke ranks and hastily retreated. All the way back to Boston the battle raged. From behind stone walls, fences, and trees colonists from the towns along the way fired at the retreating British soldiers. At sunset the weary British column reached Boston at last. Of the 700 soldiers who set out that morning 273 were killed, wounded, or captured. The war with the British had begun!

Boston Massacre Site

At this site, on March 5, 1770, a British guard of nine soldiers clashed with an unruly mob, resulting in the death of five colonists — including Crispus Attucks, an early black patriot. From here a side trip through Government Center to Cambridge Street brings you to the Bulfinch-designed Harrison Gray Otis House and Old West Church.

Faneuil Hall

Built by Peter Faneuil for the city in 1742, this hall has been a meeting and marketplace ever since. Town meetings here were so active that John Adams named it "the Cradle of Liberty." Enlarged by Bulfinch in 1806, the hall now houses the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company on the third floor. From here to Paul Revere's House you will pass Samuel Adams' statue, the Boston Stone (for measuring distance, it's the heart of Boston) and the Ebenezer Hancock House at 10 Marshall Street.

Paul Revere House

Built in 1676, this is the oldest standing structure in downtown Boston. Paul Revere owned the house from 1770 to 1800 and left its doors on December 16, 1773, for the Boston Tea Party and on April 18, 1775, for his historic ride to Lexington and Concord.

Old North Church, Christ Church

Built in 1723, "Old North," or Christ Church, in Boston is the city's oldest standing church. On April 18, 1775, two lanterns hung from the steeple signalled to patriots across the river that the British were on their way to Concord "by sea." (Nearby are Paul Revere Mall and St. Stephen's Church, the only surviving Bulfinch church in Boston.)

BOSTON'S FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

Twenty-eighth Mayor HUGH O'BRIEN 1885-1888

Hugh O'Brien served four terms as mayor, from 1885 to 1888. He was born in Ireland, July 13, 1827, and came to this country while a child. He went to the public schools, but left at the age of twelve to earn his living in newspaper work and publishing and later entered politics, where he served almost continuously from 1875 to 1883 on the Board of Aldermen. He was a strong advocate of public parks, and a powerful argument of his caused the city to acquire the Franklin Park land in West Roxbury, the Back Bay land, and the large tract at City Point. Always a champion of the laboring classes, he was most potent in passing ordinances regulating the pay of men working for city contractors. He endeavored to limit the municipal expenditures, so that the amount to be raised by taxes would be greatly decreased. During his four terms as mayor, he showed great concern in making the necessary changes in offices and in controlling the expenses made by changes in business methods. After retiring from the mayoralty, he was appointed by Mayor Matthews to the Board of Survey for planning streets. He died on August 1, 1895.

Twenty-ninth Mayor THOMAS N. HART 1889-1890 1900-1901

Thomas Norton Hart was the twenty-ninth mayor of Boston, serving in 1889 and 1890 and again in 1900 and 1901. Mr. Hart was born in Reading, January 20, 1829, and after a country school education, came to Boston, a penniless boy, to seek his fortune. He acquired a competency in mercantile business, and became president of the Mount Vernon National Bank. From 1879 to 1881 he was a member of the Common Council, and in 1882, 1885, and 1886 a member of the Board of Aldermen. He was four times defeated for mayor, and three times elected. As alderman, he opposed the granting of a franchise to the Bay State Gas Company "to enter the streets of Boston for the sole purpose of making money." While mayor, he attended strictly to his duty, seeing that the streets were swept, the city's finances were put into systematic shape. He opposed the extinction of the City Council in 1897, and also acts of the legislature which allowed the city to incur further debts, believing, however, that money should be spent for necessary work, such as paving streets, sewers, water department needs, and schools. Thinking that business should come before sentiment, he fought excessive expenditures for parks. He advocated building a subway, but not with city funds.

Thirtieth Mayor NATHAN MATTHEWS, JR. 1891-1894

Nathan Matthews, Jr., Boston's thirtieth mayor, was a native of Boston. He was born March 28, 1854, educated at Harvard, also studied in Germany, and received from the Harvard Law School an LL.D. He was a lecturer on municipal government at Harvard.

Entering politics early in life as a Democrat, he was elected mayor four times, receiving at his second election the largest majority given any mayor up to that time. He opposed Mayor Hart's suggestion that the tax and debt limit be increased, and during his term of office stood for economy and efficiency in the management of public affairs. He reduced the number of executive departments; brought the street departments into closer relations thereby effecting economy; systemized street cleaning; brought the ferries under one head, and wire inspectors under the Fire Department. Many schoolhouses were erected, and the Tremont Street subway built. His whole course as mayor was opposed to laxity or corruption in city management. He was first chairman of the Boston Finance Commission in 1907-09.

MBTA ORDERS MAGNETIC PASSES, PASS READERS

By April 1, 1980, MBTA passholders will be using a magnetic stripe pass to go through fare collection turnstiles at rapid transit and streetcar subway stations.

A contract award to Electron, Inc., of San Diego, California, to furnish a card-activated, access-entry, control system at a cost of $546,664 was authorized on March 26, by the Board of Directors. The system is designed to eliminate fare evasion.

Under the contract, Electron will provide 358,800 magnetic passes and 210 pass readers that will be mounted on top of existing turnstiles at the various rapid transit and streetcar subway stations. The pass reader will be motivated to allow the rider through the turnstile when he/she slides the pass through a slot. At no time will the pass leave the passholder's hand.

Each station will have a minimum of two pass readers, but the busiest stations will have more than two.

A prototype pass reader will be delivered in four months for testing.

Electron, Inc., submitted the lowest of four bids that were publicly opened on February 22 for the federally aided program.

CIVIL SUITS STATUTE

New procedure established for Negligence Claims against cities and towns and their employees.

A new statute passed by the state legislature this past summer substantially changes the legal liability of the City of Boston — and of its employees — in civil suits arising out of municipal activities. With the enactment of St. 1978, c. 512, Massachusetts became one of the last states to abandon the long-standing doctrine of municipal immunity.

Under the municipal immunity doctrine, dating back to early English legal theory under which the king could not be sued, cities and towns were generally not liable to law suits based upon negligent acts of their employees causing personal injury or property damage. The employees, on the other hand, were liable for such acts, even though they were acting on behalf of the municipality at the time of the incident. For example, if an employee of the Public Works Department caused an accident while driving a department truck during working hours, a person injured in the accident could not obtain compensation by suing the City of Boston. He or she could, however, sue the employee/driver personally. The city had the legal right, but no obligation, to reimburse the employee in most circumstances.

Under the new claims procedure set up by St. 1978, c. 512, cities and towns are made directly liable — up to a statutory limit of one hundred thousand dollars — for the negligent acts of their employees. The employees are not primarily liable. So long as they meet certain conditions, they are protected from suits arising out of negligent acts occurring in the scope of their employment.

The primary condition employees must meet in order to avoid personal liability is cooperation in the defense of any suit against the city or town based on the negligent act. Employees must cooperate with their departments and city attorneys in preparing the case. For example, employees must provide information about the incident, help attorneys in answering discovery requests, and appear for interviews and to testify in the action. If the employee fails to provide such "reasonable cooperation" he or she may be personally liable for part or all of any judgment obtained by the injured party.

An important limit on the scope of the new claims act is that it applies only to negligent acts. Employees, and not the city or town, are still directly liable for "intentional torts" such as assault, battery, false arrest, malicious prosecution, and libel. Municipal employers do have the authority, but it is not an obligation, to reimburse an employee for a judgment in a suit based on an intentional act; however, employers may not reimburse employees who acted in a "grossly negligent, willful or malicious manner."

The new law will radically change municipal negligence law in Massachusetts. It will provide a vehicle for direct compensation of injured parties by cities and towns, and provide protection for employees from personal liability when they act on their employers' behalf, subject to reasonable conditions and exceptions.

NEW HOME BUYERS: TAKE NOTE

Marketing Campaign Begins in Eastern Massachusetts

New home buyers in this area will soon be learning a lot more about the ten-year, home-buyer protection plan, Home Owners Warranty (HOW).

The national HOW Corporation in Washington, D.C., has selected Eastern Massachusetts as the site of a comprehensive marketing campaign and is providing the funds for an intensified newspaper and radio advertising campaign currently in operation. In addition to advertising, the Eastern Massachusetts HOW council is planning a registration drive to attract non-HOW builders in order to make the HOW plan's unique protection available to as many home buyers as possible.

The HOW program is a combination warranty, warranty insurance, and insurance against major structural defects provided by participating builders on their new homes. Builders register with the program through local HOW councils, such as the one in Eastern Massachusetts, which are licensed by the national HOW Corporation to administer the program. Nationally, 110 councils have registered over 11,700 builders who have enrolled over 450,000 home in the program.

Under HOW, during the first year of the plan, participating builders offer their buyers a warranty on workmanship, materials, and structure of the home. In the second year, the builders warrant the heating and cooling, plumbing, and electrical systems and again, the structure of the home. For the next eight years a national insurance company, INA Underwriters Insurance Company, insures the house against major structural defects.

INA Underwriters Insurance Company also backs up the builder's warranty during the first two years, if for any reason he cannot or will not meet his warranty obligations. During the ten-year period, the coverage is transferable to all subsequent owners of the home.

"One of the major reasons we chose Eastern Massachusetts as the site of one of our campaigns is because of the strong support the area's home builders have demonstrated in the past," says Robert Reid, president of the national HOW Corporation. According to Reid, the Eastern Massachusetts HOW council has been operating for a little more than a year, and builders have supported the program from the beginning.

Richard G. Lind, president of the Eastern Massachusetts HOW council, adds, "Our builders have supported this concept of voluntary, industry self-regulation from the outset. In fact, our HOW council has screened and registered 20 percent of the area's builders."

Lind went on to say, "We think this marketing activity is going to have a substantial impact on the availability of HOW in our area."

MAYOR FIGHTS TO RETAIN GILBERT STUART PAINTINGS

In 1831, through public subscription, the people of the City of Boston purchased two paintings that immediately became our most prized cultural and historical treasures: the portraits by Gilbert Stuart of George and Martha Washington. They have been in the MFA since 1876.

Today, those paintings, as the press both locally and nationally has written, are the most important historical portraits ever painted in this country.

But our city was shocked recently to learn that the Boston Athenaeum has plans to sell these portraits to the Smithsonian Institution.

I am here right now to announce that we will not tolerate the sale of part of this city's birthright. This transaction is as absurd as the Louvre trying to sell the Mona Lisa to the Arabs, as the Globe editorial said on April 5.

The Smithsonian should be put on notice right now that the priceless historic treasures of this city will not be auctioned off to the highest bidder. For the business and cultural leadership of this area to allow this sale is not only an embarrassment, but a stain on our heritage that could never be removed.

I know that remorse and that hand-wringing will solve nothing. So I have taken the following steps:

— I have ordered the corporation counsel to initiate a suit to restrain the consummation of any transaction between the Athenaeum, the MFA, and the Smithsonian that will allow these portraits to leave the city.

— I have talked to Jim Ames of the Athenaeum and have asked him to enter into discussions with Deputy Mayor Jim Young to investigate the avenues available to eliminate the financial necessity of this transaction.

— Through Deputy Mayor Kathy Kane, I have instructed the Landmarks Commission to discover all steps we can take as a city to keep these paintings. I spoke with Charles Blitzer from the Smithsonian Institute, and he agreed to fly to Boston on April 9, to review this issue in my office with Howard Johnson, Jim Ames, and myself.

All these acts are designed to make one thing clear: that I will do anything within my power to keep what rightfully belongs to the people of Boston. To lose these paintings by plunder would be something that generations of Bostonians would suffer for, and now is the time to act to prevent this potentially tragic loss.

Charles Lamb once wrote:

"The city is the flower of civilization. It gives to men the means to make their lives expressive. It offers a field of battle, and it could be made a livable place if its sons would stand and fight for it instead of running away."

We have begun one such fight.

NEW PARKING FACILITY

Construction has started on a 600-car, parking garage on Clinton Street, adjacent to the Faneuil Hall Marketplace.

The garage is being constructed on a parcel of land previously owned by the Boston Redevelopment Authority and is part of the BRA's Waterfront Urban Renewal Project.

The six-story garage, which will cost $4 million to construct, occupies a triangular-shaped site consisting of 57,000 square feet of land, and bounded by Clinton Street, North Street, and the Central Artery.

BRA Director Robert J. Ryan said, "I am extremely pleased that this project is under construction. This facility is needed to accommodate the thousands of people who visit the Faneuil Hall Marketplace each day. A facility of this kind makes it much more convenient to visit the Marketplace and other shops and stores in our downtown."

Developers of the garage are Dock Square Associates, with Edward Fish and James Sullivan as general partners. The firm has been responsible for residential developments in the waterfront area and in East Boston, the South End, and Allston-Brighton.

Desmond and Lord is the architect for the project.

RECONSTRUCTION PLANNED FOR HUNTINGTON AVENUE

The MBTA will pay up to $2.4 million as its share of the cost of reconstructing one mile of Huntington Avenue, including widening of the median reservation, from the subway portal at Northeastern University to Brigham Circle. In addition, the MBTA will spend about $1.7 million to replace tracks, ties, and the power system within the reservation.

The MBTA's share of the cost of the state Department of Public Works project is provided for in an interagency agreement with the MDPW approved today by the MBTA Board of Directors. MBTA funds are available under the federally aided Green Line Improvements Program.

A supplemental federal aid application will be filed this spring with the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) to cover the cost of replacement bus service between Northeastern and Arborway for eight months, starting on April 1, 1980.

The joint MDPW/MBTA project includes the complete reconstruction of roadways, curbs, sidewalks, platforms, and transit shelters, installation of lighting and signalling that will give streetcars the right-of-way at intersections, and the relocation of utilities.

The streetcar median reservation will be widened from 25 feet to a width varying between 32 and 41 feet, thereby eliminating very hazardous conditions that exist at Huntington Avenue transit stops. The present seven stops will be reduced to four to further improve Green Line operations.

VETERAN'S RETIREMENTS

The Boston Retirement Board has approved the following veterans' applications for retirement.

Edward V. Burke, 194 Taylor Street, Wollaston, Police Officer, District 4, Police Department.

POLICE DEPARTMENT PROMOTIONS

Boston Police Officers Laura D. McCottrell, Mildred V. Gardner, George W. Bishop, and Carl Washington were promoted on March 26, to the rank of detective by Boston Police Commissioner Joseph M. Jordan.

Officer McCottrell, a February, 1975, appointee to the department, is a former resident of Roxbury presently assigned to Boston Police District 3, where she serves as a juvenile officer. A native of Mississippi, Officer McCottrell completed her field training at District 11 and has served briefly with the Boston Police Housing Patrol Unit.

Her recent cooperation with fellow officers in the apprehension of a suspect wanted for a Boston homicide has been termed "most valuable" by superior officers.

Officer Gardner was appointed to the Boston Police on February 5, 1975, and presently serves as the juvenile officer assigned to Boston Police District 2. Like her colleague, Officer McCottrell, Officer Gardner has received extensive training in Problems of Juvenile Delinquency, Child Abuse and Neglect, Advanced Drug Education and Rape Victimology. All training courses were administered by the Massachusetts Criminal Justice Training Council.

Officer George W. Bishop, presently assigned to District 2 as a juvenile specialist, joined the Boston Police Department on October 7, 1970. The thirty-eight-year-old Dorchester resident is a former resident of 40 McClellan Street in Roxbury and formerly served as a member of the department's Tactical Patrol Force.

A 1960 graduate of Boston English High School, Officer Bishop is a veteran of the U.S. Navy. Prior to his appointment to the department, he served as an electronics technician with the Boston Naval Shipyard.

Officer Carl Washington is a resident of 29 Montrose Street in Roxbury. Presently assigned to District 2, Officer Washington is a former member of the department's Drug Control Unit. A 1963 graduate of Brighton High School, he is a former student at Bunker Hill Community College.

CHECKING CAR POLLUTION

The rising price of gasoline could curb car travel and air pollution. But rising gas prices may be having an opposite effect.

Recent studies have shown that a growing number of drivers are destroying the catalytic converters on their cars by using regular gas instead of the unleaded type such converters require. Not only are the converters disabled as a result, but the increase in pollutants from the exhaust is staggering. Carbon monoxide, hydrocarbon, and nitrogen oxides shoot up by 200 to 1,100 percent.

If the disparity in prices of the two types of gas increases, even more drivers will be tempted to use the unleaded variety, according to the findings of a study done by the Environmental Protection Agency. Some experts have suggested to the EPA that the retail price differential between the two types of gases be removed.

In a pamphlet issued by the American Lung Association, "Get a Checkup for Your Car," the effects of pollution on the lungs are described and ways to curb pollution from car exhaust are outlined. One of the recommendations is to use gasoline octane and oil grade specified by the car manufacturer. Other suggestions to save gas include: accelerate modestly and drive at a steady pace; coast to stops instead of slamming the brakes; don't let the engine idle for more than a minute.

The Christmas Seal booklet also recommends that tire pressure be checked regularly since 2 percent in fuel is lost for every pound of pressure under the recommended amount.

To find out more about curbing pollution, contact the American Lung Association of Boston — the Christmas Seal People. It's a matter of life and breath.

"BRIGHT EYES" EXPANDED TO INCLUDE TUESDAYS

When Mrs. G. signed up for a free eye examination at Boston City Hospital as a participant in the Bright Eyes program she had no idea that doctors would uncover a serious vision problem. With an early diagnosis and treatment of her problem Mrs. G.'s sight was saved.

Co-sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, the Department of Health and Hospitals, and the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Blindness, the program has just expanded by adding a Tuesday clinic. "This important addition to the Bright Eyes program enables us to see many more elder citizens," Mayor Kevin H. White announced. "Bright Eyes provides a most-needed service to thousands of older Bostonians by saving sight for some and restoring vision for others," he explained.

You can take advantage of the Bright Eyes program if you are a resident of Boston, fifty-five years or older, who is not currently under the care of your own eye doctor or clinic. On Tuesdays and Wednesdays, groups of seniors organized by neighborhood are transported free of charge to and from Boston City Hospital for initial screening. Individuals with diagnosed problems return to the hospital at a later date for a follow-up examination.

Any group or individual interested in the Bright Eye's free eye examination or any other programs offered by the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly should contact the Mayor's Elderly Hotline at 722-4646.

Did you know that one out of every two Americans wears glasses — which just goes to show you how important ears are.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

General Order No. 20

I. COPLEY PLAZA AND SHERATON-BOSTON HOTEL FIRES

The Fire Commissioner is pleased to commend all officers and members of this department for the outstanding demonstration of courage and professionalism demonstrated on the night tour of March 28, 1979.

The prospect of this department coping with two major hotel fires almost simultaneously is almost beyond comprehension. The command decisions that were made at the scene of both fires quickly mobilized the resources necessary to cope with them.

The courage, tenacity, and professionalism demonstrated by the companies responding were unsurpassed in the history of this department. There is little doubt that there were many individual acts of heroism at these fires that resulted in the saving of an untold number of lives, thereby averting a tragedy and great human suffering. Unfortunately, due to the scope of operations, these deeds will not receive the public recognition they richly deserve. Each member of this department that responded to these fires can take pride in the knowledge of a job well done.

The diligent work of the members of the Fire and Police Departments involved in the arson investigation, which was brought to a successful conclusion, is to be highly commended.

II. LETTERS OF THANKS

"March 30.

Dear Commissioner Paul:

I wish to express my congratulations to you and the members of the Boston Fire Department for the outstanding manner in which they performed their duties during the fire at the Sheraton-Boston early yesterday morning.

The dedication and efficiency of the firemen at the scene made it possible for the 1,000 guests occupying the North Tower of the hotel to be evacuated safely and we at Sheraton are deeply grateful.

Please accept my sincere thanks on behalf of our guests, our employees, and the entire community which you have so effectively served.

Cordially,

Howard P. James,

Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer, The Sheraton Corporation."

Dear Commissioner Paul:

"March 31.

On behalf of our Manager, Mr. Michael D. Welly, our entire staff, and myself, I want to express our deepest appreciation and congratulations for the outstanding performance of the Boston Fire Department during Thursday's tragic fire.

The high professionalism and total dedication of your people was evident throughout the night. Their action contributed to the orderly evacuation of over 1,000 guests from our North Tower and the effective containment of the blaze to the second level of the hotel.

The citizens of our city are fortunate to have a Fire Department which represents the highest traditions of public service.

Sincerely,

Thomas F. Hewitt,

Vice-President and General Manager, Sheraton-Boston Hotel."

"March 30.

Dear Commissioner Paul:

I didn't want any more time to go by without letting you know how much we, at John Hancock, appreciated the tremendous effort put forth by the Boston Fire Department in containing and putting out the fire at our Copley Plaza Hotel this past Thursday. Our executive management people have asked me to thank you personally and all of the very dedicated fire fighters for a job exceedingly well done.

Alan Tremain tells me that your people performed in an outstanding manner with courage and dedication to duty. Many lives and a great deal of property were saved in what could have easily been a complete disaster. We salute all of your good people.

Sincerely,

John A. Worthen,

Vice-President, John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company."

NOTICE OF REQUIREMENT FOR AFFIRMATIVE ACTION TO ENSURE EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY (EXECUTIVE ORDER 11246).

The contractor's attention is called to the "Equal Opportunity Clause" and "Standard Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Construction Contract Specifications" set forth in this part.

The goals and timetables for minority and female participation, expressed in percentage terms for the contractor's aggregate workforce in each trade on all construction work in the covered areas, (See pages EEO-1 and EEO-2 of the bid specifications for goals and timetables).

These goals are applicable to all the contractor's construction work (whether or not it is federal or federally assisted) performed in the covered areas.

As used in this notice, and in the contract, the covered area is Arlington, Boston, Belmont, Brookline, Burlington, Cambridge, Canton, Chelsea, Dedham, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Milton, Norwood, Reading, Revere, Somerville, Stoneham, Wakefield, Westwood, Winthrop, Woburn, and the Islands of Boston Harbor, Massachusetts.

The contractor's compliance with the Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4 shall be based on its implementation of the Equal Opportunity Clause, specific affirmative action obligations required to meet the goals established for the geographical area where the contract is to be performed.

The hours of minority and female employment and training must be substantially uniform throughout the length of the contract in each trade, and the contractor shall make a good-faith effort to employ minorities and women evenly on each of its projects.

The transfer of minority or female employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's goals shall be a violation of the contract, the Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR part 60-4. Compliance with the goals will be measured against the total workhours performed.

No bid for the award of this project will be considered acceptable unless the contractor complies fully with the following requirements for Minority Business Enterprise Utilization.

Pursuant to the minority participation section of the City of Boston contract, the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least 10 percent of his bid price shall be expended for minority business enterprise. For the purposes of this paragraph, the term minority business enterprise means a business at least 50 percent of which is owned and controlled by minority group members or, in the case of a publicly owned business, at least 51 percent of the stock is owned by minority group members who are Black, Hispanic, Oriental, or American Indians.

Included with the contract documents are copies of the "Minority Business Utilization Form," "Minority Business Identification Statement," "Minority Business Utilization Progress Report," and the "Minority Business and the General Contractor's Letter of Intent."

Each contractor must complete, sign, and file with his bid the minority business utilization form. Failure to do so will result in the rejection of the bid proposal. The three lowest responsive bidders are required to submit a minority business and general contractor's letter of intent. The letter of intent shall be completed and signed by the minority business enterprise and the general contractor within five days after the time set for receiving bids. At the request of the city one or more of the three lowest bidders may also be rendered to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement.

Contractors shall also avail themselves of the list of minority Businesses to be provided by the city through the Office of Minority Business Enterprise to facilitate compliance with these requirements.

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the provisions of the contract documents including, with limitation, the notice to all bidders (including subbidders), and the provisions with respect to bonds, insurance, equal employment opportunity, minimum wages, time of performance, liquidated damages, and the requirements set forth in the specifications on supplemental equal employment opportunity anti-discrimination and affirmative action program contract provisions, and to the requirements of mandatory compliance with section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and Executive Order 11246. A statement of workforce needs as requested by section 3 and a section 3 affirmative action plan shall be submitted with the contractor's proposal. A section 3 affirmative action plan consists of tables AAP-1 to AAP-3 and forms AAP-1 and AAP-2 and can be found at pages ST1-ST7 of the contract documents. This requirement will be strictly adhered to. Proposals submitted without the required forms will be rejected. No bidder shall be eligible for award on this project unless he is able to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Awarding Authority his ability to comply with these requirements. All prospective bidders will be required to attend a prebid conference prior to submitting a bid. The time and place will be announced.

MAYOR'S OLDER BOSTONIANS OUTREACH PROGRAM

The Outreach Project is a pilot program aimed at enabling elderly Bostonians to live healthier and more independent lives by breaking the cycle of loneliness and isolation which can sometimes exist for elderly. The program, which is administrated through the Department of Health and Hospitals and the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, is a $1.3-million effort which will also provide CETA-funded employment to approximately 160 persons, 80 percent of whom will be sixty or older.

The program is designed to provide access to social and health services and information through home visits and case assessments. Initial target areas for the program are Allston-Brighton and South End-Fenway-Back Bay. Approximately 20,000 elderly, aged sixty-five and over, reside in these neighborhoods. The program is viewed as a supplement to the existing city and private agency services, and will serve to coordinate existing services through information and referral procedures.

The goals of the program are:

- provide early systematic and effective intervention against loneliness and isolation in the targeted neighborhoods;

- provide opportunities for involvement and employment for the vigorous elderly in these neighborhoods;

- provide a coordinated link between health and social services agencies; and

- provide employment and training opportunities for CETA eligible workers.

The program's 160 CETA Title II workers will function as Intake/Referral/Client Monitors and Elderly Service Workers to visit the elderly in their homes. Their functions will be:

- Intake Assessment to determine the level of need through a carefully designed survey. That survey will allow program specialists to develop a service plan to meet the specific elderly needs. If medical follow-up is necessary, public health nurses will visit the client;

- Information and Referral for services provided by other agencies;

- Social Contact and Reassurance in the form of friendly visits and telephone calls;

- Escort Services to and from medical appointments, to grocery shop, visit friends, etc.

"Bright Eyes" Program

Boston residents, fifty-five years or older, are eligible for free complete eye examinations through the city's "Bright Eyes" program.

That program, which has screened nearly 5,000 elderly, referring 2,000 of them for follow-up care since its inception in 1971, will be expanded under the Mayor's Older Bostonian Program, by 50 percent.

The program, which had screened twenty-five senior citizens weekly, will be increasing its case load to add another day of free eye exams for the city's elderly.

The expanded program, the total cost of which would be $66,000, will utilize an already scheduled session of the city's Eye Clinic on Tuesday.

Bright Eyes provides for a free initial vision check, and subsequent needed visits on a regular fee basis. The Mass. Society for the Prevention of Blindness and the Elderly Af-

BOSTON'S FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

Thirty-first Mayor EDWIN U. CURTIS 1895

The thirty-first mayor of Boston, Edwin Upton Curtis, who served from 1895 to 1896, was born March 26, 1861, in Roxbury. His father, an ex-alderman of Boston, was one of the picturesque characters of the city, always wearing a blue coat with brass buttons. Mr. Curtis graduated from Bowdoin College, and was admitted to the bar. Entering politics early, he held several offices, serving as city clerk of Boston, secretary of the Republican City Committee, mayor of Boston, assistant United States treasurer at Boston, collector of customs for the Port of Boston, and also as a member of the Metropolitan Park Commission.

In his inaugural he advocated the importance of special financial provision for educational buildings and facilities, the desirability of a board of election commissioners, the policy of having special examinations of the city's financial system and resources, and the making of provisions for public parks and other needs. All election machinery was placed in the control of a board of election commissioners, composed of four men, two from each great political party. His whole administration was characterized by a regulation of expense.

fairs Commission share the cost of providing free transportation to groups which have registered for the screening.

Adult Day Care — South Boston

The Adult Care Program will be housed in the South Boston Community Health Center, located at 133 Dorchester Street. The program will be administered by the Health Center.

A set of comprehensive services will be provided to enable the elderly to remain relatively independent in their familiar neighborhood environment.

Services will include:

- daily activities designed to prevent isolation;
- meals and nutritional counseling;
- supportive social services;
- cooperation with the local business community to assist the elderly in financial self-management;
- health care counseling and education;
- guaranteed accessibility to personalized health care.

Renovations to be made to the top floor of the center to provide an architecturally barrier-free environment will cost approximately $115,000.

A funding proposal to offset those costs is now before the George Robert White Fund. The $50,000 operating costs will be reimbursed by Medicare.

Allston-Brighton Senior Multi-Service Center

This segment of the plan calls for the creation of a senior multiservice center through the renovation of the Brighton Municipal Building at 20 Chestnut Hill Avenue.

The multiservice center, which will be funded through $600,000 in renovation monies from the Georgae Robert White Fund and maintained through a first year grant of $85,000 from Community Development Block Grant monies, is designed to provide a variety of "one-stop" elderly services:

- nutritional

- recreational
- educational
- cultural
- mental health
- health screening
- social services

Administered through the Department of Health and Hospitals and the Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, this program, this multiservice, one-stop approach to elderly services, has proven successful in many other parts of the country. A two-year, task force study of the Allston-Brighton community has concluded that a full service, coordinated, and centrally located elderly facility is needed in Allston-Brighton to keep independent elderly self-reliant.

The grant for the White Fund monies is still pending. The operating budget for the center is $312,000 yearly.

Elderly Home Health Care Program

Medically based, home health care programs can play an important role in improving the quality and nature of health care available to the homebound urban elderly. Such services can be an alternative to institutional care for many persons.

At the moment, two Health and Hospitals affiliated neighborhood health centers — Uphams Corner and East Boston — are certified, home health care agencies.

Those initial efforts will be expanded under a $100,000 grant from the Trustees of Health and Hospitals.

Funds will be awarded to neighborhood health centers or other qualified applicants on a competitive basis. Requests for proposals have been issued and applications will be accepted through April 19, 1979. Two or three, one-year grants will be awarded by late May.

The kinds of program likely to be funded would include these components:

- Primary Care Physician/Nurse Practitioner Teams. These primary agents and coordinators of health care would fill the void left by the decline in general practitioner neighborhood physicians.

- Continuity of Care. The health care unit will follow the patient at home as well as during hospitalizations.

- Round the Clock Coverage. A physician-on-call system will be in effect after working hours and during the weekends. Physicians will be available to make house visits or consult with the family or other staff involved in the patient's care.

- Case Management and Cooperation. Nurse practitioners serve as case managers, providing referrals to service of other agencies. Arrangements are made for home-delivered meals, telephone reassurance, friendly visiting, and other appropriate services.

Primarily, the benefit of this program is that the patient is cared for in a familiar setting, rather than in an institution. This boosts patient morale, and also diminishes the often high cost associated with institutionalized care.

Adult Day Care — Mattapan

The Adult Day Care Program will be implemented at Mattapan Hospital by the Department of Health and Hospitals in mid-summer.

The focus of the program will be the needs of the frail elderly in the Mattapan area. Adult Day Care is a long-term service program devel-

Boston Mayor . . .

Thirty-second Mayor JOSIAH QUINCY 1896-1899

Josiah Quincy, the last of Boston's famous Quincys, was born October 15, 1859, in Quincy, Massachusetts, the son of Josiah Phillips Quincy and Helen F. Quincy. Graduating from Harvard in 1880, he was admitted to the bar in 1884. He became a member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives in 1887, and served in 1888, 1890, and 1891. He was chairman of the Democratic State Committee in 1891-92 and again in 1906. In 1893 he was first assistant secretary of state under Grover Cleveland. Quincy, who had become an effective speaker in the state campaign of 1895, was elected mayor in that year and served the first two-year term, the election to that office having previously been annually. In 1897, he was reelected, and served until January, 1900. He appointed an advisory board of leading businessmen to act with him in business matters, taxes, and finance affecting the municipality. His administration was marked by the building of the South Union Station, uniting the terminals of the various railroads entering the city from the south and west. Mr. Quincy was especially interested in the system of public baths, gymnasias, and playgrounds, which were growing to large dimensions in Boston, and in other progressive measures for the benefit of the masses of the people.

Mr. Quincy was a member of the Union Club, the Society of Colonial Wars, Loyal Legion, the City Clubs of Boston and New York, and various other organizations. In 1906 he also served as a member of the Boston Transit Commission.

Thirty-third Mayor PATRICK A. COLLINS 1902-1905

General Collins was one of Boston's greatest Irishmen, and was as respected by the "blue stocking" element as much as by his own. He was born at Ballina Fauna, Ireland, March 24, 1844, where his father was a respected farmer, who was often called to settle disputes among his neighbors, and was an ardent supporter of Irish liberty and rights, so that Mayor Collins as a child was imbued with devotion to Irish freedom.

The Collins family came to America, and finally settled in Chelsea, where Collins attended school and spent some unhappy years as the "Know-nothing" movement at this time, 1848, was at its height. He was persecuted as Irish and as a Catholic by his schoolmates. During one of the "Know-nothing" riots, Collins' arm was broken. After leaving school, he worked in a fish market. Through the influence of Robert Morris, the first black lawyer in Massachusetts, who took a great interest in the boy, Collins was filled with a desire for an education. His mother went to Ohio in 1857, and Collins tried to earn a living in many ways, working as a miner, carter, and upholsterer. He wished to become a machinist, but was not physically strong enough. He finally returned to South Boston, where he worked at his trade, soon becoming the highest paid journeyman, and working in Boston, to which he walked every day, going back in the evening for his supper. After supper he returned to Boston to spend the evening studying in the Public Library, and at the close of his evening, read Greek, Roman, French, and English history, fiction, and poetry. Having a remarkable memory he stored his mind with facts, which he was afterward able to use to great advantage in his public career.

He finally saved money enough to study law, first with James Keith, a Democrat and a fine lawyer of the old school, and later took a degree at Harvard Law School. When he opened his office, the first case was brought to him by Leopold Morse, who always took pleasure in bringing opportunity to others. In 1867, when he was only twenty-three, he captivated an audience at a political meeting he chanced to attend, and was made a delegate to the party convention.

His support of the Fenian movement brought upon him the disapproval of the Catholic clergy, who sharply criticized him.

He was a representative in the Legislature in 1868 and 1869, and of the state Senate in 1870 and 1871, where he was then the youngest man who had ever become a member, and was chairman of the Harbor and Land Commission. In 1883 to 1885 he was in Congress, where he served on the Judiciary Committee and worked for uniform bankruptcy laws and international copyright. Under Governor Gaston he was judge advocate, and later was president of the Irish Land League and received the freedom of Dublin and Cork. His campaign work for Cleveland swung the Irish vote to the latter, and he was appointed consul-general to London. He felt that Boston had gone too far in the direction of "benevolent socialism," and made new appointments to the heads of most city departments while mayor. He impressed upon the heads he appointed that he would hold them, and no one else, responsible for any dishonesty or laxity in the management of their departments. He favored home rule in city affairs; opposed enlargement of taxes or drafts for maintenance and improvements of parks and sewers; held out firmly against raising the salaries of city employees or pensions for their widows. He stood against injuries to the historic interests of the city, such as encroachments on the Common, tearing down the Old South Meeting House, changing Copp's Hill or the Granary Burying Ground. Governor Crane accepted his opinion on all matters relating to Boston that came before him, vetoing all measures which the mayor deemed improper. Collins approved the freeing of Cuba, but disapproved of the acquisition of Puerto Rico and the Philippines. He died September 14, 1905, while in office. Of him, Grover Cleveland said, "In public life he was strictly honest and sincerely devoted to the responsibilities which office holding involves."

MUSIC BECOMES VISIBLE AT SCIENCE MUSEUM

A one-of-a-kind device that makes music visible is now in operation at Boston's Museum of Science.

The bank of colored lights dancing an arpeggio in response to taped music belongs — in general — to the family of color organs. These are electronic circuits that usually divide the sounds played into them into four ranges of pitch.

The Museum's new exhibit, invented by Jim Kuzma of Binghamton, New York, divides the sounds played into it into 100 ranges, each precision-tuned to a single note of the musical scale. This degree of resolution (10 to the 100th power) far surpasses anything now built, Kuzma says.

The device has 1,000, tiny light bulbs arranged in seven-foot-high strips faced by clear plastic. Each strip is divided into ten volume levels.

Museum visitors are invited to select a piece of music to be played, or to speak into a microphone and watch their words translated into colored lights.

Kuzma believes that "Visible Music" should be useful to music students. Not only do they receive an automatic, visual feedback from their efforts, but his unique color-coding system that relates musical and color harmonies makes an out-of-tune instrument or a complex harmony unmistakable.

The inventor is most enthusiastic, however, about the possibility of using Visible Music to teach the deaf to speak. He has embarked on the project of learning visible phonics and hopes to make his device a contribution in that field.

A permanent exhibit, Visible Music is located on the first floor of the Museum's west wing.

INTERESTED IN STAMP COLLECTING?

Postmaster Philip L. Sullivan of Boston has announced all area post offices will feature a "What's Philately?" program, through April 28, in an effort to educate consumers to the benefits of stamp collecting.

Recent studies show that philately, the art of stamp collecting, is the world's largest hobby with over 22 million collectors in the United States alone, Sullivan said. He added, "the number of stamp collectors of all ages has been growing faster than the population."

The postmaster believes the growing interest in stamp collecting is due largely to the increase in the number of philatelic products the Postal Service has made available to the public in recent years. These include "starter" collecting kits containing commemorative stamps designed around a common theme such as space, sports, travel, flowers, animals, and art. There are also "Mint Sets" of recent commemorative and special stamp issues, and a miniature encyclopedia of the world of philately called "Stamps and Stories." This book tells how to start a stamp collection, provides color reproductions of all past U. S. postage stamp issues, offers one hundred stories giving the history of stamps, and lists the latest value of all prior issues.

T CALLS FOR CITIZEN AID IN FIGHTING VANDALISM AND CRIME

MBTA Chairman Robert L. Foster has asked for public support and assistance in reducing incidences of crime and vandalism on MBTA buses. "I don't believe that citizens in the MBTA district realize that many of our buses have special green lights on the front and rear corners of the bus roof which can be activated to a flashing condition by the bus operator whenever something out of the ordinary occurs on the bus," said Foster.

"While local police and fire departments are aware of the fact that a bus with flashing green roof lights is a signal that something is wrong and the bus driver needs assistance, I am calling on private citizens to help us by notifying their local police departments or the MBTA when they spot this signal.

"Not only can prompt citizen action help us in deterring acts of violence, the flashing green lights are also used in the event that a passenger becomes ill on the bus or has an accident while on the vehicle, perhaps requiring fast medical attention," said the chairman.

"The MBTA is fortunate in that it is by and large a safe system. We do not have anything approaching the crime and violence that exists in some other large urban areas. With the cooperation of our citizen friends, we can continue this trend and, indeed, improve it," Foster concluded.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS AT HARVARD

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt will deliver the Commencement Address at Harvard University on Thursday, June 7, at afternoon exercises sponsored by the Associated Harvard Alumni (AHA), David Aloian, executive director of the AHA, announced.

Traditionally the name of the Commencement speaker is not released by the AHA until nearer Commencement, but the Chancellor's visit coincides with the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the Federal Republic of Germany and has already become international news, Mr. Aloian said.

Mr. Aloian also announced that Theodore H. White, author and journalist, will deliver the Class Day speech on June 6.

Mr. White, a member of the Harvard College class of 1938 and a member of the Harvard Board of Overseers from 1968 to 1974, is perhaps best known for his series "The Making of the President." The first volume in the series won him the Pulitzer Prize in 1962. His most recent book, an autobiography, is entitled "In Search of History."

Since 1955, he has reported on American national politics, and revolutionized political coverage in 1960 when he began his four-volume series "The Making of the President."

PUBLIC FUND DRIVE TO KEEP STUART PAINTINGS

Mayor Kevin H. White and U.S. Senator Edward M. Kennedy, on April 11, announced a public fund drive to keep the Gilbert Stuart paintings of George and Martha Washington in Boston.

The Mayor also asked that the institutions involved in the proposed sale, the Boston Athenaeum and the Smithsonian Institute, declare a six-month moratorium on negotiations.

The Mayor and Senator Kennedy said the drive will raise funds for the Museum of Fine Arts (MFA) to purchase the portraits. The paintings have hung in the Museum since 1876.

Also leading the drive are former U.S. Speaker of the House John McCormack; Howard Johnson, president of the MFA; William O. Taylor, president and publisher of the Boston Globe and James T. Dorris, publisher of the Herald American.

At a press conference at the MFA, Mayor White said:

"We are involved in a historical event today—the start of a public fund drive to keep these portraits in Boston, the cultural and historical capital of this country.

"It's a drive that's going to be a lot like the original subscription drive in 1831, when the portraits were purchased from Stuart's widow in part with funds from a public subscription.

"I am asking the public to support that drive in the same spirit of pride and tradition that people of that era in Boston's history showed—and with the same conviction that these paintings belong in Boston—and nowhere else.

"Practically every art expert admits these portraits are the most valuable domestic paintings in the country today," Mayor White said, "and they belong in Boston."

T SEEKS U.S. FUNDS TO REDEVELOP SOUTH STATION TERMINAL

The MBTA will request a $39,001,440, Urban Initiatives grant from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) toward the South Station Transportation Center redevelopment program.

Authorization to file an 80 percent capital grant application was given today by the MBTA Board of Directors. The 20 percent, local share funds would come from the Massachusetts Passenger Rail Transportation Fund and from current and/or future MBTA bond issues authorized by the Legislature.

Other public and private investments are expected, resulting in a $100-million redevelopment of the area.

In connection with the Northwest Corridor Improvement Project, the Federal Railroad Administration (FRA) intends to invest about $27 million for reconstruction or rehabilitation of the South Station building and the track and platform areas used by Amtrak's intercity transit.

Under legislation passed last year, $4.4 million was appropriated from the state's Passenger Rail Transportation Fund for The MBTA to acquire the 24-acre, South Station site from the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA).

The legislation also appropriated $11.9 million toward the MBTA's cost to develop and improve South Station for its commuter railroad operations and for the MBTA to build an intercity and commuter bus terminal, including footing and foundations for future air rights development, such as a parking garage by the BRA or the City of Boston. Temporary bus terminal facilities will be provided during construction of the new bus facility.

The MBTA also plans to build a passageway between the railroad station concourse and the Red Line's South Station.

No two issues are so far apart that a politician can't straddle them.

FOR THE BORN AND UNBORN!

The Boston City Council has proposed that a free-choice option adding a reverence for life phrase to the Pledge of Allegiance be considered in the Congress.

Councillor Louise Day Hicks in a resolution suggested the phrase espousing rights of the unborn would make the pledge "become a more meaningful testament" to those wishing to attach the amendment in recitation.

Her resolution noted that the alternate could be weighed by the Congress with a view to "recognizing these words as a valid option."

The resolution ventured that this wordage be allowed groups opting to do so "providing that there be no change in the preceding language now comprising the Pledge of Allegiance."

In the resolution, the City Councillor said that "a divergence of opinions held by citizens" has helped foster a respect in this country for the beliefs of others.

Thus, "in a spirit of accommodation," Mrs. Hicks said, "such phraseology as 'for the born and the unborn' could be sanctioned as an optional free-choice addition without detracting from the basic pledge."

II. LETTERS OF THANKS

"April 1, 1979.

Dear Sir:

Although I know no one involved in the fires in your city last week, I wanted to write you and your men a letter of thanks and congratulations. I only wish I knew how to get this letter to each station involved in fighting the hotel fires.

I must admit how angry I was at the lack of coverage the media gave your department. I think we have all come to realize the media wants tragedy. I am sure if many lives had been lost, your department would have been recognized by most of the citizens of this country. I wish the citizens could know of the bravery and self sacrifice your men had to make in the rescues of so many and of the turmoil in the aftermath.

As the wife of a fire fighter, paramedic, I want you, your men, and your citizens to know how much your jobs are appreciated.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Clayton,
Cincinnati, Ohio."

"April 6, 1979.

Dear Commissioner Paul:

My wife and I were unfortunate enough to have been in both the Copley Plaza fire and the Sheraton Boston fire last week and now that the trauma and excitement is past, I want to take this opportunity to express the thanks of myself and my wife for the outstanding job done by your department.

This is the first time I have been in a fire of this type (and I hope it is the last) but both Marilyn and I were impressed by the work done by the Boston Fire Department. They knew exactly what they were doing and went about their job with a minimum of confusion while at the same time being very courteous and solicitous.

Please pass along my thanks and appreciation to any of those who were involved.

Sincerely,

J. W. Vannucci, President,

Northeast Area ARA Food Services Company."

"March 30, 1979.

Dear Mayor White:

Last Monday evening, March 26th, I was one of the hospital group at Davio's Restaurant on Newbury Street and you stopped by to greet us.

I would like to presume on that brief acquaintance to ask you to convey to the members of the Boston Fire Department, the compliments and appreciation of the thousands of hospital people who were in attendance at the New England Hospital Assembly this week.

Like hundreds of other hospital people, I was one of the evacuees from the fire in the Sheraton Boston Hotel.

My wife and I were most impressed with the efficiency and orderly approach of the fire fighters to the task at hand. While I am not a professional in combating fires, I have absorbed sufficient knowledge through my contact with the Stamford Fire Department to recognize superior competence, which was ably demonstrated by the members of the Boston Fire Department.

Contributing to the absence of hysteria was the attitude of the fire fighters. As I descended the escape towers, the fire fighters were ascending the stairs and instead of a gruff "out of the way" or "make way" their comments were "excuse me, please." I am confident that such mannerisms provide a calming effect on those of us who were apprehensive or bordering on fright. There was a potential for panic, which never manifested itself. You and the leaders of the Fire Department can take great pride in the caliber of the Boston fire fighters.

Sincerely,

Edgar L. Geibel,
Connecticut Hospital Assoc."

"April 3, 1979.

Boston Fire Fighters:

In the early hours of last Thursday, more than a dozen companies sped to a fire fighter's nightmare. A major hotel, the Copley Plaza, was burning. With methodical precision, scores of guests were brought to safety and the fire quickly contained. Suddenly, another blaze broke out in the Sheraton Boston and its internal alarm system had apparently failed. Men and material were remmarshalled and a floor-by-floor search and evacuation was conducted while that blaze was brought under control. Injuries were few and the buildings were saved.

Big fires like these are unusual and, fortunately, very rare. To their credit, the men of the Boston Fire Department were trained and able to prevent what could have been a catastrophe. We want to take this time to publicly thank them for a job very well done.

WRKO Editorial No. 298,

Chuck Goldmark, General Manager."

Dear Sir:

Last Wednesday night I was staying at the Copley Plaza Hotel. When the fire started, I was on the sixth floor of the hotel. I feel that I never would be writing this letter to you if it were not for the men of your Fire Department. They came to our room and brought us down the smoke-filled stairs. They were calm and reassuring and somehow I knew they would get me out of the smoke and confusion. The naval physician and E.M.T.s who examined us were all very good. They treated each person in a thorough and competent manner. I just felt that I needed to say a word of praise and thanks to them all.

Sincerely,

Wilma Rice,
Taunton, Mass."

Therefore, because Edgar S. Cathcart, M.D., is particularly qualified to perform the needed tests and because the cost is reasonable, no benefit would inure to the city by publicly advertising for bids.

Various Repairs

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I hereby respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract to Coulter Electronics, Inc., 110A Commerce Way, Woburn, Mass. 01801, for the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $15,000.

This contract is being filed late because negotiations were under way to purchase a new Coulter counter. The department has now decided to delay any decisions on the purchase of this equipment until the end of the fiscal year.

Under this contract, Coulter Electronics, Inc., will repair the following Coulter counters, on an as-needed basis:

One Coulter counter, Model S, Serial No. 18737; one Coulter counter, Model S, Serial No. 9680.

Coulter Electronics, Inc., is the manufacturer of this equipment, and has provided this service in the past. Their charges are reasonable, and their service has been very satisfactory. Furthermore, Coulter Electronics also offers ready accessibility of parts and trained competent technicians.

Therefore, because of the above reasons, no benefit would inure to the city by publicly advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract to Raytheon Company, 70 Ryan Street, Stamford, Conn. 06907, for the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $13,680.

This is the first maintenance contract covering the following equipment:

One, 37 tube gamma camera; two, 5-inch dual probe scanners.

Previously, Raytheon was called upon for repairs only. The necessary preparations required for a maintenance contract took longer than expected and has caused our request to be late. Raytheon Company has agreed to maintain the equipment from July 1, 1978.

Under this contract, Raytheon Company will provide all labor, parts, and travel costs necessary to maintain the above equipment in good working condition.

Inasmuch as the equipment is of a highly specialized nature, as Raytheon is the manufacturer and the price, in my opinion, is reasonable, no useful purpose would inure to the city by publicly advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract to American Cystoscope Makers, Inc., 300 Stillwater Avenue, Stanford, Conn. 06902, for the period September 15, 1978, through June 30, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $3,000.

Under this contract, American Cystoscope, Inc. will provide repairs as needed for all cystoscopy instruments used in the Operating and Procedure Rooms at Boston City Hospital.

Therefore, because American Cystoscope Makers, Inc. is the manufacturer of these instruments, provides prompt and efficient service at a price I deem to be reasonable, no benefit would inure to the city by publicly advertising for bids.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I hereby request your Honor's permission to award, without advertising, a contract to Modular Ambulance Corporation, 2000 So. Great Southwest Parkway, Grand Prairie, Texas 75051, for the period July 1, 1978, through December 31, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $100,525.

Under this contract, Modular Ambulance Corporation will repair and refurbish the patient compartment modules of eight, 1976 Modulvan city ambulances and remount these patient compartment modules on 1978 model truck chassis of the same type and design.

The Department of Health and Hospitals currently owns eight, 1976, Modulvan ambulances, all of which are in need of extensive repairs including major front end, engine, suspension and transmission work. As these vehicles each have almost 60,000 miles of use, it would not be economically sound to invest in such repairs.

The above stated proposal, therefore, gives proper regard to the city's best interests.

Inasmuch as Modular Ambulance Corporation, the original manufacturer of these vehicles, has the capacity to refurbish and remount the modules, is completely familiar with the construction and design of the ambulance, and has on hand the component parts necessary to complete the remounting of the compartments, it is uniquely equipped to provide the work under this contract.

Therefore, in view of the above and because the price, in my opinion, is reasonable, I respectfully request your Honor's permission to award this contract to Modular Ambulance Corporation under the terms and conditions stated above.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

HOUSING INSPECTION DEPARTMENT

Leasing Certain Premises

Dear Mayor White:

I hereby respectfully request permission to dispense with public advertising in the City Record, for the leasing of an estimated 750 square feet of space in the building located at 111 Franklin Street, Allston, and to enter into a lease with Ronald Cahaly, acting as agent for Madeline Cahaly, 58 Adamson Street, Allston, for this space. The premises are needed by this department as a local office in connection with the Housing Improvement Program, a federally subsidized program. Your approval will permit the Housing Inspection Department to exercise the renewal option clause.

The proposed lease is for a term of one year — July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979 — with options on the part of the city to extend the term for an additional year. The proposed rental fee is $255 per month. This cost is reasonable.

It is my opinion that nothing is to be gained by public advertising as this location is suitable for conducting program activities.

Very truly yours,
John A. Vitagliano,
Commissioner.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT

IBM Machines

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston respectfully requests the approval of your Honor for the award of a contract, without public advertising, to International Business Machines Corporation, a corporation having a place of business at Armonk, New York, and at 400 Wyman Street, Waltham, Mass., for rental and maintenance service of certain IBM machines during the period July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, inclusive.

The rental of this equipment will enable the Library to continue its program of data processing activities which was initiated in 1966 whereby, using IBM equipment, many internal service operations have been mechanized. Inasmuch as only IBM can provide its own equipment, no useful purpose would be served by advertising for bids. The total cost for the rental of the equipment during the period of the contract is estimated to be $36,500. In the opinion of the official this is a reasonable cost for the service to be rendered.

In view of the above, the Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department, acting in the name of and for the City of Boston, has Voted, that there be entered into, without public advertising, with International Business Machines Corporation, a corporation having a place of business at Armonk, New York, and at 400 Wyman Street, Waltham, Mass., a contract for rental of certain data processing equipment during the period July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979, the total rental thus charged to be subject to the terms, agreements, and conditions set forth in said contract.

The approval of your Honor for the award of this contract, without publicly advertising for bids, to the International Business Machines Corporation as above is hereby requested.

Respectfully,

The Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston,

By

Philip J. McNiff,
Director.

MAYOR'S OFFICE Specialists Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to Council of Elders, Inc., a corporation, located at 186 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Mass., for the provision of such services as guardianship/conservatorship, recreation and social services for the elderly residents of Roxbury, Mass.

Under the terms of the contract, the contractor will, in general, assist senior participants in all areas of need by having the Council's specialists (social worker, psychologist, nutritionist, nurse, etc.) diagnose the problem, formulate a plan of action (intake, referral, direct provision, etc.) and evaluate the effects of determined approach. Specifically, under the auspices of the guardianship/conservatorship program a Council's staff person, appointed by the court as the senior's guardian, will assume the responsibilities of personal care and property management for the senior, as well as represent the senior in legal affairs. In the social service component of this organization, besides the general services listed above, the contractor will arrange for senior participants to use the transportation services of three, twelve-passenger vans to health clinics, to Council of Elder's programs/activities, to social facilities and events located in the community, as well as to stores for shopping purposes. The Council of Elders' third program is a recreational one. These services include (1) educational activities such as classes in areas related to horticulture, handyman skills, world events, preventive health etc.; (2) recreational activities such as field trips, dinner dances, arts/crafts/music etc.; (3) inter-generational activities such as workshops, for young and old, in skill development, living history, photography, teaching, etc.; (4) activities geared for the homebound senior such as friendly visits, lend-a-book, etc.; (5) events for non-English-speaking participants. Compensation under this contract shall not exceed $252,000, where $115,000 will serve as a Title II donation. Payment for this contract shall be made from the Community Development Block Grant. The term of this contract shall be from September 1, 1978, to August 31, 1979.

The city, under the first, second and third years of the Community Development Block Grant Program, has awarded previous contracts to the Council of Elders, Inc. for the provision of similar services as those proposed. In the interest of continuity of service delivery, I recommend that the contractual relationship between the city and the Council of Elders, Inc. be maintained at this time.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be performed and the reasonable cost of these services, it is my opinion that public advertisement would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,
Katharine D. Kane,
Deputy Mayor.

Home-Care Program

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to Uphams Corner Health Center, Inc., a corporation, located at 500 Columbia Road, Dorchester, Mass., for the continuation of a home-care program for homebound senior residents of the Uphams Corner area of the North Dorchester neighborhood.

Under the terms of the contract, the contractor will provide the services of a health-care team, comprised of physicians and nurse practitioners, homemaker-home health aides, nutritionists, physical therapists, and social workers to homebound senior persons. The physician and nurse practitioner will have the responsibilities to diagnose the senior's total needs (medical, social, recreational, etc.); to formulate a health care plan; and to provide follow-up visits. The nutritionists, physical therapists, and social workers act as a resource unit providing consultation to other team members as well as direct service, under the supervision of the nurse practitioner, to the client according to the respective care plan. The homemaker-home health aides will serve as support persons and monitors. Their duties will include the assistance with personal, health, and home care as well as the specific tasks of performing simple therapeutic exercises and the preparation of at least one nutritious meal on a daily basis. The team's objective is to provide an alternative to nursing home or institutional placement of the homebound senior. Compensation under this contract shall not exceed $60,000. Payment for this contract shall be from August 8, 1978, to August 7, 1979.

The city, under the first, second, and third years of the Community Development Block Grant Program, has awarded previous contracts to the Uphams Corner Health Center, Inc. for the provision of similar services as those proposed. In the interest of continuity of service delivery, I recommend that the contractual relationship between the city and the contractor be maintained at this time.

Because of the professional nature of the services to be performed and the reasonable cost of these services, it is my opinion that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Very truly yours,
Katharine D. Kane,
Deputy Mayor.

CONTRACTS AMENDED

The Mayor has approved the amending of contracts, based on the following information:

Various Foods

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On March 1, 1978, your Honor approved a letter to award contracts, without public advertisement, to several companies for furnishing perishable foods and other edible commodities to various city departments, from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979.

Permission is requested to amend the original letter dated February 22, 1978, to include a contract for the above materials with Swift Sales & Distribution Company, 1000 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Mass., for the period of time indicated above.

Respectfully yours,

Frank F. Chin,
Purchasing Agent.

Drugs

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On July 17, 1978, your Honor approved a letter to award contracts to several companies for furnishing drugs to the various city departments, for the period from July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, inclusive, as a result of publicly opened bids of May 25, 1978.

Permission is requested to cancel the contract with Rachele Laboratories Inc. for Item 31, which was awarded to this company in error.

Parke Davis & Company was the lowest bidder for Item 31. Permission is therefore requested to amend the original letter dated July 12, 1978, and award Item 31 to this company and have the correct amount of the contract read $82,080, net, thirty. The original amount of the contract was $76,500, net thirty.

Respectfully yours,

Eugene K. Welsh,
Acting Purchasing Agent.

LAW DEPARTMENT

Legal Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On August 25, 1978, the Law Department entered into a contract which was approved by your Honor on July 13, 1978, an award, without public advertising, to Terry F. Lenzner, Esquire, a partner in the firm of Wald, Harkrader & Ross, 1320 Nineteenth Street, N.W., Washington, D.C., for legal services in connection with a case entitled N.A.A.C.P., et al. v. Patricia Horris, et al. This contract is for the period June 21, 1978, to June 30, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $25,000.

Due to the nature of the legal work, the contractor is being required to provide more services than was anticipated in the terms of the original contract. Although I do not expect the present level of activity to continue, the contractor's continued participation in negotiations with HUD on Year IV CDBG conditions, monitoring of the N.A.A.C.P. suit and active involvement in the city's civil suit to stop racial violence will require a substantial effort during the upcoming months. Expenditures for this contract will be kept to a minimum through the utilization of city's Police and Law Departments for investigating services. Your authorization is requested to amend this contract to provide for these additional services and to increase the liability of the city under this contract by $20,000. The additional compensation to the contractor will be payable at the same rate specified in the terms of the original contract which I have determined to be reasonable. The cost of this contract as amended, shall not exceed $45,000.

Because of the professional nature of legal work and because of the need for continued service throughout the contract period, it is my opinion that advertising would serve no useful public purpose.

Very truly yours,

Herbert P. Gleason,
Corporation Counsel.

Dear Mayor White:

On February 22, 1977, the Licensing Board entered into a contract, which was subsequently approved by your Honor and awarded without public advertising, with JGF Court Reporters, Ltd., Cambridge Municipal Court, Thorndike Street, Cambridge, Mass. for stenographic services. This contract was for the period December 12, 1976, through June 30, 1977, at a cost not to exceed $6,500.

Due to extensive hearings relative to Combat Zone licenses, the contractor was required to perform more stenographic services than was anticipated in the terms of the original contract. Your authorization is presently requested to amend this contract by providing for the extra services and by increasing the liability of the city under this contract by $343.50. The additional compensation will be payable at the same rate specified in the terms of the original contract which I have determined to be reasonable. The cost of this contract as amended shall not exceed (new total) $6,843.50.

My request to amend this contract is being submitted retroactively for the following reasons. Although the aforementioned hearings took place prior to June 30, 1977, the former chairman of the Licensing Board, Charles Byrne, did not amend the contract with JGF Court Reporters, Ltd., because the amount of money needed was in excess of the appropriation in Account No. 29 for Fiscal Year 1977. The funds, however, are available at the present time, and the facts are that the contractor has performed these extra services and performed them well. Therefore, I believe that JGF Court Reporters, Ltd. should be reimbursed for their work.

For the reasons cited above, it is my opinion that the contract between the Licensing Board and JGF Court Reporters, Ltd. for stenographic services, during the period July 1, 1976, through June 30, 1977, should be amended at this time.

Very truly yours,
Andrea W. Gargiulo,
Chairwoman.

PUBLIC FACILITIES DEPARTMENT CPM Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Pursuant to a vote of the Public Facilities Commission on June 28, 1978, I hereby request your Honor's written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement in the City Record and to enter into an agreement with Systematic Associates, Inc., a Massachusetts corporation of 123 Highland Avenue, Needham, Massachusetts, amending a contract executed October 27, 1976, to provide Critical Path Method (CPM) services in connection with the construction of Charlestown High School

Academic Building, so as to increase the amount authorized for expenditure from $52,400.00 to $62,850.00.

This amendment extends the period of performance seven months to coincide with the now estimated completion date of the project and provides additional payment for the extra weekly job meetings, monthly progress evaluations and status of submittals meetings.

Due to the provisions of the law of the effect that executed and existing city contracts may be altered only by a writing signed by all parties thereto, including the Mayor and bonding company, public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

Respectfully,
Donald B. Manson,
Director.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT Engineering Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On March 10, 1975, your Honor authorized the award of a contract to the consulting firm of Storch Associates, Two Charlesgate West, Boston, Mass., for carrying out of certain engineering services required in connection with the need to redesign existing traffic signals to meet the national standards or else risk the loss of state and federal funds available for such work. This authorization allowed the city to implement the redesign of fifty-six signalized intersections that were substandard when compared to the Manual of Traffic Control Devices.

This project for traffic operational improvements at intersections in the City of Boston is now to be funded under the Federal Aid Urban Systems Program, through the Massachusetts Department of Public Works. To accomplish this, a process has been established for the review of plans, specifications, and estimates by the Massachusetts Department of Public Works.

The design of this project was virtually complete in terms of the review process with the City of Boston. Now, however, the involvement of the Massachusetts Department of Public Works will require that Storch Associates plan submissions revert to the 75 percent review stage, to be followed by the 100 percent review and final submissions. This will naturally entail additional time and effort on their part through the final acceptance of plans by the Commonwealth. Additionally, their most recent revisions to the cost estimate show the construction cost to be in the order of $1.6 to $1.7 million. This, of course, is substantially higher than the estimated construction costs on which their current design fee is based.

Therefore, because of the professional character and satisfactory performance of engineering work already provided in connection with the original requirements of the contract, and in order to insure continuous uninterrupted engineering services relative to this contract, your Honor's authorization is respectfully requested to dispense with public advertising and to amend the present contract by increasing the maximum amount from $130,000 to $150,880, and by extending the termination date from August 12, 1978, to August 12, 1979.

Very truly yours,
Joseph F. Casazza,
Commissioner of Public Works.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT Educational Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On December 13, 1977, this department awarded a contract approved by your Honor, without public advertising, to Walter F. Dearborn Elementary School, Lesley College Schools for Children, 34 Concord Avenue, Cambridge, MA 02138, for the period July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1978, at a cost not to exceed $65,520.

Your authorization is requested to amend this contract by accepting the rate approved by the Massachusetts Rate Setting Commission of $4,359 per year, per child, as well as the addition of seven students. The cost of the contract, as amended, shall not exceed $100,257.

Because it has been determined that this child or these children is/are in immediate need of special attention, and due to the professional nature of the services to be performed, and the expertise of the facility in this area, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertising for bids. Payments to this facility will be based on the rate structure established by the Rate Setting Commission of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

The interest due on any Bond on any interest payment date will be represented by a single coupon, and a proposal which specifies supplemental coupons, a split interest rate, the cancellation of coupons or the payment of any premium offered in anything other than bank funds will not be considered. In addition to the amount bid for the Bonds, the purchaser must pay an amount equal to the interest on the Bonds accrued to the date of delivery.

As between proposals which comply with this Notice, the Bonds will be sold to the bidder (herein called the "successful bidder") offering to purchase the Bonds at the lowest interest cost to the city, such cost to be determined under each proposal by doubling the semiannual interest rate, compounded semiannually, necessary to discount the debt service payments from the payment dates to May 1, 1979 and to the price bid, excluding interest accrued to the date of delivery. If there be more than one proposal making said offer at the same lowest interest cost, the Bonds will be sold to the bidder whose proposal is selected by the Collector-Treasurer by lot from among all such proposals.

All proposals must be enclosed in sealed envelopes and addressed to Mr. Lowell L. Richards, Collector-Treasurer, City Hall, Boston, Massachusetts, and marked on the outside in substance "Proposal for Bonds." As a condition precedent to the consideration of his proposal, each bidder must enclose with it, as a good faith deposit, a certified or cashier's check, payable to the order of the City in an amount not less than $550,000. Proposals will be accepted or rejected, subject to approval by the Mayor, promptly after opening and not later than 3 o'clock p.m. on April 26, 1979. When the successful bidder has been ascertained, the city will notify him and return all deposits other than that of the successful bidder. The check of the successful bidder will be retained to be applied as part payment for the Bonds or to provide security for the city against loss resulting from the failure of such bidder to comply with the terms of his proposal. No interest will be allowed on the amount of any good faith deposit.

The right is reserved to reject all proposals and to reject any proposal not complying with this Notice of Sale and, so far as permitted by law, to waive any irregularity or informality with respect to any proposal.

The city has not contracted for the issuance of any policy of municipal bond insurance for the Bonds. If the Bonds qualify for issuance of any such policy or commitment therefor, any purchase of such insurance or commitment shall be at the sole option and expense of the bidder and any increased costs of issuance or delivery of the Bonds resulting by reason of such insurance shall be paid by such bidder. Proposals shall not be conditioned upon the issuance of any such policy or commitment. Any failure of the Bonds to be so insured or of any such policy or commitment to be issued shall not in any way relieve the successful bidder of his contractual obligations arising from the acceptance of his proposal for the purchase of the Bonds.

It shall be a condition to the obligation of the successful bidder to accept delivery of and pay for the Bonds that contemporaneously with or before accepting the Bonds and paying therefor, he shall be furnished without cost, with (a) (i) the approving opinion of Palmer & Dodge, Boston, Massachusetts, bond counsel to the city, with respect to the $11,450,000 Municipal Purpose Loan of 1979 Within Debt Limit (First Issue) and the $38,550,000 Municipal Purpose Loan of 1979 (First Issue), and (ii) the approving opinion of Mintz, Levin, Cohn, Glovsky and Popeo, Boston, Massachusetts, special bond counsel to the city, with respect to the $5,000,000 Parking Facilities Loan, Act of 1975, in each case to the effect that the bonds addressed in the respective opinion are valid general obligations of the City of Boston, that all taxable property in the city is subject to the levy of unlimited ad valorem taxes to pay the same and that, under existing statutes, such Bonds are exempt from local property taxes in Massachusetts and the interest thereon is exempt from Massachusetts personal income taxes and from federal income taxes; (b) a certificate of the Acting Corporation Counsel of the city in form satisfactory to said firms, dated as of the date of delivery of the Bonds and receipt of payment therefor, to the effect that no litigation is then pending (or, to his knowledge, threatened) (i) seeking to restrain or enjoin the issuance or delivery of any of the Bonds, (ii) contesting or affecting any authority for or the validity of the Bonds, (iii) contesting the power of the Collector-Treasurer to issue the Bonds or the power of the city to sell them as contemplated by this Notice of Sale, (iv) affecting the power of the city to levy and collect taxes to pay the Bonds or (v) contesting the corporate existence or boundaries of the city; (c) a certificate of the Collector-Treasurer and the City Auditor addressed to the successful bidder to the effect that, to the best of their knowledge and belief, the Official Statement referred to below, both as of its date and as of the date of delivery of the Bonds, does not contain any untrue statement of a material fact and does not omit to state a material fact necessary to make the statements therein, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading; together with the further certificate of the Acting Corporation Counsel of the city confirming the aforesaid certificate of the Collector-Treasurer and City Auditor as to matters of law; and (d) a letter from the firm of Palmer & Dodge, addressed to the successful bidder, to the effect that, although they are not passing upon and do not assume any responsibility for the accuracy or adequacy of the statements contained in the Official Statement and make no representation that they have independently verified the same, on the basis of their participation in the preparation of the Official Statement as bond counsel to the city, no facts came to their attention which would lead them to believe that the Official Statement (other than the financial statements and other financial and statistical data contained therein, as to which such firm will express no opinion) contains any untrue statement of a material fact or omits to state a material fact necessary to make the statements therein, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading.

Additional information concerning the City of Boston and the Bonds is contained in the Official Statement, dated April 11, 1979, which has been distributed and to which prospective bidders are directed. Such Official Statement is provided for informational purposes only and is not a part of this Notice of Sale. Additional copies of the Official Statement, in reasonable quantity, may be obtained prior to April 26, 1979, from Mr. James J. Hyde, First Assistant Collector-Treasurer, City Hall, Boston, Massachusetts, 617-725-4140. Following the award of the Bonds in accordance herewith, the city will deliver 300 copies of the Official Statement to the successful bidder for use in reoffering the Bonds to the public.

It is anticipated that CUSIP identification numbers will be printed on the Bonds, but neither the failure to print such number on any Bond, nor any error with respect thereto, shall constitute cause for a failure or refusal by the successful bidder to accept delivery of and pay for the Bonds. All expenses in relation to the printing of CUSIP numbers on the Bonds will be paid for by the city, provided, however, that the city assumes no responsibility for any CUSIP Service Bureau charge or other charge that may be imposed for the assignment of such numbers.

It is expected that the Bonds in definitive form will be ready for delivery at the Office of the Collector-Treasurer, Boston, Massachusetts, or at a place designated by the city in New York, New York, on or about May 17, 1979, against payment of the balance of the purchase price in Federal Reserve funds, payable to the order of "City of Boston." The successful bidder will be given at least forty-eight hours notice of the time and place of delivery.

LOWELL L. RICHARDS, III
Collector-Treasurer.

NO. 18

MAYOR NAMES "JUBILEE 350" COMMISSION

The official commission to oversee the celebration of Boston's 350th birthday in 1980 was appointed April 2 by Mayor Kevin H. White.

The yearlong celebration, named Jubilee 350, will feature America's only visit by the Tall Ships to Boston May 30 - June 4; Boston Month in September; and a planned week-long conference of mayors from international cities with attributes and interests common to Boston; a lecture series sponsored by the Kennedy Library on Boston's diverse and distinctive political history; and the publication of the Jubilee Book (working title) comprised of impressionistic essays on various aspects of Boston life by distinguished area writers, combined with graphics ranging from eighteenth century prints to contemporary photographs. Additionally, many neighborhood, cultural, social, and educational institutions are planning their own activities to be part of the birthday celebration.

"A traditional celebration in Boston every fifty years, Jubilee 350 will strive to create a program as comprehensive and exciting as the one Mayor James Michael Curley's administration presented to Bostonians in 1930," said Mayor White.

Heading the Jubilee 350 Commission is Boston Deputy Mayor Katharine D. Kane, who was responsible for the creation of Boston 200, the city's nationally acclaimed bicentennial celebration, as well as Summerthing, Boston's twelve-year-old summer festival of the arts.

Ex officio commissioners are Alan Austin, commissioner of Parks and Recreation; Philip McNiff, director of the Boston Public Library; Helen Rees, director of the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs; Robert Ryan, director of the Boston Redevelopment Authority; and Joseph Tierney, president of the Boston City Council.

Commissioners appointed representing key city organizations are: Robert Cumings, director of the Greater Boston Convention and Tourist Bureau; Frederick J. Davis, executive vice-president of Boys' Clubs of Boston; William Osgood, president of the Bostonian Society and vice-president of the State Street Bank and Trust Company; Duncan Smith, director of the Museum of Transportation; Arthur Snyder, president of the Commonwealth Bank & Trust Company; Herbert P. Gleason, Harvard Law School.

Boston is the nation's oldest capital city. In 1630, Massachusetts Governor John Winthrop and his company arrived on what is now Boston Common. Although the Reverend William Blackstone is documented as the first English inhabitant of the original town, Governor Winthrop actually organized the first settlement. Until then, the area was called Trimountain, and the records of the time indicate that it was officially named Boston on September 17, 1630.

Since 1730, every fifty years, Bostonians have marked the occasion with colorful pageantry including torchlight parades, presidential visits, fireworks, ethnic and cultural festivals, and special anniversary books and monuments. The largest of all these was organized in 1930 by Mayor Curley and lasted for four months.

In addition to the twelve commissioners, Mayor White appointed sixteen special commissioners, many of whom are directing individual

Thirty-fourth Mayor DANIEL A. WHELTON 1905

Daniel A. Whelton became the thirty-fourth mayor of Boston, becoming acting mayor to fill out the unexpired term of Mayor Patrick A. Collins, who died in office, on September 15, 1905. He was born on January 1, 1872, in the West End, and was educated at St. Mary's School, from which he graduated in 1886. After attending the evening high school for a few months, he entered the employ of Henry A. Young and Co., book publishers and then became a salesman for DeWolfe & Fiske Company.

In 1895, he was United States revenue gauger, and held the office until 1903. He was at one time a warden in caucuses and also an election officer. He became interested in politics, and was a member of the Common Council in 1894, and again in 1895, when he served on the Finance Committee. He was chairman of the Board of Aldermen in 1905. In 1909 he served as one of the deputy sheriffs of Boston.

Thirty-fifth Mayor JOHN F. FITZGERALD 1906-1907 1910-1913

John Francis Fitzgerald served as the thirty-fifth mayor of Boston, and served terms in 1906-07, and from 1910 to 1913. He was considered one of the most energetic men to have held the office. During his terms as mayor, he left no stone un-

WATER AND SEWER RATES DECREASED

The Boston Water and Sewer Commission voted to decrease Boston's water and sewer rates by 13.4 percent at the agency's regular session held on Wednesday, April 11. Retroactive to January 1, 1979, water costs $7.55 per 1,000 cubic feet, a decrease of $1.35 from the 1978 rate; the sewer charge is $3.59 per 1,000 cubic feet, 37 cents less than the 1978 rate. The new water rate is also 10 cents lower per 1,000 cubic feet than the City of Boston charged its customers in 1977.

The commission is winding up its 1978 billing cycles and anticipates issuing first-quarter, 1979 bills in May. These will be the first bills to reflect the new rates.

In a unanimous vote, the three-member commission also approved an increase in the discount available to eligible elderly and fully disabled customers. The discount is now 15 percent of the water bills, up to a maximum of $5 per quarter, or a maximum of $20 per year.

When the commission came into existence two years ago, the City of Boston's financial advisors projected a 30 percent overall water and sewer rate increase would be necessary to cover the new agency's costs.

In announcing the new rates, Boston Water and Sewer Commission Executive Director John F. Snedeker explained. "These new rates reflect a 28.8 percent increase over 1977 rates — clearly less than what the city projected we would need two years ago. We have essentially absorbed two years of massive inflation, realized a 1978 surplus of $5.9 million, and passed the savings along to our customers."

A rate of $4 per inch of 12 lines (set solid) has been established for such advertisements as under the law must be printed in the City Record. Advertising and other copy must, except in emergencies, be in hand at the City Record office by noon, Monday of each week to insure its publication in the following Monday's issue.

Snedeker went on to compare Boston's new water rate with those of several other Massachusetts communities. He cited the following towns and their rates: Milton, $7.50 per 1,000 cubic feet; Melrose, $7.50 per 1,000 cubic feet; Lynnfield, $7.00 per 1,000 cubic feet; and Needham, $6.75 per 1,000 cubic feet.

"The important issue here," Snedeker said, "is rate stability. The citizens of Boston have the right to expect that a major decrease one year will not result in a substantial increase the next. We believe that, for the first time, Boston's water and sewer rates accurately reflect the cost of delivering the service to our customers."

Snedeker concluded, "Now that the commission has set the 1979 rates, the job of rehabilitating the city's antiquated infrastructure can be undertaken in earnest."

MAYOR HOSTS SALUTE TO "NUMBER ONE"

Mayor Kevin H. White hosted a Boston salute to 1979 Boston Marathon winner Bill Rodgers at Faneuil Hall Marketplace Friday, April 20.

Open to the public, the ceremonies featured the award of the team cup to Rodgers and his victorious Greater Boston Track Club team mates: Robert Hodge, Randy Thomas, and Richard Mahoney by Boston Athletic Association president Will Cloney. Mayor White also presented Rodgers an award on behalf of the city.

Said Mayor White, "Bill Rodgers has carved for himself a unique niche in the sports history of this city. His third win of the Marathon has established him as a premier practitioner of the art of long-distance running. His preeminence has contributed greatly to Boston's growing reputation as the Mecca of the running world."

WBZ Radio, cosponsor of the ceremonies, broadcasted live throughout the day from the Faneuil Hall site.

turned to make Boston one of the great seaports of the east coast, as well as a great manufacturing and industrial center. He traveled all through New England advocating the bringing of new steamship lines to Boston, the improving of harbor facilities, the building of better wharves, and the creation of many lines of civic work that would make Boston bigger and busier, which was needed at that time.

Mr. Fitzgerald provided the means for every citizen to voice his need by establishing a series of district town meetings, held in sections of the city which were not represented in the City Council by the aldermen-at-large. To accomplish better representation, the mayor and City Council held a meeting at various periods of the year in the sections not represented, at which any citizen had an opportunity to present his grievance or request. These meetings served to strengthen the mayor's popularity, and gave the public a feeling of more control of their government.

Mayor Fitzgerald was also active in humanitarian affairs. He instituted free rides on the ferries for the poor on hot nights, and had the Fire Department flush the streets at intervals during intensely hot weather. He increased the efficiency of the Board of Health by adding a corps of ten nurses, directed by a medical inspector, for the care of diseases dangerous to the public health. It was Mr. Fitzgerald who instituted the practice of the City of Boston officially observing Christmas by providing a celebration on Boston Common.

He was born on February 11, 1863, in the North End, where it was said that he had a speaking acquaintance with every man, woman, and child. He was educated at the Eliot Grammar School, the Boston Latin School, and had one year at Harvard Medical School. For a brief period he was employed in the Custom House, but soon left to give his attention to business and politics. He went into the real estate and insurance business, and was not long engaged when he was soon looked upon as one of the most successful men in that line in the whole city. He spent considerable time and much thought in becoming acquainted with and gaining the goodwill of everyone in his ward who had a vote. Taking a keen interest in the personal affairs of all in his district, not only did he keep a card index of all men needing work and employ a secretary to look after them, but he often went out personally and looked for work for the unemployed in his district. His practical efforts for the poor of his district, as well as his social qualities, created a body of devoted and faithful admirers upon whose support he could always count.

He served as a member of Boston's Common Council in 1892, and the Massachusetts Senate in 1893. He served the fifty-fourth, fifty-fifth, and fifty-sixth Congresses from 1895 to 1901, and was for six years the mayor of Boston, having been first elected in 1905. He obtained his first election by defeating the organization forces in twenty-one out of the twenty-five wards then in the city.

During his administration the High School of Commerce was opened, and the School of Practical Arts for Girls, and the Consumptives' Hospital established. He inaugurated the Saturday half-day for city employees, who up to that time had worked six days a week. He built many playgrounds, the Charlestown Armory, new bathhouses, increased the pay of laborers, and started the annex of the old City Hall. During his term, the subway was opened to Cambridge, and other developments were done on underground transit. The zoo at Franklin Park was opened, and the soil of Boston Common was renewed. Mayor Fitzgerald was one of the most popular of the men to have held the office of mayor of Boston.

Thirty-sixth Mayor GEORGE A. HIBBARD 1908-1909

George Albee Hibbard was born October 27, 1864, in Boston, and was educated in the Boston public schools. His father was a strong antislavery man. At twenty, Hibbard was a clerk in Quincy Market working for his father, a wholesale produce dealer. Later he went into the insurance business, became a member of a firm of commercial paper dealers, then finally, treasurer of a tailoring company. As a businessman, he was not a success. He entered politics, served on ward and city Republican committees, managed minor companies, and was elected in 1894 to the state Legislature, and missed by one vote being elected to the office of state Treasurer to fill out the unexpired term of Henry M. Phillips.

After serving in the lower house of the Legislature, he was appointed postmaster of Boston in 1890, making such an efficient and honest public servant that in 1908 he defeated John F. Fitzgerald for mayor in a closely fought campaign. He gave the city so efficient a business administration that he effected savings in one year of over a million dollars. He removed all "students" and politicians who were not needed from the city payroll, and paid no attention to the slates of appointments made by the professional politicians. He naturally made many enemies, and under the provisions of the new charter the Reformers chose James J. Storrow instead of Hibbard as the Reform candidate. Hibbard, with no money and against the advice of many of his best friends, ran independently, but was badly beaten. Mayor-elect Fitzgerald named him for City Collector, but the Civil Service Commission rejected his name, and Hibbard died shortly afterward, on May 29, 1910, a disappointed man, feeling that his efforts to give his city an honest and efficient administration had not been appreciated by the very ones who desired economy and efficiency in public affairs. "In spite of mistakes, he ended all known practices of a vicious nature embraced within the meaning of the term 'graft,'" said John A. Sullivan, chairman of the Finance Commission at the time.

EXPANSION PLANNED FOR HYNES AUDITORIUM

By SUSAN HOLADAY

City officials announced plans recently for a $35-million expansion of Hynes Veterans Auditorium, and also disclosed that three, new hotel proposals will get a "go ahead" within the next ninety days.

At a press conference preceding the Greater Boston Convention and Tourist Bureau annual meeting at the Parker House, Mayor Kevin H. White said he would ask bureau members to support legislation, now before a House committee, proposing that the state finance part of major projects such as the Hynes expansion.

Boston, the Mayor said, can commit about $5 million to the expansion, which will double the convention facility's exhibit space and its return in tax dollars to the city and state. The Mayor added that $10 million will come from private capital and $20 million is being sought from the state.

Mayor White said the expansion will double the city's convention business and generate about $320 million a year to the regional economy. Boston, he went on, "is on the verge of a tourism boom that will dwarf the Bicentennial — and the entire region will be better off for it."

Continued Mayor White: "Boston is fast becoming a city of international reputation and we must capitalize on the economic potential of our tourism and convention trade. But the city needs new facilities to realize this potential."

His announcement of the Auditorium expansion accompanied the release of a 200-page report prepared by the Boston Redevelopment Authority (BRA) outlining the city's need for — and plans for — additional hotel and convention space.

BRA Director Robert Ryan told the press conference that the expansion of Hynes has to be linked with the construction of at least one large convention hotel in Boston.

Presently, said Ryan, the BRA is in the process of reviewing twenty-five or more proposals for new hotels in Boston. Three new properties will be announced, he disclosed, within the next ninety days and those three will be under construction before 1980.

The three hotels, he went on, will add between 2,000 and 2,500 new rooms here. "Most of the proposals we are looking at have been publicly announced in one way or another," Ryan added. "When the three are announced, there will be no 'new' surprises."

He said that one will be a luxury hotel, and the other two will fall into the moderately priced category in terms of rates. Among the proposals likely to be announced, some speculated, are a hotel in the city's former Federal Reserve Bank in the financial district, and the controversial waterfront hotel for Long Wharf.

The report which Ryan released publicly on "Hotel and Convention Center Demand and Supply in Boston — Past, Present and Future," projected a need for 7,057 new rooms in the city by 1985.

Robert Cummings, president of the Greater Boston Convention and Tourist Bureau, hailed the announcement that the city would move ahead with plans to double the size of Hynes Auditorium, saying the move will help spur new hotel development and enable Boston to accommodate "scores of conventions which have been denied access to Boston due to limited facilities."

The Hynes project, he said, is expected to generate more than $20 million in new tax revenue for the Commonwealth. Presently, Hynes Auditorium returns $4 million in taxes to Boston and $20 million to the state. Those figures are projected to double, as is visitor spending (from $320 million to $640 million a year).

Cummings said bookings of large conventions have begun to show a pattern of decline. These groups, he explained, are looking for expanded hotel and exhibit facilities in Boston.

"There is reason to believe," said Cummings, "that although convention delegate spending will exceed 100 million dollars in 1979, the absence of new convention developments could place a ceiling on the growth of Boston's convention industry. The lack of new facilities will also jeopardize total visitor spending which is expected to exceed one billion dollars for the first time in Greater Boston's history."

Any person who is not elected and who is employed for compensation by the City of Boston MAY NOT:
... participate in any way in the solicitation or receipt of money or other things of value for a political campaign of any kind, whether on behalf of a candidate, political committee, or for any political purpose.

if you are a person who is employed for compensation but is not elected and you are a candidate for public office, fund raising activities by a nonelected political committee in your behalf is not considered such activity by you; provided, that no contribution is solicited or received on your behalf from anyone that you know or should know has an interest in any particular matter in which you participate or participated in the course of your employment or which is the subject of your official responsibility. For example, a political committee raising funds on behalf of a paid, not elected employee of the Licensing Board who seeks public office, may not solicit or receive a contribution from anyone that employee knows or has reason to know has applied for any license from the Board.

... make contributions for any political objectives whatever to anyone who is not a member of a nonelected political committee authorized to solicit and receive such contributions under Massachusetts law, and unless that person is acting as a committee member authorized to accept such contributions.

... affect in any way any other municipal employee's status as such for his/her contribution or failure to contribute to, or participation or failure to participate in, any activity for a political purpose.

No person, city employee or otherwise, may engage in any otherwise lawful solicitation or reception of contributions in any state, county, or municipal building or any part thereof.

A person, who is not elected, but who is employed for compensation by the City of Boston, MAY:

... engage in any otherwise lawful political activity that does not directly or indirectly involve the solicitation or receipt of money or other things of value; you may engage in a wide range of political activity, from ringing doorbells to attending rallies or stuffing envelopes, as long as that activity is not at all involved with your soliciting or receiving funds.

... be a member of a political organization or committee.

... make contributions to candidates or non-elected political committees organized on behalf of candidates up to $1,000 total in any one calendar year for any one candidate's benefit; in addition, you may also contribute to elected or non-elected political committees organized on behalf of a political party, up to $1,000 for any one such committee in any one calendar year; you may also contribute up to $1,000 in any one calendar year to non-elected political committees not organized on behalf of any candidate or candidates or political party.

However, if you are under eighteen years of age, the limit you may contribute is $25 in any one calendar year in each of the above instances.

... choose not to contribute or participate in any political activity whatsoever, and if you so choose, you cannot be fired or otherwise affected in your job.

These are merely general guidelines for paid, non-employees to help decide how to participate in any political activity.

If you are an elected official, or do not receive compensation as an employee or your position is funded pursuant to a federal grant, these guidelines may not apply to you.

As an employee of the City of Boston you have the right to inquire of the Law Department with respect to any question you may have concerning your status as an employee and these guidelines.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE TO REORGANIZE BILINGUAL DEPARTMENT

The Boston School Committee voted on April 11, to proceed with the reorganization of the Bilingual Department in response to the joint agreement of the Bilingual Implementation Team and Superintendent Robert Wood.

Following two weeks of discussion and negotiation, the two parties cleared areas of misunderstanding while coming to agreement on definitions and roles as they affect the Bilingual Department.

The specific points agreed upon include:

- Role and responsibility of bilingual coordinators;
- Full mediation and accountability mechanisms through the senior advisor for bilingual to the offices of the deputy superintendent and superintendent;
- Updating of the Lau compliance plan;
- Curriculum development to start this summer as the beginning of an ongoing effort;
- The commitment to recruitment of bilingual guidance counselors;
- The commitment of the school administration to continue to work with the Bilingual Implementation Team and the Master Parents Advisory Council.

Superintendent Robert Wood commented: "I'm pleased that a critical element of our reorganization plan has been endorsed by the parents and community it serves. I'm particularly grateful to Ms. Carmen Pola, chairman of the Masters Parents Advisory Council, and School Committeeman John O'Bryant for the vital roles they played.

"We now look forward to working with this growing and vital part of the Boston Public Schools on matters of program and philosophy. As we proceed with the continuing and comprehensive effort to decentralize our operations and bring our resources closer to the classroom, I welcome the support of all we serve."

BOSTON POLICE REPORT

Boston Police Commissioner Joseph M. Jordan announced that the Boston Police Department has taken all steps necessary to insure full implementation of the new Massachusetts statutes raising the legal drinking age in Massachusetts from eighteen to twenty years.

The new law, which regulates the purchase, sale, and consumption of alcohol or alcoholic beverages, became effective 2 a.m., on Monday, April 16, 1979.

"We are prepared," stated Commissioner Jordan, "and we are aware of the full provisions of the new law. We will keep a careful watch for any violations."

According to the commissioner, each of the city's eleven police districts has received a teletype message reminding district command officers and patrolmen of the revised law. Officers on each district have been ordered to remain alert to any and all establishments selling or serving alcoholic beverages within their respective districts. Management personnel of these establishments will be reminded of the new law.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

MAYOR'S OFFICE

Building Rehabilitation

Dear Mayor White:

I hereby request your permission to dispense with bidding and to award a contract in an amount of $8,560, to the Beacon Hill/West End Mental Health Committee, Inc., whose place of business is located at 16 Joy Street, Boston, Mass. 02114. Payment for this contract will be made from the third-year, Community Development Block Grant (III). The period of performance will be from July 1, 1977, through June 30, 1979.

Scope of Work:

The Beacon Hill/West End Mental Health Committee, Inc., will establish co-operative apartments for persons with mental illnesses who are residents of the Beacon Hill/West End neighborhood. Currently, there are many mentally ill persons living within this neighborhood who, as a result of the deinstitutionalization movement in the mental health field, are now receiving treatment as outpatients within the community. (The psychiatric hospitalization rate for Beacon Hill/West End is 7/100, one of the highest in the City of Boston.) Housing available to the mentally ill is comprised mainly of single-person, lodging houses, which are dilapidated and serve as a blighting influence on the neighborhood. Because mentally ill persons have not been able to establish stable living situations within the community, they live an isolated and withdrawn life and frequently require expensive, psychiatric hospitalization.

The objective of the Cooperative Apartment Project is to improve and upgrade the Beacon Hill (North Slope) neighborhood through the physical rehabilitation of a dilapidated building, which will then serve as a cooperative apartment setting for mentally ill persons, providing them with a supportive residential environment and opportunities for resocialization, while reducing the level of hospitalization and stress for the surrounding community.

The Beacon Hill/West End Mental Health Committee will lease space at 16 Anderson Street under the condition that a private developer rehabilitate this rooming house to fit the needs of the mentally ill persons living in a cooperative apartment arrangement. (16 Anderson Street is currently an abandoned, boarded, former rooming house.) The downpayment to lease this space will be made once the building is rehabed, in accordance with attached specifications, thereby meeting the objective of eliminating an isolated and dilapidated rooming house in the neighborhood.

The downpayment, and associated start-up expenses necessary to establish the co-operative apartments, will lever private investment of $70,000. Once the space is secured, the project will be self-supporting through the clients' monthly rental payments. Volunteer staff support from the Erich Lindemann Mental Health Center will coordinate the project and assume supervisory responsibilities. The value of these donated services is estimated at $8,800.

In light of the qualifications of the staff of Beacon Hill/West End Mental Health Committee, Inc., and with appreciation of the power to lever private funds which this program possesses, I feel that the contract cost is reasonable.

Because Beacon Hill/West End Mental Health Committee, Inc. was organized specifically to deal with those problems in the community treated in this program, and since it stands uniquely capable of providing necessary mental health services to its community, it is my view that public advertising would serve no useful purpose.

The reasons for the lateness of this submission, which is in fact a resubmission of an earlier request dated February 28, 1978, are twofold:

1.) Failure to comply with the Law Department directive dated January 17, 1978, specifically, omission of business address of contractor; 2.) confusion as to eligibility of program for funding. (see appendices A, A1, and A2).

The budget breakdown is as follows:

Space costs, $5,600; equipment and furnishings, $1,800; administrative expenses, $300; insurance, $200; moving expenses, $100; utilities, $560 — Total, $8,560.

All of the above represent start-up expenses necessary to get the project in operation.

Sincerely,

Andrew M. Olins,
Special Assistant to the Mayor.

OFFICE OF HOUSING

Leasing Certain Premises

Dear Mayor White:

I hereby respectfully request permission to dispense with public advertising in the City Record, for the leasing of approximately 1,500 square feet of space in the building located at 1225 River Street, Hyde Park, and to enter into a lease with Myer Dana and Sons Real Estate, 3 Center Plaza, Boston, for this space. The premises are needed by this department as a local office in connection with the Housing Improvement Program, a federally subsidized program. Your approval will permit the Housing Inspection Department to exercise the renewal option clause.

The proposed term of this lease is for one year, July 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, with options on the part of the city to extend the term for an additional year. The proposed rental fee is $315 per month. This cost is reasonable.

It is my opinion that nothing is to be gained by public advertising as this location is suitable for conducting program activities.

Very truly yours,

John A. Vitagliano,
Commissioner.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

Medical Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request authorization to dispense with public bidding in the award of a contract to Drs. Nathan Brenner of 575 Hyde Park Avenue, Roslindale, MA 02131; Charles Meloni, of 45 Bayswater Street, East Boston, MA 02128; and Earl M. Wedrow, of 330 Beacon Street, Boston, MA 02116, in an amount not to exceed $40,000, for the period from July 1, 1978, through June 30, 1979.

The purpose of this contract is to provide this department with a twenty-four-hour medical service when needed to make pronouncements of death, mental commitments, and emergency medical treatment of prisoners.

This department has undertaken to recruit physicians to participate in this program by advertising in the Boston Globe. The response to our efforts has not been great and it is difficult to find physicians who are willing to respond on a twenty-four-hour basis.

Drs. Brenner and Meloni have for many years performed a great service to this department by responding when needed. They have demonstrated their technical skills for many years and have developed a unique ability to handle the treatment of prisoners. Dr. Wedrow has outstanding qualifications to join Drs. Brenner and Meloni in this program.

Because of the advertising already undertaken and the proven quality of Drs. Brenner's and Meloni's prior performance, I see no practical purpose to be served by further public advertising for these services.

The rate of compensation per call under this contract shall be:

Days — 8 a.m. to 8:00 p.m., $11; nights — 8 p.m. to 8 a.m., $16.

The pronouncement fee shall be $25.

The fee for mental commitment shall be $25.

I have determined that these fees and the total contract price is reasonable.

Very truly yours,

Joseph M. Jordan,
Police Commissioner.

At the request of the city, one or more of the three lowest bidders may also be required to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement.

BOSTON POLICE DEPARTMENT: AN OVERVIEW

TODAY

The Boston Police Department is responsible for providing security and services to more than 641,000 Boston residents, along with one million persons who visit or work in the city each day. To do this, the department employs 2,674, full-time police officers, fifty of whom are women. There are no part-time officers. Also employed are 624 civilians, bringing the department total to 3,298 employees.

YESTERDAY

The Boston Police Department, the oldest in the country, was founded in 1838, nine years after Sir Robert Peel started the Metropolitan Police of London, the world's first organized police force.

Before that, however, Bostonians were protected by night watches, a concept brought to this country by the colonists from England. These began in 1631, a year after the city was incorporated, manned by citizens who performed the duty under the threat of a fine. Every man over the age of sixteen had to take his turn. After a while, the more affluent paid others to take their assignments.

In 1701, permission was granted to the men who stood the watches to prosecute those who abused them while they were performing their duty. After 1796, watchmen carried a hook — the badge of the office — and a rattle.

With the declaration of war in 1812, 100 special watchmen were appointed, and the permanent watch was increased to forty-six.

In 1822, the administration of the police was transferred from the selectmen to the mayor and aldermen.

In 1838, the state legislature authorized the city to create a day police force. From then until 1854, the day and night forces operated separately, the day force under a city marshal and the night force under a chief constable.

On May 26, 1854, the night watches were abolished and the Boston Police Department, as presently structured, was founded, merging the day and night forces. The department was composed of 250 men and the chief. A 14-inch club replaced the hook but the night men kept the rattle.

The force gained a mounted patrol in 1873. The same year a Police Department steamer was commissioned, and in 1903, a Stanley Steamer was added, creating a motor patrol. The force then numbered 575.

In 1878, three, part-time commissioners were appointed by the Mayor, and the superintendent became the executive officer. In 1885, the authority to appoint the commissioner was taken from the Mayor and given to the Governor. The administration of the department was placed under one commissioner appointed by the Governor. It wasn't until 1962 that the appointment of the commissioner was returned to the Mayor.

On September 9, 1919, an occurrence "unprecedented in this country," according to Commissioner Edwin U. Curtis, made a long-lasting effect on the Boston Police Department. Of 1,544 men, 1,117 went on strike. Commissioner Curtis believed that the "sole issue involved in the strike was whether the Boston police force as a body should be

Thirty-seventh Mayor
JAMES M. CURLEY

1914-1917

1922-1925

1930-1933

1946-1949

One of the most colorful and prominent figures in Boston's political history was James Michael Curley, who was elected to the office of Mayor of Boston four times.

James Michael Curley was born on November 20, 1874, the second surviving son of his Irish immigrant parents. Their home was at 28 Northampton Street, Boston, which at that time fringed Boston Harbor.

His father Michael Curley, and mother, then Sarah Clancy, had both arrived on Boston's shores from County Galway, Ireland, in 1864, though they were on separate ships, and not acquainted with each other at the time. By that time the immigrants escaping the potato famine in their native Ireland numbered 50,000 of Boston's total population of 310,000, and accounted for a third of the City of Boston's registered voters. The ward boss was firmly established along the waterfront, and Michael Curley, father of James, obtained work as a hod carrier for the rising boss of Ward 17, P.J. (known as Pea Jacket) Maguire.

Michael Curley remained a hod carrier for Maguire, and he and Sarah were married in 1871.

When James Michael Curley was old enough, he attended public school, along with his older brother John. At the age of ten, he went to work selling papers, and soon after-allowed to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor."

The city was without a police force and National Guardsmen took over patrol duty. World War I had just ended and many of the soldiers were returning home through Boston. Hearing of the openings for policemen, they applied for jobs and quickly got them. Many patrolled the streets in their Army uniforms.

One of the strike's far-reaching effects on the department was, since an all new department was hired at one time, members of the force would grow old together, and every thirty years the department would see a major transition.

The strike not only made drastic changes in the Police Department but it also helped then Governor of Massachusetts, Calvin Coolidge, become President. Governor Coolidge's statement, "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, at any time," was widely circulated.

RECRUITMENT

Hiring for the Boston Police Department is regulated by state Civil Service. To become a member of the force, you must be between the ages of nineteen and thirty-two, be a high school graduate, hold a Massachusetts Department of Education equivalency certificate, or have served at least three years with the armed forces of the United States. Preference is given to disabled veterans and veterans.

Applicants must take written tests and a physical examination. There is no height requirement, but all candidates must be residents of the City of Boston. The training program least fifty-two weeks. Starting salary for patrolmen is $13,707.85 a year.

Additional officers are hired to fill vacancies and increase the patrol strength whenever needed rather than at particular times of the year.

TRAINING

The Boston Police training program for new officers consists of a fifty-two-week course at the Police Academy. This includes:

Police related training — handling of firearms, self-defense, first aid;

College-level instruction in courses like sociology, criminal law, and psychology;

Practical police experience gained by working with experienced, specially trained, police officers.

An overview of supportive agencies, such as halfway houses and hospitals, obtained by spending time at each agency.

WOMEN OFFICERS

Women officers in the Boston Police Department perform the same duties as men. They are assigned to districts on patrol duty, and to the Anti-Crime Unit where they act as decoys in areas where incidents of purse-snatching and assaults on women are high. Women officers are also used whenever possible in interviewing rape victims.

PATROL FORCES

The number of police cars on the streets assigned to answer calls to the emergency telephone number has been increased from a daily average of 179 to 273. The plan, called the Maximum Patrol and Response Plan, was accomplished by taking men from clerical duties, special assignments with other city agencies, and the Harbor Patrol and putting them on the streets. In addition, walking, scooter, motorcycle, and unmarked car patrols are used. The department has also recently added 150 daily walking patrols.

DETECTIVE UNITS

There are 230 detectives in the department. The detective force takes up investigations of crime after the patrolmen have made the initial inquiries. Each district has detectives besides those in the special units — Drug Control, Homicide, Vice, Intelligence.

SPECIALIZED UNITS

The Emergency Services Unit responds to all incidents likely to require the use of special tools and equipment. It also responds to sniper and hostage incidents and is responsible for bomb search and disposal.

A K-9 unit provides personnel and dogs for victim and building searches.

CRIME PREVENTION

The department operates many crime prevention programs. One of the best known is the Stop Rape Program. The purpose of this program is to educate men and women to the causes and prevention of rape. The program consists of a lecture, followed by a question and answer period, a film, and a self-defense demonstration given by police officers. In addition, personnel are assigned full-time to provide crime prevention instruction to businessmen and homeowners. The department also has set up an Ident-Guard program. Citizens can borrow engraving tools to mark their valuables with their Social Security number and have their names and Social Security number listed with the police.

PERSONNEL

The present strength of the Police Department is as follows:

Superintendents, 4
Deputy Superintendents, 11
Captains, 21
Lieutenants, 49
Lieutenant-Detectives, 6

COMMUNICATIONS

Each day more than 3,500 persons call the Boston Police asking for some type of service ranging from requests for ambulances, reports of objectionable neighborhood noise, to actual crimes. Interestingly, only a little more than 200 of these 3,500 calls actually turn out to be crimes, pointing out that much of the modern police job is handling service calls rather than crimes.

The Operations Center, located on the seventh floor of Police Headquarters, dispatches units to answer citizen calls for assistance. An ultra modern ten-channel radio system is used to tie cars, ambulances, motorcycles, detective units, and walking patrolmen to the Operations Center.

Every officer on the street, whether on foot or in a car, is in radio contact at all times. Patrolmen carry small portable hand-held radios for communications when not in vehicles. In this way police are instantly available for assignments from the Operations Center. The department uses 621 hand-held, two-way radios, 503 mobile radios, and 103 motorcycle radios.

ward, his father died, at the age of thirty-four.

The period following his father's death left a deep impression on him. His mother was forced to work as a scrubwoman, working nights in office buildings, to support him and his brother, though they both obtained part-time work to contribute money to maintain their household.

When James graduated from school, he went to work for a grocer, C. S. Johnson, delivering groceries in a horse-drawn cart. He spent his free evenings at "One-Arm" Peter Whalen's cigar store, which had become a regular stop on every politician's list. It was there he became indoctrinated into ward politics. From the store he was petitioned to canvass for various officeholders as he delivered Johnson's groceries. His politics began to interfere with his job, so he decided to give up the grocery business.

He reached voting age in 1895, and in 1896 campaigned against the ward boss's choice for mayor, Thomas Hart, and worked for the election of Owen Galvin instead. Though Galvin lost the election, young James M. Curley became a figure to be reckoned with in Ward 17.

When the next election time arrived, James Michael Curley ran for Common Council. Opposed by ward boss Pea Jacket Maguire, he lost that bid. Undaunted, he ran for Common Council a second time, and won a seat for the 1900-1901 term. As a freshman councillor, he was responsible for the order to provide a permanent half-holiday on Saturdays to city employees. He began to establish his reputation as a friend of the workingman.

In 1900, still serving as councillor, he ran for chairman of the Ward 17 Democratic Committee. Running against his old adversary, P. J. Maguire, he found the contest vicious. When the votes were counted, though, James M. Curley, twenty-six, was boss of Ward 17.

Politics became his full-time job. He formed the Tammany Club in Roxbury, a group of loyal political supporters he carried with him throughout his political career. In 1901, when his term as councillor ended, he took the next political step, and won the contest as state representative for the 1902-1903 term. In the legislature he concentrated on labor measures and furthered his political education, developing his art of public speaking. Even his enemies concurred that as an orator James Michael had no peer.

After his term as state representative, he was successful in his bid for the Board of Aldermen, the higher body of Boston's bicameral government. Curley was a member of the Board of Aldermen from 1904 to 1909.

Alderman Curley met Mary E. Herlihy at St. Philip Church, on Harrison Avenue, at a minstrel show, and after a steady courtship, they were married on June 27, 1906.

When James Michael Curley returned to the City Council in 1910, he was under great expense and, since a councillor was poorly compensated then, he decided to try for the higher salary and position of Congressman.

Boston had never seen such showmanship in a political campaign. Candidate Curley gathered more publicity than any other political candidate in the city's history. In 1911, James Michael Curley's family joined him in Washington, where he served two terms as a Congressman, until 1914.

Mr. Curley wasn't happy in Congress. It was too far away from his ward and his city. In 1914, he returned to Boston and announced his candidacy for Mayor. He ran against the popular John F. Fitzgerald, who was running for reelection. Congressman Curley had consulted none of the ward bosses about his candidacy, a great break in tradition, and a battle was brewing. Mr. Fitzgerald dropped out of the election and the panicked city committee chose a scholarly lawyer, Thomas Kenny, as James Curley's opponent, but since Mr. Curley's showmanship improved with each campaign, the outcome was no surprise. James Michael Curley began his first term as Mayor of Boston in 1914.

As Mayor of Boston, he reshuffled 600 city employees. It was no coincidence that most of those who were transferred had worked for Thomas Kenny. Mayor Curley plainly declared: "Mr. Fitzgerald has left in office a number of people who are hostile to me, and as I have no desire to be ambushed in my own camp, I am removing them. Every time I drop a friend of his from the payroll, I substitute an equally competent citizen, who has the additional advantage of being a friend of mine."

Mayor Curley's first term established the Curley machine and what became known as "Curleyism" in Boston politics. Because of his policy of personally seeing any citizen who came to his office, he eliminated the ward boss system, and ward boundary lines were never again important in mayoral campaigns. He started Boston on a spending spree, and reconstruction of the city was prolific. Many jobless persons in the city gained employment.

During the first year of his mayoral term, the United States was at war, which kept business booming. Unemployment was not an issue. The ward bosses were hungry for control of the city again, and the bankers and financiers had become angry and frightened by the rise in taxation caused by Mayor Curley's spending. Andrew J. Peters, a Republican of unquestionable integrity, defeated Mr. Curley for mayor, and started his term in 1918. James Michael Curley became politically unemployed for the first time in eighteen years.

James Michael Curley returned as Mayor of Boston for his second term in 1922, successfully defeating John R. Murphy. He embarked once again on reconstruction of the city, wiping out slums, building roads, and expanding City Hospital.

While serving this second term, Mayor Curley made an unsuccessful attempt to become governor of Massachusetts. He was defeated by Alvan T. Fuller, who had been the Republican lieutenant governor.

Mayor Curley returned to City Hall, and one of his accomplishments during his second administration was the establishment of the George Robert White fund for the administration of seven new health units.

Since a statute had been added to the city charter to prevent a mayor from succeeding himself, Mr. Curley did not serve his third term until 1930. Within months after his election, bulldozers were knocking down buildings. He revitalized all of Boston's beaches, including the now world-famous L Street bathhouse.

His personal life was one of great tragedy during this period. His beloved wife died, and six months later his son James Michael, Jr., died also. Five of his family members were now dead, including the twins, and his daughter Dorothea, who had died six years earlier.

From his position as Mayor of Boston, he again ran for governor of Massachusetts, this time against Republican Gaspar G. Bacon. Mayor Curley's record in Boston was good. He kept the people working. On his second try, James Michael became governor of Massachusetts.

His two years as governor have been chronicled as having produced some phenomenal successes. One of his better legacies as governor was the establishment of one of the most efficient tax departments in the country.

In 1936, James Michael Curley was defeated for the United States Senate seat by Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr.

In 1937, prior to leaving the governor's office, James M. Curley married Gertrude Casey Dennis. That same year, 1937, he was defeated in his next bid for Mayor of Boston by young Maurice J. Tobin of Mission Hill, Roxbury. The defeat was bitter, for Maurice Tobin had learned the art of politics from the great James Michael.

Mr. Curley gained the Democratic nomination for governor in 1938, but lost the election to Republican Leverett Saltonstall. He later ran for Congress and won, serving from 1943 to 1946.

Again he returned to Boston as mayor in 1945, with the great support of Boston's voters.

James Michael Curley died on November 12, 1958. His body was viewed by thousands in the rotunda of the State House. His final resting place is in Calvary Cemetery, Dorchester, Mass.

MAYOR CITES NEED FOR INCREASED OFFICE SPACE

Mayor Kevin H. White, on April 29, released a Boston Redevelopment Authority report citing the need for development of three million square feet of new office space in Boston over the next five years.

The seventy-eight-page study, entitled "The Office Industry Survey," contains both an inventory of Boston's office space and an analysis of in-depth surveys of office tenants in Boston.

Mayor White termed the finding of the report "a note of confidence in Boston's future."

Mayor White added, commenting on these prospects for growth, "Boston's office-based service activities are one of the most vital elements in the city's growth and I will work with the private sector to make that future a reality."

Among the key findings of the report are:

- Boston's office industry — concentrated in the professional business, finance, communications, and utility industries — employs 147,200 workers, or 28 percent of the city's workforce.

- Office tenants anticipate an expansion of 15,680 jobs through 1983, and will require an additional three million square feet of office space by that time.

- Vacancy rates at the end of last year were 9 percent overall and 6 percent for new space. The tight office market has led to increased interest in upgrading, refurbishing, and leasing of older space.

- By 1985, it is likely that 1.2 million square feet of older space will be rehabilitated to accommodate tenants needing first-class office space.

BRA Director Robert Ryan said "With all the office development we have seen over the past ten years, we are still confronting a shortage of new office space. In fact, developers for the first time are taking over older office buildings, so-called Class C space, and investing substantial Class A standards. Rents for office space are going up in response to this strong demand and vacancy rates are going down.

"This new information supplies a missing link in our downtown planning efforts and enables us to relate the national, regional, and city perspective for service activity employment to Boston's office labor force by industry and occupation. The insights garnered from research reports such as this one help us to make decisions on the future of downtown, public investment requirements and tax-incentive policies for office construction."

The survey was carried out in collaboration with the Building Owners and Managers Association of Greater Boston (BOMA), Ryan Elliott and Company, and the Greater Boston Real Estate Board.

Mayor White, while cheered by the health of Boston's office industry and its bright prospects, voiced concern about one aspect of the study.

"Currently only one out of four who works in Boston's office buildings resides in the city. I would hope that in the not-too-distant future more of Boston's residents would be employed in Boston's offices, and that more of those who commute to Boston would want to live in the city."

YOUNGSTERS, PLAY BALL!

Mayor White opens Parkway Little League season; throws out first ball at Praught Field.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on April 28, officially opened the Little League baseball season in Boston by throwing out the first ball for the Parkway Little League at West Roxbury's Praught Field.

Said Mayor White, "We are here today to pay tribute to the more than 800 youngsters who play in the Parkway League, and especially, to honor the Central League All-Stars, who repeated as champions this past year."

After presenting each member of the All-Star Team with a trophy, Mayor White praised the community sports spirit which has built the league into forty-two teams.

"This part of West Roxbury has a strong tradition of excellence in sports," said Mayor White. "Right next door is the field for Catholic Memorial High School, which won the high school Super Bowl last year. The city allocated the money used to build Praught Field in 1975. But it has been your enthusiasm that has made this league what it is today."

West Roxbury youngsters, ages eight through twelve, participated with Parkway Little League season which runs through June.

ANNUAL TAXICAB INSPECTION

Boston Police Commissioner Joseph M. Jordan has announced that the annual City of Boston taxicab inspection began Tuesday, May 1, and will continue through Saturday, June 30.

During this period, more than 1,525 taxicabs operated by Boston's private taxi companies will be inspected by police officers assigned to the Boston Police Hackney Carriage Unit. Inspectors from the City of Boston Department of Weights and Measures and inspectors from the Registry of Motor Vehicles will also participate in the annual inspection.

The inspection entails rigorous examination of each vehicle's mechanical systems, as well as general assessment of the taxi's overall appearance. No taxicab operator receives a taxicab medallion for any vehicle which fails to pass the pre-licensing inspection.

According to Commissioner Jordan, the purpose of the annual inspection is to insure maintenance of a high level of quality and uniformity among Boston's taxicabs. Inspection of each taxicab, noted the Commissioner, allows the general public to enjoy safe, sound, and comfortable taxicab service.

NO SMOKING PLEASE!

A bill which would require restaurants with two or more dining areas or a seating capacity of more than 200 to designate areas for no smoking is currently before the Senate Ways and Means Committee. The proposal would require operators to post an appropriate number of signs to indicate areas where smoking is prohibited. Operators would be subject to fines of $50. The Massachusetts Restaurant Association opposes the bill and is asking members to contact legislators and voice opposition to the measure.

Middle age is when you tell your teenage son to get a haircut and he says he just did.

BRA PLANS DEVELOPMENT OF MULTIMILLION DOLLAR COMPLEX

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has given initial approvals for development of a $65-million, hotel-office-garage complex on a block which was the former site of the Federal Reserve Bank.

After a public hearing, the BRA Board voted to recommend its approval of a "planned development area," a designation which will provide zoning variances required by the developers before the project can proceed.

The project is to be carried out by two affiliates of The Beacon Companies, the Pearl Street Company and the Post Office Square Company. Beacon Companies developed the Center Plaza office building in Government Center.

The plan calls for conversion of the existing 1922 Federal Reserve building into a 300-room, luxury hotel. A thirty-nine-story office building and a 400-car garage are other elements in the complex. Demolition is currently under way on the Federal Reserve buildings which were built in 1953 and 1973.

Mayor Kevin H. White, in commenting on the BRA vote, said, "This ambitious proposal—to be carried out with no public subsidies of any kind—is dramatic evidence that development activity in Boston continues unabated. There is a strong demand for new office space. There is even stronger demand for new hotel rooms—and the private sector is responding to these demands. This is the kind of project that tells us just how strong and healthy and vital our downtown has become."

BRA Director Robert J. Ryan said that construction of the office building could begin by July 1, with a September 1 start scheduled for the hotel.

The former Federal Reserve Bank building, facing on Pearl, Oliver, and Franklin Streets, will be converted into a first-class hotel, with three floors added above the roof. These floors will be stepped back from the edges of the roof at an angle of 60°, and will be largely of aluminum and glass construction, so as to reduce the visual impact from other vantage points. A glass atrium, with a crossover to the office building, will face Pearl Street. The hotel will have approximately 300 guest rooms, conference, meeting, and function rooms, food and beverage facilities, retail and service uses customarily located in hotels, and possibly a health club.

The thirty-nine-story office tower is proposed for the Milk and Pearl Streets corner facing Post Office Square. It will have retail/commercial space on portions of the first two levels. The exterior of the first three levels will be largely glass; the upper levels will be faced with glass and precast concrete with exposed aggregate.

At the Milk and Oliver Street corner, a 400-car garage proposed for use primarily by guests and patrons of the hotel and tenants and visitors to the office building, with some spaces available to the general public. Ten loading bays to service the hotel and office building will be located below grade with access from Oliver Street. Access and egress will be by a private way connecting Pearl and Oliver Streets.

Architects for the project are Jung Brannen Associates, Inc., with Pietro Belluschi, consultant.

VICTORY GARDENS HOUSING SET FOR EAST BOSTON

Victory Gardens, an eighty-seven-unit apartment building designed for occupancy by elderly and handicapped persons, is now under construction in East Boston on a parcel of land located at 54 Orleans Street between Maverick and Sumner Streets near Maverick Square.

The housing is being developed by Edward Fish, Michael A. D'Avolio, and Sabatino Marcucci, general partners in Victory Garden Associates, with a $3,020,000 loan from the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency.

The rentals on the eighty-three, one-bedroom and four, two-bedroom units will be subsidized through the federal government's section 8 program which means that residents, elderly persons living predominately on fixed incomes, will pay 25 percent of their monthly income for rent.

MHFA Executive Director John T. Eller said that it is rewarding to see developments like Victory Gardens under construction particularly in areas such as East Boston where over 16 percent of the total population are elderly persons.

According to Eller, the East Boston community has provided strong support for the development. Over a two-year period, members of the East Boston Land Use, Master Planning, Elderly Affairs, and Recreational Council and a neighborhood subcommittee composed of area residents, met regularly with members of the development team and the MHFA staff to work out a design that would blend well with the urban surroundings.

The result of this involvement by community representatives will be a low, brick building which overlooks a landscaped garden and green areas. The facade of the building will be accented at the upper levels by balconies which will have projecting end walls to create shadows and flat, red oak railings, sliced to add texture. To add further visual interest the cornice will be of alternating heights along its length.

In addition to the eighty-seven apartments, laundry facilities will be provided and a large multipurpose room for residents will be included on the ground floor of the building adjacent to the lobby area.

The land on which the housing is being constructed was previously owned by Marcucci who made it available to elderly residents of the area for their "victory gardens," the source of the name of the new housing development. These people were consulted when the housing development was initially proposed, and they gave their unanimous support to it.

The site is conveniently located within walking distance of the Maverick Square MBTA, churches, and a variety of shopping and recreational facilities.

MHFA is an eleven-year-old state agency established by the Legislature to make loans for the development of low- and moderate-income housing. These loans are funded through the sale of tax-exempt notes and bonds to private investors. Fees charged to developers allow the agency to operate without state tax expenditures.

To date MHFA has financed over 39,000 units of housing in 272 developments with loans totaling over one billion dollars. These developments house nearly 115,000 people and are located in seventy-five Massachusetts communities. Additionally, MHFA's program has generated 20,000 construction jobs, 850 housing development, management, and maintenance positions, and 26,000 spinoff jobs in housing service and related businesses.

HARVARD PROFESSORSHIP FOR WALTER J. BATE

Walter Jackson Bate, two-time Pulitzer prize-winning biographer, and this century's leading authority on Samuel Johnson, will become the A. Kingsley Porter University Professor at Harvard on July 1.

President Derek Bok made the announcement at the Eliot House annual dinner on April 18, honoring the birthday of Harvard President Charles William Eliot.

A university professorship is the highest academic distinction Harvard can bestow in that these chairs are reserved for men and women who are "working on the frontiers of knowledge in such a way that they cross conventional boundaries of the specialties."

In making the announcement, Mr. Bok said, "In naming Jack Bate the Porter University Professor, we honor an outstanding teacher-scholar who exemplifies the highest aspirations of the humanities at Harvard."

"Jack Bate has devoted himself to Harvard for forty-three years. He has taught legions of undergraduates; tutored hundreds of english and history and literature concentrators; written untold letters of recommendation with an eighteenth-century flair for aphorism; tirelessly led several faculty committees, yet somehow managed to write prodigiously. We honor him for his 'experiencing nature' and through him the Harvard tradition of great humanistic scholarship," Mr. Bok concluded.

GBREB CELEBRATES NINETIETH ANNIVERSARY

Richard W. Bland II, receives "Realtor of the Year" Award.

The Greater Boston Real Estate Board on April 26, presented its "Realtor of the Year" Award to Richard W. Bland II, of Cambridge, executive vice-president of the Boston-based real estate firm of Hunne-man & Co., Inc.

The presentation was made by Robert L. Beal, board president, at the organization's ninetieth anniversary banquet, attended by more than 800 happy realtors and guests at the Sheraton Boston Hotel. Beal commended Bland for his many achievements in furthering the realtor cause.

In addition to chairing the Neighborhood Revitalization Committee of the 4,100-member trade association, Bland is vice-president of the Rental Housing Association (RHA), a division of the board.

He is also chairman of the RHA Public Information Committee, as well as chairman of the Education Committee of the Building Owners and Managers Association, another of the board's four divisions.

Well-known in the real estate industry, Bland has been called upon as a consultant for several development projects and for the Cambridge Tax Department and the Boston Delinquent Tax Unit.

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED FOR BOSTON'S WATERFRONT

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has awarded a contract to Sasaki Associates to develop proposals relating to improved public access to the waterfront and the requirements of commuter and tour boats which use piers along the downtown waterfront.

BRA Director Robert J. Ryan said, "Renewal has played a major part in helping Boston rediscover its waterfront. In order to take advantage of this opportunity, we must carry out detailed planning to insure the public has access to our waterfront.

We want also to insure that pleasure craft, commuter boats, and tour boats have adequate docking facilities—and that means we have to consider what improvements must be done, and what costs are involved. Through this kind of planning approach we can balance economic development along the waterfront with preservation of public access."

Six weeks ago, Ryan established a Boston Harbor Task Force within the BRA to coordinate all planning and development activities along the waterfront.

The task force is multi-disciplinary, consisting of people from every area of expertise within the BRA. Sasaki Associates will be working closely with BRA staff assigned to the Boston Harbor Task Force. The task force is considering the topics of harbor transportation, land use patterns, and the question of development versus conservation.

Sasaki Associates has carried out projects for the BRA on the waterfront, most notably the design of the Waterfront Park on Atlantic Avenue.

BROTHER, CAN YOU SPARE A DOG?

The Boston Police Department has issued a request asking for donations of male, pure-breed, German Shepherd dogs between the ages of one and two years for possible service in the department's Canine Unit.

In issuing the request, Captain Robert Bradley of the department's Mobile Operations Patrol emphasized the many advantages of maintaining an adequate number of canine shepherds fully prepared for crime prevention and detection services.

Shepherds selected for Canine Unit service will receive thorough training for patrol duty of residential streets and narcotics searches. The Canine Unit dogs also participate in frequent public demonstrations of police canine skills and advantages.

Owner of shepherds selected for possible Canine Unit service will have their dogs evaluated for proper behavioral skills, during a five-day, trial period. A veterinarian will conduct a thorough physical examination of each donated shepherd and approve or disapprove each dog for Canine Unit service.

Shepherds rejected for Canine Unit service will be returned to their owners.

Persons interested in learning more about the department's need for Canine Unit shepherds should contact Captain Bradley at Police District One, 40 New Sudbury Street, Boston, MA 02114. Telephone 247-4240.

Because of the need to continue the swimming program in community schools and high schools for the coming academic year, and because of his skills in teaching and administrative experience of past years in directing the smooth operational system of instructions and selection of swimming personnel, where there can be no accidents, and because of his expertise in the suggestions of the construction and maintenance of present pools and the input of experience for future swimming pools in the Boston Schools, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

Copies of the contract documents may be obtained by depositing $25 in cash or a certified check, payable to the Boston Redevelopment Authority, with the Boston Redevelopment Authority, for each set of documents so obtained. Each such deposit will be refunded if the contract documents are returned in good condition within ten (10) days after bid opening.

Bids shall be accompanied by a bid deposit in the form of a bid bond, or cash, or a certified check, or a treasurer's or cashier's check issued by a responsible bank or trust company, payable to the Boston Redevelopment Authority. A bid bond shall be (a) in a form satisfactory to the Awarding Authority; (b) with a surety company qualified to do business in the Commonwealth and satisfactory to the Awarding Authority; and (c) conditioned upon the faithful performance by the principal of the agreements contained in the subbid or general bid. Bid deposit shall be in the amount equal to at least 5 percent of each proposal for Site Preparation Contract No. 13-CDBG.

A performance bond and also a labor and materials or payment bond, each of a surety company qualified to do business under the laws of the Commonwealth and satisfactory to the Authority, and each in the sum of 100 percent of the contract price will be required of the successful bidder.

Attention is also directed to the Instructions to Bidders — Award of Contracts: Rejection of Bids due to abnormally high and abnormally low prices for any class or item of work.

Attention is called to the fact that no less than the minimum salaries and wages set forth in the contract documents must be paid on this project and that the contractor must ensure that employees and applicants for employment are not discriminated against because of their race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. Attention is also called to the requirements relating to Workmen's Compensation and conditions of employment and to the Boston Redevelopment Authority's Equal Opportunity Compliance Policy, adopted February 20, 1969, revised June, 1975, and to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Supplemental Equal Employment Opportunity, Anti-Discrimination and Affirmative Action Program, and City of Boston Affirmative Action Compliance with contract specification and to the required certification of the bidder regarding equal employment opportunity.

No bid for the award of this project will be considered acceptable unless the contractor complies fully with the following requirements for minority business enterprise utilization.

Pursuant to the minority participation section of the City of Boston contract for Boston Redevelopment Authority funded construction contracts, the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least 10 percent (30 percent for Impact Areas) of his/her bid price shall be expended for minority business enterprise. For the purposes of this paragraph, the term minority business enterprise means a business at least 51 percent of which is owned and controlled by minority group members or, in the case of a publicly owned business, at least 51 percent of the stock is owned by minority group members who are Black, Hispanic, Oriental, or American Indians.

Included with the contract documents are copies of the "Minority Business Utilization Form," "Minority Business Identification Statement," "Minority Business Utilization Progress Report," and the "Minority Business and the General Contractor's Letter of Intent."

Each contractor must complete, sign, and file with his/her bid the Minority Business Utilization Form. Failure to do so will result in the rejection of the bid proposal. The three lowest responsive bidders are required to submit a Minority Business and General Contractor's Letter of Intent. The letter of intent shall be completed and signed by the minority business enterprise and the general contractor within five (5) days after the time set for receiving bids. At the request of the city one or more of the three lowest bidders may also be required to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement.

Contractors shall also avail themselves of the list of minority businesses to be provided by the city through the Office of Minority Business Enterprise, to facilitate compliance with these requirements.

NOTICE OF REQUIREMENT FOR AFFIRMATIVE ACTION TO ENSURE EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY

The contractor's attention is called to the "Equal Opportunity Clause" and "Standard Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Construction Contract Specification" set forth in this part.

The goals and timetables for minority and female participation, expressed in percentage terms for the contractor's aggregate workforce in each trade on all construction work in the covered area. (See Pages EEO-1 and EEO-2 of the bid specification for goals and timetables.)

These goals are applicable to all the contractor's construction work (whether or not it is federal or federally assisted) performed in the covered area.

As used in this notice, and in the contract, the covered area is Boston, and the Islands of Boston Harbor, Massachusetts.

The contractor's compliance with the Executive Order and the regulation in 41 CFR Part 60-4 shall be based on its implementation of the Equal Opportunity Clause, specific affirmative action obligations required to meet the goals established for the geographical area where the contract is to be performed.

The hours of minority and female employment and training must be substantially uniform throughout the length of the contract in each trade, and the contractor shall make a good-faith effort to employ minorities and women evenly on each of its projects.

The transfer of minority or female employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's goals shall be a violation of the contract. The Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4 compliance with the goals will be measured against the total workhours performed.

The Boston Redevelopment Authority reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any informalities in bidding, if it be in the public interest so to do.

Bids may be held by the Boston Redevelopment Authority for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days from the date of the opening of bids for the purpose of reviewing the bids and investigating the qualifications of the bidders, prior to awarding of the contract.

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the provisions of the contract documents, including without limitation, the notice to all bidders (including subbidders), and provisions with respect to bonds, insurance, equal employment opportunity, minimum wages, time of performance, liquidated damages, and the requirements set forth in the specifications or supplemental Equal Employment Opportunity Anti-Discrimination and Affirmative Action Program Contract provisions, and the requirements of mandatory compliance with section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and Executive Order 11246. A statement of workforce needs as required by section 3 and a section 3 affirmative action plan shall be submitted with the contractor's proposal. These forms are AAP1-AAP6 and AAP8 and can be found at pages ST1-ST10 of the contract documents. This requirement will be strictly adhered to. Proposals submitted without the required forms will be rejected. No bidder shall be eligible for award on this project unless he/she is able to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Boston Redevelopment Authority his/her ability to comply with these requirements.

Prebid conference and EEO and affirmative action attention is called to all prospective bidders that they are required to attend a prebid conference to discuss the federal, state and local requirements regarding affirmative action; also to discuss the Minority Business Utilization Program, goals and timetables for minorities and females. This conference will be held with the Contract Compliance Officer of the Boston Redevelopment Authority. Prebid Conference with Mr. Reggie Johnson will be held on May 15, 1979, at 11 a.m., in Room 938, City Hall, Boston, Mass.

The rate per hour of the wages to be paid to mechanics, teamsters, chauffeurs, and laborers in the work to be performed under the contract, shall not be less than the rate of wages in the schedule determined by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries of the Commonwealth and subject to the prevailing wage rates established by the U. S. Department of Labor and the Equal Employment Opportunity Requirements, a copy of which schedule is annexed to the form of contract referred to herein. Copies of said schedule may be obtained, without cost, upon application therefor at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works. Before commencing performance of this contract, the contractor shall provide by insurance for the payment of compensation and the furnishing of other benefits under chapter 152 of the General Laws (the Workmen's Compensation Law, so called) to all persons to be employed under this contract and shall continue such insurance in full force and effect during the term of this contract.

No bid for the award of this project will be considered acceptable unless the contractor complies fully with the following requirements for Minority Business Enterprise Utilization.

Pursuant to the supplemental minority participation section of the City of Boston contract, the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least 30 percent of his bid price shall be expended for minority business enterprise. For the purposes of this paragraph, the term minority business enterprise means a business organization in which 51 percent of the beneficial ownership is held by one or more minority persons who are Black, Hispanic, Oriental, or American Indians.

Included with the contract documents are copies of the "Minority Business Utilization Form," "Minority Business Identification Statement," "Minority Business Utilization Progress Report," and the "Minority Business and the General Contractor's Letter of Intent."

Each contractor must complete, sign, and file with his bid the Minority Business Utilization Form. Failure to do so will result in the rejection of the bid proposal. The three lowest responsive bidders are required to submit a minority business and general contractor's letter of intent. The letter of intent shall be completed and signed by the minority business enterprise and the general contractor within five days after the time set for receiving bids. At the request of the city, one or more of the three lowest bidders may also be required to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement.

Contractors shall also avail themselves of the list of minority businesses to be provided by the city through the Office of Minority Business Enterprise to facilitate compliance with these requirements.

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the provisions of the contract documents, including, without limitation, the notice to all bidders (including subbidders), and the provisions with respect to bonds, insurance, equal employment opportunity, minimum wages, time of performance, liquidated damages, and to the requirements of mandatory compliance with section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and Executive Order 11246. A statement of work force needs as required by section 3 and a section 3 affirmative action plan shall be submitted with the contractor's proposal. These are forms AAP1-AAP6 and AAP8 and can be found at pages ST1-ST-10 of the contract documents. This requirement will be strictly adhered to. Proposals submitted without the required forms will be rejected. No bidder shall be eligible for award on this project unless he is able to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Awarding Authority his ability to comply with these requirements.

The contractor's attention is called to the "Equal Opportunity Clause" and "Standard Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Construction Contract Specifications" set forth in this part.

The goals and timetables for minority and female participation, expressed in percentage terms for the contractor's aggregate workforce in each trade on all construction work in the covered areas (See pages EEO-1 and EEO-2 of the bid specifications for goals and timetables.)

These goals are applicable to all the contractor's construction work (whether or not it is federal or federally assisted) performed in the covered areas.

As used in this notice, and in the contract, the covered area is Arlington, Boston, Belmont, Brookline, Burlington, Cambridge, Canton, Chelsea, Dedham, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Milton, Norwood, Reading, Revere, Somerville, Stoneham, Wakefield, Westwood, Winthrop, Winchester, Woburn, and the Islands of Boston Harbor, Massachusetts.

The contractor's compliance with the Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4 shall be based on its implementation of the Equal Opportunity Clause, specific affirmative action obligations required to meet the goals established for the geographical area where the contract is to be performed.

The hours of minority and female employment and training must be substantially uniform throughout the length of the contract in each trade, and the contractor shall make a good-faith effort to employ minorities and women evenly on each of its projects.

The transfer of minority or female employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's goals shall be a violation of the contract, the Executive Order, and the regulation in 41 CFR Part 60-4. Compliance with the goals will be measured against the total workhours performed.

A prebid conference will be held at 12:30 p.m., Monday, May 14, 1979, in the Hearing Room, 801 City Hall, One City Hall Square. It is essential that the prospective bidders have a representative attend.

ATTENTION IS CALLED TO CHAPTER 370 OF THE ACTS OF 1963, WHICH MUST BE STRICTLY COMPLIED WITH. The Commissioner reserves the right to reject any and all proposals or any item or items of the proposal should he deem it to be for the best interest of the city so to do.

Commissioner of Public Works.

The rate per hour of the wages to be paid to mechanics, teamsters, chauffeurs, and laborers in the work to be performed shall not be less than the rate of wages determined for this work by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts under the provisions of General Laws (Ter. Ed.), chapter 149, section 26, as amended, a schedule of which appears in the specifications.

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the equal employment opportunity section of the specifications and the obligation of the contractor and all subcontractors to take affirmative action in connection with employment practices throughout the work.

The successful bidder will be required to provide by insurance for the payment of compensation and the furnishing of other benefits under the Workmen's Compensation Law, General Laws (Ter. Ed.), chapter 152, to all persons to be employed under the contract, and sufficient proof of compliance with the foregoing stipulation will be required before commencing performance of this contract.

Specifications and other contract documents may be obtained at the office of the Awarding Authority.

A performance bond, and also a labor and materials or payment bond, each of a surety company qualified to do business under the laws of the Commonwealth and satisfactory to the Awarding Authority and each in the sum of 100 percent of the contract price, will be required of the successful general bidder.

The Awarding Authority reserves the right to waive any informalities and to reject any or all general bids, if it be in the public interest so to do.

STATUS REPORT: BOSTON PUBLIC SCHOOLS

*Reorganization and Decentralization
by Dr. Robert Wood, Superintendent*

The Boston Public Schools are midway through the process of the most comprehensive reorganization and thorough decentralization in its recent history. Chapter 333 of the General Laws took effect on September 1, 1978. On October 15, 1979, the department will report the results of reorganization and decentralization to the Federal District Court which will, among other things, assure full compliance with personnel requirements of outstanding orders. At this juncture, it seems appropriate to give an account of our progress to date — including the elaboration of the basic plan, structural modifications, personnel deployment, and administrative procedures — especially to those who were instrumental in initiating and developing the original propositions.

The Original Mandate

The Advisory Task Force on Management Restructuring of the Boston School Department proposed three principal goals of reorganization:

- a significant increase in the authority of the Superintendent over both the management and educational activities of the department and in the selection and retention of key personnel;

- the design of an effective structure for integrating and consolidating management functions that support the educational process;

- the strengthening of central policy and monitoring capabilities and the decentralization of operational activities and responsibilities to the field.

In August, 1978, I accepted these broad principles of reorganization, made simultaneous arrangements for a selection process to identify candidates for senior officer positions as stipulated by chapter 333 and began detailed planning of the reorganization. To benefit from the knowledge and judgment of administrators, teachers, parents, community leaders, and professionals in August, I convened two transition teams, incorporating a total of twelve groups, on which many of you served and charged them with the responsibility of assessing both structural and program issues.

The Transition Teams, both in their interim and final reports, elaborated upon the patterns of reorganization established by the Advisory Task Force. These reports expanded the themes of the decentralization of the school system, recommending that the principals and community superintendents assume augmented roles in major educational decisions affecting students, and the "mainstreaming" of heretofore special and separate programs. The teams felt strongly that areas such as special needs education, bilingual and vocational education should be correlated with the regular education program wherever appropriate.

From Planning to Practice

The final reports of the Transition Teams brought together to form the basis for a unified approach designed to carry out the common requirements for decentralization and central office reorganization, with

BOSTON'S FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

Thirty-eighth Mayor
ANDREW J. PETERS
1918-1921

Andrew J. Peters was born in Jamaica Plain April 3, 1872. He prepared for college at St. Paul's School, where he excelled in athletics, particularly aquatic sports. He was a clever oarsman and skipper, and swimming was also a favorite pastime.

He entered Harvard College in 1892. While at Harvard, he maintained his interest in sports, but never allowed it to interfere with his studies. Mr. Peters received his degree in 1895, and entered Harvard's Law School, obtaining his law degree in three years.

Mr. Peters entered the political arena in 1901, running as the Democratic candidate for State Representative in his district. Although campaigning in a heavily Republican district, he was successful in his effort, and entered the House of Representatives in 1902.

From 1904 to 1905 he was a member of the Massachusetts Senate, and in 1911, he served as United States Congressman from the Eleventh District, and served four terms as Congressman.

In 1910, Mr. Peters married Martha R. Phillips, a descendant of John R. Phillips, the first mayor of Boston. Six sons were born to them, but two died at a young age.

Andrew J. Peters' reputation as a man on integrity helped elect him Mayor of Boston in 1917, and he served from 1918 to 1921.

special emphasis on the separation of policy and operational activities. In September, 1978, until the appointment of the Senior Officers, we embarked upon an effort to identify the essential central functions which were either nonexistent or "primitive," i.e., underdeveloped in their capacity to address the key elements in an effective educational delivery system. Areas such as Policy and Planning, Intergovernmental Relations, Community and Public Affairs, Equal Education Opportunity, Curriculum and Competency, Collective Bargaining, and Personnel Policy were provided in the central administrative structure to assure a coherent approach to the management of a large urban system.

In October, 1978, as required by chapter 333, I appointed my initial senior staff. Robert Donahue and David Bernstein were appointed to the two operational Deputy Superintendent positions, with responsibility for overseeing the effective academic and nonacademic management of the Boston Public Schools. All but two of the other Senior Officers were appointed at that time and we began to define those functions to be carried out under their direct supervision and those to be assigned to the district offices under the direction of the Community Superintendents. At that time, I recommended to the School Committee the consolidation, reassignment and/or elimination of ninety-five central administrative positions consistent with the goal of reducing central administrative costs. Forty-five positions were eliminated outright from the School Department Table of Organization. Concurrent with these actions, a selective number of new positions were authorized so that Senior Officers might discharge their management planning responsibilities. Once all personnel actions are completed, the reorganization is expected to effect an actual cost savings of at least $550,000 beginning in Fiscal Year 1980, although current payroll analysis will not as yet reflect that fact. Future actions in vocational education, special needs, and external grant programs are expected to produce further savings.

In November, 1978, the Community Superintendents began intensive professional development and workforce analysis to prepare them for the transition of responsibility and authority. Subsequently, Community Superintendents have developed proposals for the effective organization of their offices. These submissions were analyzed for consistency and cost effectiveness and appropriate district-based positions have been identified for School Committee authorization. They are to be rated through the screening process with persons hired by August.

Outside Events

Several intervening factors have affected our schedule to implement chapter 333. The Federal District Court intervened on the behalf of the plaintiffs to insure compliance with affirmative action goals. The Boston Teachers Union sought an injunction from the State Labor Relations Board which would prohibit the School Committee from reassigning any members of their bargaining unit. Finally, the Retirement Board challenged the School Committee's Early Retirement Incentive Plan. As a consequence, approximately three months were lost in carrying out the first phase of the plan and only a partial deployment of personnel was achieved on January 2, 1977. However, while court proceedings are pending a number of personnel have been reassigned to the district level to assist the decentralization effort and to strengthen the capacity of the Community Superintendents to respond to the educational needs of the students in their respective districts. Many of these persons are now in the schools providing direct service to students and assessing the needs of the districts.

Current Status

With respect to our present status in terms of the original purposes of reorganization (a unified central management, the decentralization of operational activity and increased productivity) the present state of affairs is as follows:

Unified Management: For the first time in its history, the Boston Public Schools have consolidated their educational service activities under two specific organizational units — Academic and Management Operations. Oversight over the complex and diverse operations of special needs, bilingual, career and occupational education, and general instructional areas, as well as the oversight of operations and program implementation within the nine districts, is now the responsibility of the Deputy Superintendent for Academic Operations who maintains an unambiguous reporting relationship to the Superintendent.

The Office of Curriculum and Competency, under the direction of Dr. Bernice Miller, has the responsibility for developing a comprehensive, systemwide curriculum that not only mainstreams discrete instructional and programmatic curriculum standards but also moves the Boston Public Schools towards competency requirements. Under Dr. Miller's leadership and with the collective contributions of her Senior Advisors for Citywide Programs in Art, Music, Science, Physical Education, Basic Skills, and Bilingual Education, integrated curricular and competency plans will be expected to have an impact on life in classrooms by the start of the school year in 1980. Once developed and approved, they will become the basic policy guidelines for academic operations.

Through the Deputy Superintendent for Academic Operations comes clear line authority from the Superintendent's Office to the District Offices and to the schools. In addition to routine oversight and line management responsibilities, Robert Donahue has contributed to the definition of decentralizable tasks and accountability standards to help insure system conformity with the decentralization goals of both the Advisory Committee and the Transition Teams.

Policy directions and review for management aspects of the system come from the Deputy Superintendent, Management Operations. Management operations now include the management of academic and nonacademic personnel functions, custodial services, budget, business and financial services, data processing, food services, and alterations and repairs directly under the Superintendent, through a reporting line to the Deputy Superintendent, Management Operations.

Revisions of custodial personnel management techniques have increased workforce stability and, we believe, productivity 24 percent since October. Intensive collective bargaining should culminate early next month in the issuance of a "Decentralized Plan of Custodial Operations" aimed at establishing direct reporting relationships between custodians and school building administrators.

New audit and accounting standards designed to result in a dependable financial information base and enhanced management control have been implemented, while budgeting systems have been altered to provide an integrated picture of all grant and general school purposes funds and to allow purposeful program budgeting as an enhancement to the planning tools now available through responsibility center budgets. The impact of these technical changes is further decentralization of budgeting and the placement of grant programs in the regular line responsibility of program managers.

Control of nonacademic employees has resulted in the introduction of personnel evaluation systems for clerical advancement. Additionally, nonacademic personnel operations are in the process of consolidation into one overall personnel operations department which will include responsibilities for academic personnel as well.

Major emphasis has been placed on the establishment of a responsive systems design and analysis capability within an Office of Information Systems Design and Development. Both financial information and personnel information systems are already under intensive implementation. Even more important, the new Information Systems Office coordinates a localized student data base and attendance automation system to be in full operation in the city's high schools by September.

Within the business systems area, purchase of the elementary educational materials, textbooks and paper, and general supplies is fully automated and will result in timely delivery of necessary materials to schools. Work productivity analysis is now being used to reduce ordering backlogs and to decrease payment delays, although results will not be apparent this year.

Central Capacity-Building and Decentralization

Simultaneously with operational reforms in academic and management activities, the evolution of senior officer staff functions began. Collective bargaining and personnel policy activities were brought together in a senior office headed by Paul Kennedy. Since personnel supervision and evaluation are expected to be the responsibility of all line administrators, there is currently an effort under way to develop performance appraisal measures which incorporate both accountability and human resource development objectives. These systems will be developed for all personnel within the School Department and will be designed, of course, to reflect different occupational groupings.

Planning procedures have been developed to promote school-based, goal setting in a manner which is consistent with systemwide priorities. The Office of Policy and Planning, under Dr. Breeden, and the Office of Budget Management, under Robert Peterkin, have worked closely with department personnel at all levels to implement a decentralized planning process. Identification of resources necessary to achieve planning objectives is a primary responsibility of the Office of Intergovernmental Relations under the direction of Peter Meade.

Communication procedures and information guidelines are in the process of development both at the central and local level. The Office of Community and Public Affairs, directed by Betty Cook, has developed guidelines for communicating with the public and the media. Further, the Office of District Relations and Standards was created to maintain continuity and clarity regarding the flow of information between central and field offices. Interoffice procedures have been developed and implemented to ensure the efficient management of communication among central staff.

Another facet of procedural change due to the reorganization is the orientation and training which is required as personnel become adjusted to new roles and responsibilities. Major orientation and training activities for school, district, and centrally based staff are expected to occur throughout the summer in preparation for the opening of school in September.

The Community Superintendents are prepared to accept the expanded leadership role essential to the success of the educational programs in the schools. Under reorganization, resources have been reassigned to the district offices and, most importantly, the classrooms; music, art, science, and physical education personnel are in the classrooms providing students with needed services. The evolution of the position of teacher-specialist not only provides a broader and more equitable distribution of resources within the districts, but also provides new capability for assessing district needs in specific areas and devising programs tailored to district requirements.

Productivity

The separation of policy and operational responsibilities permits workload and performance measures previously difficult to apply. In the management areas, standards of evaluation are already established with respect to physical facilities. In the academic area, first approximations of productivity schedules have been developed for the special needs evaluation process and they will be selectively applied for other appropriate activities.

The 1979-1980 budget will show for the first time all revenue sources and makes progress towards program budgeting as well as increased reliance on district discretionary funds. Work is under way to refine guidelines and criteria for the more specific competency-based measures of performance.

Next Steps

The court mandate is to present a completed reorganization plan by October 15, 1979, in full compliance with affirmative action orders. Accordingly, we are scheduled to complete central and district office reorganization by mid-summer. Concurrently, a thorough review of personnel selection and evaluation processes is under way to determine appropriate competency criteria throughout the department and a comprehensive affirmative action plan as required by federal statute is now being developed.

In these activities, we welcome the continued advice and counsel of this group and assistance in areas of your special expertise. We hope you will continue to assist the department through the next critical months until October 15, 1979, as we have been grateful for your participation.

MBTA TO REGISTER SENIOR CITIZENS AND HANDICAPPED IN LITTLE CITY HALLS

An MBTA registration team will visit Boston's nine Little City Halls in May to register eligible senior citizens and handicapped citizens, the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) has announced. Registration will take place between 9:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

To be eligible for a senior citizen reduced fare identification card, which contains the name and address of the holder and a color photograph for positive identification, senior citizens must bring proof of age — sixty-five years or older — such as a birth certificate, baptismal record, or driver's license; proof of residency such as a driver's license, library card, or charge plates; and a 50¢ cash fee.

Medicare cards will not be accepted as proof of age.

The MBTA stressed that senior citizens who already have a reduced fare identification card do not need to register again. What appears to be an expiration date is used merely for internal auditing and control purposes. Once a reduced fare identification card is issued, it is good for life.

To be eligible for a handicapped citizen reduced fare identification card, good only during off-peak hours, handicapped persons must present acceptable proof of their disability such as a Medicaid card showing Category 03, handicapped; a certificate of award letter from the Social Security Administration; evidence of 70 percent or more disability as determined by the United States Veterans' Administration; or completion of MBTA Form No. SN-7 which must be approved and signed by a physician or state or federal agency serving the handicapped.

The MBTA forms will be mailed to anyone requesting them by calling the MBTA's Special Needs Office at 722-5438.

The MBTA special registration team will visit the Little City Halls on the following dates:

Wednesday, May 16, Dorchester Little City Hall, Park Street and Dorchester Avenue

Thursday, May 17, Jamaica Plain Little City Hall, 20 South Street

Friday, May 18, Hyde Park Little City Hall, 1179 River Street

Tuesday, May 22, Roslindale Little City Hall, 6 Cummins Highway

Wednesday, May 23, South Boston Little City Hall, 449 West Broadway

Thursday, May 24, West Roxbury Little City Hall, 1860 Centre Street

Friday, May 25, Charlestown Little City Hall, 236 Bunker Hill Street.

MAYOR HOSTS "MAY IS FOR OLDER BOSTONIANS" OBSERVANCES

Mayor Kevin H. White, on May 3, hosting more than 700 elderly Bostonians at a reception and awards ceremony at historic Faneuil Hall, opened the annual month-long tribute to the contributions of elderly Bostonians to their city.

Said Mayor White, "If this ceremony tonight says anything, it is that age serves to enrich and strengthen people. Our elders have a view of life sharpened by time. They have perspective. They have priceless experience. They have an energy that is often underestimated by their children."

The highlight of the evening salute to the elderly was an address by nationally recognized elderly rights advocate Maggie Kuhn.

The awards ceremony proceeding Miss Kuhn's speech was to honor sixteen prominent elderly persons who have made a significant contribution to the life of Boston.

"May is for Older Bostonians," the theme of this year's elderly affairs month, seeks to heighten elderly awareness about the vast range of services, programs, and discounts available to Older Bostonians. It also highlights the contributions of the elderly, the problems they encounter, and the ways the city tries to acknowledge and combat those problems.

Other elderly-related events throughout May include an Older Bostonians Festival on May 23 at City Hall to showcase senior service information, and special demonstrations on gardening, budget balancing, exercising, and other elderly-related concerns.

On May 30, the First Annual New Generation Music Festival, featuring elderly choral groups from throughout the city, will debut at New England Life Hall, and the month's activities will culminate in a Senior Prom for Elders at City Hall on May 31.

Other events for the month, sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Affairs of the Elderly include special theatre performances in the neighborhoods, community crime prevention presentations, and two major photography exhibits on display in City Hall throughout the month.

For more information about May Is for Older Bostonians activities, or any other programs offered by the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, call the Elderly Hotline at 722-4646.

"T" AIDS HANDICAPPED PASSENGERS

Orders twenty vans and four buses to transport handicapped passengers.

The Board of Directors of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority on April 30, awarded two contracts for specially equipped vehicles to be used in its special needs program of transporting the handicapped.

A contract in the amount of $301,489.80 for twenty, van-type vehicles was awarded to Budd Industries, Inc., of West Warwick, Rhode Island, and a contract in the amount of $105,775.32 was awarded to the Truck and Coach Division of General Motors Corporation for four small buses for the same purpose.

Both the vans and the buses will be equipped with wheelchair lifts, and in the interior of the vehicles, holding devices to secure the wheelchairs while the vehicles are in motion. These vehicles will be used in the MBTA's program for transporting the handicapped called "The Ride."

Currently the MBTA employs eleven specially equipped vans in the program which provides service in Allston, Brighton, Brookline, Cambridge, and the South End, parts of Roxbury, and the Fenway, Kenmore, and downtown sections of Boston.

With the addition of these twenty-four new vehicles, expected to be delivered within six months from the contract award, the MBTA will be able to geographically expand its services to the handicapped people of the area.

SIZE STANDARDS EFFECTIVE JULY 15

"Use up your small and undersized envelopes and cards before July 15," Postmaster Philip L. Sullivan reminds customers. That is the date when the Postal Service's new size standards become effective.

The Boston Postmaster said that after July 15, envelopes and cards measuring less than 3 1/2 inches high or 5 inches long will be "unmailable" and will not be accepted by the Postal Service. Of particular concern are invitation reply cards that do not meet the new minimum size requirement.

Postmaster Sullivan said that because the envelope and greeting card industries have had more than three years to prepare for the new standards, few retailers should still be selling undersized pieces. Many consumers, however, may still have smaller envelopes and cards in their supply of stationery.

The regulations also prohibit flimsy cards. In the future they must be at least seven-thousandths (.007) of an inch thick. An official postal card, for instance, has a thickness of nine-thousandths of an inch.

Undersized pieces and flimsy cards are being banned because they can become trapped in other mail, tear, and jam processing machinery. As a result, the letters of others can also be damaged.

The standards also affect oversized and odd-shaped pieces of mail. For first-class mail weighing one ounce or less, there will be a surcharge of 7 cents for pieces measuring more than 6 1/8 inches high or 11 1/2 inches long.

OLDER BOSTONIANS, YOU'RE INVITED!

Mayor Kevin H. White cordially extends an open invitation to all of Boston's Older Bostonians for the annual "Senior Prom" sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Department. The ball will be held on May 31, 1979, at the Boston City Hall from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. According to Parks Commissioner, Alan M. Austin, there will be plenty of refreshments available and musical entertainment will be provided for your listening and dancing pleasure. Formal attire is strictly optional and transportation will be furnished upon request.

Reservations must be made by May 20, 1979. To make your reservation for the evening please call Dorothy M. Curran, director of Parks and Recreation at 725-4008.

SOLAR SYSTEM FEATURED IN PLANETARIUM PROGRAM

"Galaxies Unlimited, your friendly cosmic realtor" makes a sales pitch in a new Planetarium program at Boston's Museum of Science.

In offering "A Do-It-Yourself Solar System," the imaginary firm gives a run-down on suitable locations, numbers, and kinds of stars and planets, and special factors to be considered if life is to be cultivated in the prepackaged solar system.

With vivid, changing sky scenes, the thirty-five minute presentation becomes a succinct overview of our own solar system and its evolution. Such details as explosions of stars, effects of gravity, composition and rotation of planets, and exotic other worlds devoid of life are included.

The program runs through June 18 at a fee of 50¢ above Museum admission. It is given Monday through Friday at 11 a.m.; Saturday at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.; Sunday at 12 noon and 2 p.m.; and Friday night at 8 p.m. Children under five are not admitted, although they are admitted free to the rest of the museum.

CHILDREN'S MUSEUM: SPECIAL EVENTS

Although the Boston Children's Museum is closed until July 1, special museum events are going on around the city.

May 14 through 19 is Chinese Cultural Week, and there's a full schedule of films, lectures, children's events, and traditional dance and theatre at Chinatown's Quincy Community School and Boston area museums and libraries.

On Saturday, May 19, there's a Dragon Boat Festival at the Cambridge River Festival. From 1 to 7 p.m., there'll be craft demonstrations; the dragon boat races with decorated sculls begin at 3 p.m., along with special performances of dance, martial arts, and traditional, folk, and contemporary music.

For a schedule of events at the Quincy Community School, call 426-6660; for all other events, call 522-4800.

BOSTON POLICE REPORT

Boston Police Commissioner Joseph M. Jordan has announced the establishment of a telephone hotline for persons who may have information concerning a recent rash of homicides occurring in the Roxbury and South End sections of Boston.

Persons with such information should call 442-0942.

The telephone hotline is a component of the Special Homicide Task Force established by Mayor White on April 27, in response to the eighth homicide of a young, black female occurring between January and April. The Task Force, supervised by Sergeant-Detective Stephen Murphy of the Boston Police Department's Vice Control Unit, is composed of ten detectives and is operating from a command post located at the Roxbury YMCA at Martin Luther King Boulevard and Warren Street, Roxbury.

Officers operating from the command post and Police District Two will accept any information offered by telephone on a twenty-four-hour basis. Residents may also visit the command post to offer any information.

In announcing the establishment of the hotline, Commissioner Jordan reminded South End and Roxbury residents of the need for citizen cooperation if the department is to successfully apprehend the persons responsible for the homicides.

Boston Mayors . . .

During his administration, he concentrated on fiscal responsibility for the city. He consolidated many departments for this purpose, and he was a proponent of a "metropolitan control" system that eventually became reality in 1930 under Mayor James M. Curley, when the Metropolitan District Commission was established.

Unfortunately, Mayor Peters' administration was marred by the great Boston police strike, which occurred September 8, 1919. Prominent citizens enrolled as special police to protect the city during the strike, and the State Guard was called out. Mayor Peters refused the strikers' demands; the strike was broken; and all strikers, who were the majority of the force, were discharged.

Although Mayor Peters himself was of the highest integrity, a few less than honest persons disgraced his administration, and he left his office a disillusioned man.

Mr. Peters subsequently served as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

He died on June 26, 1938.

Thirty-ninth Mayor MALCOLM E. NICHOLS 1926-1929

"Bostonians wherever they live should get behind Boston."

The words of Malcolm E. Nichols, Boston's last Republican mayor, uttered in his 1929 annual address, sounded the message that still prevails today, and goes out to suburbia.

Nichols, as mayor, as a tax lawyer, and during service in both legislative branches on Beacon Hill, realized that Boston's vitality determined the economic lifeblood for the entire region. He fathered the Greater Boston proposal that would have federal census figures group the forty-one communities in this metropolitan area.

In his four years closing out the roaring twenties at Old City Hall Mayor Nichols concentrated on municipal services, building the physical plant and raising city worker salaries almost $3 million. He saw work start after ten years of discussion on the East Boston vehicular tunnel, built 197 new streets and two dozen new schools; started repair work to the Central Library foundations; and established the Boston Traffic Commission and Boston Port Authority.

Police authorized strength was increased. A seven-year wrangle which prevented the union label going on products of the municipal printing plant was resolved. Expansion got under way at the city's airport in East Boston. Charles River basin improvements began. Exchange Street (now New Congress) was widened. And in a move to combat downtown traffic congestion the Mayor proposed a $5 to $10 annual parking fee. He said that better than four out of every five cars parking on downtown streets were owned by nonresidents.

Mayor Nichols' administration culminated in a building boom resulting from the 1928 pyramidal building statute. This allowed more flexibility for skyscraper construction and tapering structures such as the United Shoe Machinery Building. Other major projects encouraged by the zoning relaxation were the Sears Roebuck Fenway building, the North Station-Boston Garden-hotel complex, the 75 Federal Street Tower, and the start of Boston University's Commonwealth Avenue campus.

The Nichols administration encouraged plans for the water supply system drawing from Western Massachusetts rivers. Nichols proposed an overpass at Commonwealth Avenue near Charlesgate three decades before it materialized. A supporter of better mass transit, he helped pilot the first car opening the Ashmont-Mattapan Square high-speed trolley line.

One of two Maine natives to occupy the Boston mayor's chair, he was born in Portland on May 8, 1876. While attending Harvard College he worked at odd jobs and sold newspapers to pay expenses, and was graduated in 1899. Turning to elective service, he was in the City Council in 1905 and 1906; served three years as a state representative and six years as a state senator; became chairman of the legislative committee on taxation; and helped direct passage of the state income tax law in 1916.

He served briefly in 1919 on the Boston Schoolhouse Commission; then was named to the Transit Commission. He was named Collector of Internal Revenue by President Harding in 1921, and two years later was chosen president of the Boston Federal Business Association.

After several tries at the mayoralty the GOP member won an upset in the nonpartisan 1925 election over three Democrats. His first year as mayor saw a tax rate increase followed by three consecutive cuts.

Unable to succeed himself by law Nichols stood aside during the next four-year term of James Michael Curley. Trying again in 1933, he lost to Democrat Frederick W. Mansfield.

Old timers today recall a personal glimpse of "Mal" Nichols sporting his familiar derby hat, a trademark, and often displayed at Boston parades.

In one little-known aspect he was a forerunner for consumerism. One of his early actions as mayor was the order to carry on the city's fight for telephone rate reductions.

Mr. Nichols died at age seventy-three on February 7, 1951, at his Centre Street home in Jamaica Plain, a little over twenty-one years after leaving Old City Hall.

Bid deposit shall be in the amount equal to at least 5 percent of each proposal for cleanup of lots, Contract No. 5.

A performance bond and also a labor and materials or payment bond, each of a surety company qualified to do business under the laws of the Commonwealth and satisfactory to the Authority, and each in the sum of 100 percent of the contract price will be required of the successful bidder.

The attention of all bidders is called to the "Equal Opportunity Clause" and "Standard Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Construction Contract Specification" set forth in this part.

The goals and timetables for minority and female participation, expressed in percentage terms for the contractor's aggregate workforce in each trade on all construction work in the covered area. (See page EEO-1 and EEO-2 of the bid specification for goals and timetables).

These goals are applicable to all the contractor's construction work (whether or not it is federal or federally assisted) performed in the covered area.

As used in this notice, and in the contract the covered area is Boston, and the Islands of Boston Harbor, Massachusetts.

The contractor's compliance with the Executive Order and the regulation in 41 CFR Part 60-4 shall be based on its implementation of the Equal Opportunity Clause, specific affirmative action obligations required to meet the goals established for the geographical area where the contract is to be performed.

The hours of minority and female employment and training must be substantially uniform throughout the length of the contract in each trade, and the contractor shall make a good-faith effort to employ minorities and women evenly on each of its projects.

The transfer of minority or female employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's goals shall be a violation of the contract, the Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4. Compliance with the goals will be measured against the total workhours performed.

No bid for the award of this project will be considered acceptable unless the contractor complies fully with the following requirements for minority business enterprise utilization.

Pursuant to the minority participation section of the City of Boston contract for Boston Redevelopment Authority-funded construction contracts, the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least 10 percent (30 percent for impact areas) of his/her bid price shall be expended for minority business enterprise. For the purpose of this paragraph, the term minority business enterprise means, a business of at least 51 percent of which is owned and controlled by minority group members or in the case of a publicly owned business, at least 51 percent of the stock is owned by minority group members who are Black, Hispanic, Oriental, or American Indian.

Included with the contract documents are copies of the "Minority Business Utilization Form," "Minority Business Identification Statement," "Minority Business Utilization Progress Report," and the "Minority Business and the General Contractor's Letter of Intent."

Each contractor must complete, sign, and file with his bid the Minority Business Utilization Form. Failure to do so will result in the rejection of the bid proposal. The three lowest responsive bidders are required to submit a Minority Business and General Contractor's Letter of Intent. The letter of intent shall be completed and signed by the minority business enterprise and the general contractor within five days after the time set for receiving bids. At the request of the city one or more of the three lowest bidders may also be required to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement. Contractors shall also avail themselves to the list of minority businesses to be provided by the city through the Office of Minority Business Enterprise to facilitate compliance with these requirements.

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the provisions of the contract documents, including without limitation, the notice to all bidders (including subbidders) and provisions with respect to bonds, insurance, equal employment opportunity, minimum wages, time of performance, liquidated damages, and the requirements set forth in the specifications on supplemental equal employment opportunity, anti-discrimination and affirmative action program, contract provisions, and the requirements of mandatory compliance with section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and Executive Order 11246. A statement of workforce needs as required by section 3 and a section 3 affirmative action plan shall be submitted with the contractor's proposal. These are forms AAP1-AAP6 and AAP8 can be found in the contract documents. This requirement will be strictly adhered to. Proposals submitted without the required forms will be rejected. No bidder shall be eligible for award on this project unless he/she is able to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the Authority his/her ability to comply with these requirements.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than minimum salaries and wages set forth in the contract documents must be paid on this project, and the contractor must ensure that employees and applicants for employment are not discriminated against because of their race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. Attention is also called to the requirement relating to Workmen's Compensation and conditions of employment and to the Boston Redevelopment Authority's Equal Opportunity Compliance Policy, adopted February 20, 1969, revised June, 1975, and to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Supplemental Equal Employment Opportunity, Anti-Discrimination and Affirmative Action Program and City of Boston Affirmative Action Compliance with contract specification and to the required certification of the bidder regarding equal employment opportunity.

Prebid conference and EEO and affirmative action attention is called to all prospective bidders that they are required to attend a prebid conference to discuss the federal, state, and local requirements regarding affirmative action. Also to discuss the Minority Business Utilization program, goals and timetables for minorities and females. This conference will be held with the Contract Compliance Officer of Authority, Mr. Reggie Johnson, on May 18, 1979, at 11 a.m. in Room 938.

The Authority reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any informalities in bidding, if it be in the public interest so to do.

Bids may be held by the Boston Redevelopment Authority for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days from the date of the opening of bids for the purpose of reviewing the bids and investigating the qualifications of the bidders, prior to awarding of the contract.

The Executive order and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4 compliance with the goals will be measured against the total workhours performed.

No bid for the award of this project will be considered acceptable unless the contractor complies fully with the following requirements for minority business enterprise utilization.

Pursuant to the minority participation section of the City of Boston contract for CDBG-Funded Construction Contracts the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least 10 percent (30 percent for impact areas) of his/her bid price shall be expended for minority business enterprise. For the purposes of this paragraph, the term minority business enterprise means a business at least 51 percent of which is owned and controlled by minority group members or, in the case of a publicly owned business, at least 51 percent of the stock is owned by minority group members who are Black, Hispanic, Oriental, or American Indians.

Included with the contract document are copies of the "Minority Business Utilization Form," "Minority Business Identification Statement," "Minority Business Utilization Progress Report," and the "Minority Business and the General Contractor's Letter of Intent."

Each contractor must complete, sign, and file with his bid the Minority Business Utilization Form. Failure to do so will result in the rejection of the bid proposal. The three lowest responsive bidders are required to submit a Minority Business and General Contractor's Letter of Intent. The letter of intent shall be completed and signed by the minority business enterprise and the general contractor within five days after the time set for receiving bids. At the request of the city one or more of the three lowest bidders may also be required to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement. Contractors shall also avail themselves to the list of minority businesses to be provided by the city through the Office of Minority Business Enterprise to facilitate compliance with these requirements.

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the provisions of the contract documents, including without limitation, the notice to all bidders (including subbidders) and provisions with respect to bonds, insurance, equal employment opportunity, minimum wages, time of performance, liquidated damages, and the requirements set forth in the specifications or supplemental equal employment opportunity anti-discrimination and affirmative action program contract provisions, and the requirements of mandatory compliance with section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and Executive Order 11246. A statement of workforce needs as required by section 3 and a section three affirmative action plan shall be submitted with the contractor's proposal. These are forms AAP1-AAP6 and AAP8 can be found in the contract documents.

This requirement will be strictly adhered to. Proposals submitted without the required forms will be rejected. No bidder shall be eligible for award on this project unless he/she is able to demonstrate to satisfaction to the Authority his/her ability to comply with these requirements.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than minimum salaries and wages set forth in the contract documents must be paid on this project, and the contractor must ensure that employees and applicants for employment are not discriminated against because of their race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. Attention is also called to the requirement relating to Workmen's Compensation and conditions of employment and to the Boston Redevelopment Authority's Equal Opportunity Compliance Policy, adopted February 20, 1969, revised June, 1975, and to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Supplemental Equal Employment Opportunity Anti-Discrimination and Affirmative Action Program and City of Boston Affirmative Action Compliance with contract specification and to the required certification of the bidder regarding equal employment opportunity.

Prebid conference and EEO and affirmative action attention is called to all prospective bidders that they are required to attend a prebid conference to discuss the federal, state, and local requirements regarding affirmative action. Also to discuss the Minority Business Utilization program, goals and timetables for minorities and females. This conference will be held with the Contract Compliance Officer of Authority, Mr. Reggie Johnson, on May 18, 1979, at 11 a.m. in Room 938.

The Authority reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any informalities in bidding, if it be in the public interest so to do.

Bids may be held by the Boston Redevelopment Authority for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days from the date of the opening of bids for the purpose of reviewing the bids and investigating the qualifications of the bidders, prior to awarding of the contract.

"CARD" PLANNED TO AID HUB BUSINESSMEN

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has become the agency responsible for planning and implementing CARD, a program to encourage revitalization of neighborhood commercial districts throughout the City of Boston.

CARD, or Commercial Area Revitalization District, is a state-sponsored program of development incentives which can help local businessmen obtain financing for capital improvements that were formerly available only to industrial enterprises.

Under the CARD program, for example, a local businessman who is interested in expanding his operation is eligible for financing through tax-exempt bonds issued by the Boston Industrial Financing Agency. Such bonds mean that the businessman can finance his expansion with mortgage money that is at least two or perhaps three percentage points lower than a conventional bank mortgage.

Mayor Kevin H. White said, "CARD presents the city with a valuable tool for encouraging economic growth. That's why I have asked the BRA, which has had extensive experience in development, to coordinate the CARD program.

"This administration is committed to the revitalization of our local commercial areas. CARD is a program aimed at upgrading our commercial areas, but the strength of our neighborhood business districts plays a big part in the stabilization of our residential areas."

BRA Director Robert J. Ryan said the BRA has prepared CARD plans for seven areas of the city. These CARD plans are

1. Cleary Square — Hyde Park CARD plan
2. Grove Hall-Roxbury CARD plan
3. Bayside Mall-Dorchester CARD plan
4. Roslindale Square CARD plan

5. Dudley Station-Roxbury CARD plan
6. West Roxbury CARD plan
7. Fields Corner CARD plan

Ryan said, "We are extremely pleased that we can serve as the agency that will implement this program. The incentives available through CARD, along with public improvements being carried out by the city through other funding sources, can truly make the difference for many of our local businessmen."

A Museum Wharf CARD plan has been prepared by the BRA and future CARD plans are being developed or proposed for the downtown, the North Station area, and for the institutional area of the Fenway.

The seven CARD plans already prepared are presently before the City Council for approval before they can be filed with the state.

At the state level they are approved by the Secretary of Communities and Development. Approval is forthcoming if the local agency, in this case the BRA, presents a plan which is aimed at avoiding or correcting deterioration of a predominantly commercial area.

Once the CARD plans are approved — and it is anticipated that approval of the proposed plans may be obtained within the next two months — local businessmen interested in participating in the CARD program should contact the BRA.

BOSTON'S FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

Fortieth Mayor
FREDERICK W. MANSFIELD
1934-1937

Boston was led through the belt-tightening midthirties by a distinguished, outwardly-austere lawyer, Frederick W. Mansfield. The period of strife was punctuated by exchanges in his feud with predecessor mayor James Michael Curley.

Mansfield's administration had to face a mounting city welfare burden and declining real estate tax payments because of unemployment. He was forced to continue the previous mayor's cut in municipal pay scales and for a time instituted voluntary "payless furloughs" for workers making over $950 a year.

Nevertheless the Democratic mayor left significant additions to the municipal plant. Through Works Progress Administration federal aid projects he saw various capital additions, including the Huntington Avenue subway extension; the Huntington Avenue underpass; and parks upgrading.

In addition, the Mansfield term at City Hall saw construction of the nine-story City Hospital surgical building; Faneuil Hall reconstruction; seven new schools; opening of the George Wright public golf course in Franklin Park; reduction of the city's net debt; and modernization of city accounting and auditing systems. Mansfield reorganized and decentralized the Welfare Department but was unsuccessful in seven attempts to consolidate and cut in half the then forty-three separate city departments.

Boston Mayors . . .

Mayor Mansfield frequently took his appeals for municipal reform and economies to the hard-pressed taxpayers, broadcasting from the studio room in the mayor's office suite at Old City Hall. Some of the broadcasts bitterly criticised Curley and charged a rash of abatements and hurried land damage settlements in the last weeks of the previous administration.

More than two decades later relations healed between the two antagonists. Mansfield sent a warm note acknowledging Curley's sympathy on the loss of his wife. The following year Mansfield died at age eighty-one. His death on November 6, 1958, came just six days before Curley's.

Mayor Mansfield was born March 26, 1877, in East Boston, son of immigrant Irish parents. He worked at a Maverick Square drug store, became a pharmacist, and enlisted in the Spanish American war. On return he took a law degree from Boston University Law School, and later became State AFL labor union counsel, championing labor legislation.

He became the first Democrat elected state treasurer in 1914, but twice was unsuccessful in his quest for the governorship in 1916 and 1917. He served twelve years on the State Judicial Council under five governors. He also served for twenty-nine years as counsel to the Boston Catholic Archdiocese and received various honors from his church.

Demanding high standards for himself and others in public life, Mansfield showed he could be "kindly and considerate," in the words of a late mayor, John B. Hynes.

Manfield's first try for mayor in 1929 pitted him unsuccessfully as the Good Government Association endorsee against Curley.

In the 1933 election he defeated former Mayor Malcolm Nichols.

Mansfield, a Back Bay resident, proposed some ideas in government before his time. He advocated a sales tax on nonnecessities and called for clearance of substandard residential areas and a housing program to create new low-income units. He urged, in addition, election of nine at-large councillors to serve the whole city instead of only a few of the twenty-two wards.

Mayor Mansfield also was among the first to call for elimination of county government, calling it a "useless encumbrance."

Forty-first Mayor MAURICE J. TOBIN 1938-1941 1941-1944

Only one mayor of Boston has served in top-level posts in the executive branches of city, state, and national government.

Maurice J. Tobin, mayor and governor during World War II, nurtured a flare for administration in private employ as a telephone company executive and in public service from days as a legislator and School Committee chairman.

His seven years as mayor spanned from the depression era with welfare problems and joblessness, into a wartime boom with controls, fuel shortages, and other handicaps which confronted the city of over 800,000 persons.

A rate of $4 per inch of 12 lines (set solid) has been established for such advertisements as under the law must be printed in the City Record. Advertising and other copy must, except in emergencies, be in hand at the City Record office by noon, Monday of each week to insure its publication in the following Monday's issue.

A Democrat to the core, and a liberal, Tobin nevertheless followed a conservative fiscal policy at Old City Hall. He aimed at restoring business and citizen confidence in city government. He cut expenditures—even cutting department heads' salaries, but later endorsing wartime cost-of-living hikes.

Mayor Tobin's administration saw Boston's debt drop by $5 million.

While he helped improve relations between the Legislature and Boston, he was unsuccessful as mayor in getting state relief for Boston's overburdened taxpayers. He was among the first of prestigious public officials to endorse the sales tax principle a quarter of a century before its time had come.

In the earlier years at City Hall, the mayor's tasks were focused on the economic hard times besetting Boston's struggling families. The administration even maintained a municipal employment bureau which made pleas to private industry for jobs for family breadwinners.

In nonfiscal issues, the attention focused on a projected postwar traffic problem and wartime stringencies, including fuel oil shortages. In capital additions, there was new housing in South Boston, the Buddies Club on Boston Common for servicemen, and dedication of MacArthur Mall along Charles Street.

The Tobin mayoral years also encompassed two events. One was the disastrous hurricane of 1938 occurring in his first year as mayor while Mayor Tobin was on a speaking trip on the west coast.

The other was Boston's worst holocaust in history, the Coconut Grove nightclub fire of November 28, 1942. The tragedy, which claimed almost 500 lives, led to tightening of inspectional procedures. It did not, however, bring establishment of a single public safety department combining police, fire inspection, building inspection, and kindred activities as suggested for long-range reorganization.

Roxbury-born Maurice Tobin seemed destined for political stardom. As a boy he learned success requires effort. Up at 4 a.m., he trod the streets of Mission Hill as a newsboy. He attended Mission High School and the High School of Commerce, continuing evening classes after graduation. He won election in 1926 as the youngest member of the House of Representatives. That his proposals for abolition of capital punishment, for workmen's compensation, for investigation of the telephone company were liberal proposals markedly in contrast with the conservative tenor of the House.

Mayor Tobin backed Alfred E. Smith for president and then became a supporter of Franklin D. Roosevelt, serving as a School Committee member in the early Roosevelt years. He resigned his telephone company job, confident of victory when he defeated James M. Curley and several others in the bitter 1937 mayoral campaign. Four years later he again prevailed over the former mayor-governor. In the third year of his second term he went on the statewide trail to win election as governor.

He served one term on Beacon Hill, but lost the bid for reelection. A staunch and loyal Democrat, he was back in the campaign wars in the 1948 presidential battle speaking for President Harry S. Truman even when the polls had counted Truman as almost a sure loser.

Maurice Tobin served as Truman's Secretary of Labor, and the poor boy from Roxbury's streets became a national figure.

Death claimed Maurice Tobin at age fifty-two on July 19, 1953, on a Scituate golf course. It was only six months after the Truman administration had completed its turn in office.

At funeral rites in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross and Holyhood Cemetery, former President Truman led mourners for the Boston Democrat, former labor secretary, governor, and mayor.

MAYOR SWEARS IN FORTY-FIVE POLICE RECRUITS

Mayor Kevin H. White, on May 11, administered the oath of office to forty-five new recruits for the Boston Police Department. The recruits were selected from a preliminary list of 671 candidates released by state's Division of Personnel Administration after the Mayor personally appealed to the Governor for a speed-up in the selection process.

In addition to the current class the Mayor also announced that a second group of fifty-five recruits would be added to the Police Department in August. These actions follow a pledge the Mayor made in February that the city would add 100 new police officers to beef-up neighborhood patrols before the end of 1979.

The new class was composed of twenty-two white males, fourteen black males, three Spanish males, and six black women. Seventeen members of the class have spent at least two years with the Police Department in its Cadet Program.

Speaking at the swearing-in ceremony at the YMCA in Roxbury the Mayor said that the recruit class, "reaffirms the city's commitment to the safety of each citizen, group, and neighborhood."

The class represents the first addition to the police force since January 1978. Members of the class passed the last police exam given by the state in May, 1978, and their names were finally released to the city in February, 1979, after the Mayor's action. The delay was caused by an inability of the Division of Personnel Administration to determine a passing score.

"You will be a vital part of the city's commitment to increase the presence and visibility of public safety and service personnel in the neighborhoods," the Mayor said.

"You enter public service at a time when the city and its neighborhoods are experiencing a renaissance. There is new hope and new vitality. There will be a lot of pressure on you not only to reduce crime, but, to help the city maintain and improve community relations.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS MARY COLBERT DAY

Mayor Kevin H. White, on May 11, proclaimed Mary S. Colbert Day in Boston at groundbreaking ceremonies for the Mary S. Colbert Senior Citizens Apartments in Charlestown. The $1.1-million housing development will contain thirty units, with construction to be completed late this year.

Mayor White was joined at the ceremonies by Speaker of the House Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., representatives of state and local government, and the Charlestown community.

Mayor White said, "It is fitting that today be declared Mary Colbert Day in Boston and that the senior citizen apartments to be built here bear her name. Mary is known as 'Mrs. Charlestown' for the countless hours of service she has dedicated to her community and its people."

Mary Colbert was instrumental in the development of the elderly housing project which combined the efforts of the city, neighborhood, and federal agencies. The building, formerly the John Harvard School, will be renovated with a $1.1-million grant secured from HUD by the Charlestown Economic Development Corporation.

The contractor, Nebelkoff Construction Company, has agreed to work in conjunction with the Kennedy Family Service Center to award subcontracts and jobs to local residents.

"FACE LIFT" PLANNED FOR BOYLSTON ST.

Mayor calls Boylston Street Rehab Project "A singular effort to maintain neighborhood commercial stability."

Mayor Kevin H. White, on May 9, hailed the renovation project which calls for a $1.5-million rehabilitation of store fronts and upper-level apartments of five buildings along Boylston Street as "a singularly important and innovative effort to maintain neighborhood commercial stability."

Agreements signed, May 9, between the present tenants of the block and the developer tentatively designated by the Boston Redevelopment Authority, Hamilton Realty Company, guarantee that the rent levels paid by the businesses will remain at their present level for the next ten years — even after extensive rehabilitation.

The City of Boston will provide $700,000 in public improvements along the block to enhance the unique developmental plan. New sidewalks, new street lights, tree plantings, and street furniture will all contribute to the renewal of the block which runs along Boylston between Massachusetts Avenue and Hemenway Street.

Said Mayor White, "The key element of this project is the attempt by the developer to maintain the present commercial tenants, while upgrading their properties. That attempt means stability to a neighborhood. It means, also, that improvement and progress do not have to dictate that people or businesses must be displaced."

Mayor White added, "This project gives merchants here the best of both worlds: their property will be improved, and their rent will remain the same."

The BRA owns five of the buildings along the block, which is known as Parcel 13, in the Fenway Renewal Project. Renovation of the upper floors as studio, one-bedrooms, and art studio apartments will result in thirty-eight units of housing.

Said BRA Director Robert J. Ryan, "The BRA buildings are the key to the block. Once rehab begins on those buildings we are quite certain that owners of the other buildings will begin their own renovation projects."

Ryan added, "Already, Suffolk Franklin Saving Bank has nearly finished extensive renovations of two buildings at the corner of Massachusetts Avenue and Boylston Street that should provide the anchor for our buildings to provide the modernization for the entire block."

The plan proposed by Hamilton Realty calls for the renovation of the building facades and the interiors of the residential units through the installation of new heating, wiring, and plumbing. The interiors of the commercial units will be the responsibility of the present tenants.

The project is supported by the Fenway Project Area Committee (FenPac) which wrote to the BRA, "We are confident that Mr. Brown (Hamilton Realty) possesses the ability and sensitivity to promote a quality development. Prospects for reclamation of this essential commercial block have never seemed brighter."

The modernization of the storefront exteriors will be subject to review by the BRA and FenPac.

Innovative Design Associates will be the project architects.

Hamilton Realty, owned by Harold Brown, has rehabilitated and managed over 5,500 apartment units and other commercial properties in the Boston area.

BRA ADVOCATES ZONING CODE AMENDMENT

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has recommended an amendment to the Boston Zoning Code which sets up a process for locating group care residences with the participation of neighborhood groups.

The Zoning Code amendment includes a cooperation agreement between the BRA and the city's Office of Public Service (Little City Hall)s and the Department of Mental Health.

The agreement sets forth detailed guidelines so that neighborhood residents can participate in the decision on regarding placement and operation of group residences.

The BRA staff and Little City Hall managers will identify appropriate locations for the residences. But where locations are controversial, Community Mental Health and Retardation Areas Boards, which are composed of community residents, will convene community meetings to resolve conflicts with the location.

At the present time, the Boston Zoning Code allows for converting any legally licensed lodging house into a group care facility.

According to the new agreement, a minimum distance requirement of 1,000 feet will be required between group care residences. In practice, it is anticipated that locations between group care residences will be much farther than 1,000 feet.

BRA Director Robert J. Ryan lauded the efforts of the Mental Health Department at working out the agreement with the BRA and OPS.

Ryan said, "All too often the location of group care residences has aroused controversy in a community. Now, we have set up a process whereby the city receives certain benefits and assurances, and most importantly, neighborhood residents will have something to say about where these facilities are located.

The cooperation agreement also provides that the Department of Mental Health will make efforts to insure that the residences pay real estate taxes to the city.

The amendment to the Zoning Code must be approved by the city's Zoning Commission after a public hearing.

The fully professional chorus of the Handel and Haydn Society is the newest branch of America's oldest performing arts organization. It was founded in response to the wealth of talented professional singers who reside in the Boston area. The sixteen members of the chorus were admitted after rigorous auditions and represent the finest vocalists in the area.

These concerts are free and open to the public. They are made possible by generous grants from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, the Mabel Louise Riley Charitable Trust, the Godfrey M. Hyams Trust, the Chattuck Trust, and with the assistance and cooperation of the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs.

THE HANDEL AND HAYDN SOCIETY AT CITY HALL

The theme is "humor" at a series of free, noontime concerts presented by the professional chorus of the Handel and Haydn Society on the Main Lobby steps of Boston City Hall, May 22, 23, 24, and 29, 30, 31. Three separate programs, all under the direction of Thomas Dunn, will be presented from 11:45 to 12:15 p.m. and repeated at 12:30 p.m. The choral repertoire will be drawn from contemporary European to Boston composers and will be highlighted with the added visual elements of mime and dance.

"T" PLANS REHABILITATION PROGRAM

The MBTA had disclosed plans for a five-year, $19,228,400 program to rehabilitate its Downtown Boston rapid transit tunnels and associated drainage system, which are at least sixty years old.

The MBTA pointed out that recent engineering investigations indicate that structural failure of the tunnels is unlikely, but because of the age of the tunnels and the seepage of water into the tunnel walls and roofs over more than half a century, a rehabilitation program is warranted.

In approving the program, the Board of Directors, authorized the filing of an 80 percent capital grant application for $15,382,840 with the Urban Mass Transportation Administration for the project which would be carried out in coordination with other programs to rehabilitate and modernize the power cable system, tracks, signals, and communications systems of the Red, Orange, Blue, and Green Lines.

A public hearing on the proposed program will be held Monday, June 11, at the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, 44 School Street, Boston, at 10:30 a.m.

The new program provides for a thorough engineering analysis of all sections of the rapid transit tunnels and the treatment of those deteriorating conditions needing attention in the next five years. All deteriorated locations will be identified and ranked according to priority and an estimate prepared of the cost of repairs.

The program proposes three construction segments, the first of which would be the Fields Corner-Ashmont section of the Red Line tunnel. The location of other construction segments will be determined after completion of the engineering analysis.

MAYOR HOSTS MOTHER'S DAY CELEBRATION

Mayor Kevin H. White, on May 13, hosted over 200 Boston elderly from nursing homes and elderly centers at an old fashioned Mother's Day celebration at the Public Garden.

The elderly were guests of the Boston Parks and Recreation Department as part of the Mayor's Month for Older Bostonians program. The celebration included a picnic lunch, swan boat rides, a band, singers and other entertainment. In addition, Mother's Day cards and plants were distributed to all the elderly mothers.

Said Mayor White, "Our Older Bostonians, and today, especially the mothers amongst you, represent a part of Boston we can be proud of. Today's Mother's Day celebration is just one in the many ways we are thanking our elderly for the contributions they have made to the city during this month for Older Bostonians."

The Mayor added that by sponsoring events such as this, the seniors are made aware of the various elderly programs such as health care services, Senior Shuttle transportation, and crime alert programs available to them throughout the city.

MORE HOUSING UNITS PLANNED FOR MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has given its approval for a project that will involve the rehabilitation of nine buildings on Massachusetts Avenue for low- and moderate-income housing.

The development firm, St. Botolph Terrace Associates, will acquire the nine buildings from the BRA and carry out rehabilitation to produce fifty-two units of housing. The buildings run from 315 through 367 Massachusetts Avenue and are part of the BRA's Fenway Urban Renewal Project.

Rental subsidies for all the units will be provided through the federal government's section 8 program. Under section 8, the Department of Housing and Urban Development pays the amount of fair market rent for an apartment that exceeds 25 percent of the tenant's income.

Mayor Kevin H. White, hailing the BRA approvals for the project, said, "It is particularly pleasing to me that the developers of this project sought and received the backing of the Fenway community for development. This is a blighted area and the city will benefit greatly by having the rehabilitated structures put back on the tax rolls. But the key to the success of any project is neighborhood support."

BRA Director Robert J. Ryan said, "This project is but another indication of the resurgence we are witnessing throughout the Fenway. This project will contribute to the diversity and vitality which makes the Fenway one of the city's outstanding residential areas."

St. Botolph Terrace Apartments will contain thirteen efficiency units; four, one-bedroom units; twenty-four, two-bedroom units; eight, three-bedroom units; and four, four-bedroom units.

The general partners of the development firm are Kenneth I. Guscott, George R. Guscott, and Cecil H. Guscott. Architect for the project is Stull Associates, Inc.

BOSTON'S PAST DECADE MOST INTENSIVE GROWTH IN ITS HISTORY

Mayor Kevin H. White, on May 11, characterized development in Boston's downtown and neighborhoods over the past ten years — a period of estimated capital investment totaling $12 billion and the creation of an estimated 140,000 permanent new jobs — as "one of the most intensive periods of growth in Boston history."

Basing his assertions on data contained in a Boston Redevelopment Authority report released May 11, chronicling development in the city from 1968-1978, Mayor White attributed that dramatic growth to two basic strategies he has employed as mayor.

"We were guided during the past decade by two basic principles: that public investment could be used to inspire confidence in all sectors of the community; and that by achieving fiscal stability itself, the city could foster long-range planning in the private sector."

Mayor White focused with particular pride upon the more equitable balance in investment which has been struck between the downtown section of the city and Boston's neighborhoods since 1968.

To further nurture that balance, Mayor White announced his intention to undertake a new neighborhood development strategy to encourage development and leverage private investment in the Lower Mills, Roslindale, and Blue Hill Avenue sections of the city.

According to the ninety-page BRA report, the ten-year growth period resulted in combined public and private investment in:

- Seven new hotels or major additions;
- 115 new housing developments;
- twenty-seven major medical projects;
- eleven major education developments;
- thirty-one major cultural projects;
- thirty-two new public schools;
- twelve new or renovated fire stations;
- over 100 parks and recreational facilities; and
- eight new or renovated police stations.

The future, according to the BRA report, looks equally bright if the city's population remains stable, employment recovery and growth are steady, and good fiscal management continues amid progressive tax reform.

The BRA forecasts some $10 billion in new investment in the decade to come if those conditions are met.

Among those expected investments are:

— The creation of more than a dozen new hotels, totaling as many as 1,000 new rooms in the next decade.

— 25,000 new dwelling units are expected to be constructed over the next ten years.

— A projected expansion in the urban retail base is expected to net three and one third million square feet of retail space in Boston over the next decade.

— Continued expansion of medical institutions and higher education facilities in the city are expected to involve $1 billion in investment in the next ten years.

The report also outlines circumstances which have impeded growth: shortage of private sector housing starts; high commercial building vacancy rates; high unemployment among youth and minorities; the desegregation crisis and its aftermath; and the climate of public fiscal austerity.

CONTRACTS AMENDED

The Mayor has approved the amending of contracts, based on the following information:

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT Computer Program

Dear Mayor White:

On May 30, 1978, your Honor approved a letter of award with Whitlow Computer Systems, Incorporated, 560 Sylvan Avenue, Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey 07632, for the rental of an existing proprietary computer program for the period beginning July 1, 1978, and ending June 30, 1979. (Please refer to attached original letter dated May 16, 1978.)

The total annual cost of Syncsort III will not exceed $3,000.

I respectfully request permission to amend the previous letter and change the necessary terms of the contract of the program product called "Syncsort III" to now read "Syncsort IV and 1/2," as due to a clerical error the incorrect term was inadvertently used.

Due to upgrading to keep up with current fixes and enhancements, the model number has been changed from "Syncsort III" to "Syncsort IV and 1/2."

Respectfully yours,
Edward T. Sullivan,
Director.

EEPA Zoological Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to amend an award letter for the Boston Zoological Society, Franklin Park, Dorchester, MA 02121, dated August 2, 1978, which you approved on August 30, 1978.

The purpose of the amendment is to correct a budgetary error in the original award letter which incorrectly stated the total cost of the contract as not to exceed $111,027. The total amount not to be exceeded is $118,259.78.

Whereas all other terms of the original award letter are correct (effective dates: August 17, 1978, through April 13, 1979), approval of this amendment will enable EEPA to execute the contract as planned.

Sincerely,
Michael W. Brown,
Deputy Administrator.

Computer Job Bank Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to amend a contract with the Massachusetts Occupational Information System, Inc. (MOIS), 70 Wellesley Hills, Mass. 02181, to provide additional professional services in the operation of a computerized, job data bank for the CETA Youth Resource Centers in the City of Boston. These added duties include additional terminals thereby increasing access to terminals linked to a computer for interaction with the MOIS system.

The amendment will increase the contract by $9,125, to an amount not to exceed $58,853.60. Funds for this contract will be provided through a federal government grant to the City of Boston under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203. The contract will continue to be effective for the period January 1, 1978, through September 30, 1978.

Because this award is for additional professional services from a contractor of proven effectiveness, at a reasonable cost, no public purpose would be served by formal advertising. I therefore request approval to dispense with inviting sealed bids by advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston Code, St. 4, s. 5.

Sincerely,
Michael W. Brown,
Deputy Assistant Administrator.

YWCA Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to amend an award letter for Aswalos House-Roxbury Young Women's Christian Association (YWCA), 246 Seaver Street, Roxbury, Mass. 02121, dated August 22, 1978, which you approved on September 8, 1978.

The purpose of the amendment is to correct a clerical error in the original award letter which incorrectly listed the ending date of the contract as February 5, 1979. The correct ending date is March 5, 1979.

Whereas all other terms of the original award letter are correct (start date: September 6, 1978; amount: $30,159), approval of this amendment will enable EEPA to execute the contract as planned.

Sincerely,
Michael W. Brown,
Deputy Assistant Administrator.

Contract Management Services

Dear Mayor White:

I respectfully request your Honor's permission to amend a contract with Mr. Michael J. Shea, 9 Winchester Road, Newtonville, Mass. 02160, to provide continued professional services to EEPA's Youth Services Department in subcontract management. Mr. Shea has proven himself particularly adept at resolving complex questions of bureaucratic procedure and developing precise technical language to insure that CETA programs serving youth in the City of Boston are implemented as intended.

Under the terms of the amendment, Mr. Shea's contract will be extended ten months, to become effective for the period May 22, 1978, through June 30, 1979. The award will be increased by $10,800, to an amount not to exceed $17,325. This action will enable EEPA to continue receiving the benefits of Mr. Shea's services for a longer term on a part-time basis. The contractor will be compensated at a rate of $90 per diem.

Funds for the continued operation of the contract will be provided to the city through federal government grants under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973, P.L. 93-203, and under the Youth Employment and Demonstration Project Act of 1977, P.L. 95-93.

Because this award is to continue at a reasonable rate, and the provision of professional services, no public purpose would be served by advertising for sealed bids in the matter. I therefore request approval to dispense with formal advertising in the City Record, pursuant to authority granted under the City of Boston, St. 4, s. 5.

Sincerely,
Michael W. Brown,
Deputy Assistant Administrator.

HEALTH AND HOSPITALS DEPARTMENT Terminals, Printers, etc.

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I hereby request your Honor's permission to amend the award letter dated October 24, 1977, and approved by the Mayor on December 2, 1977, awarding, without advertising, a contract to Harris Data Communications, Inc., D.W. Highway, South Nashua, New Hampshire 03161, for the period commencing upon acceptance by the Department of Health and Hospitals of Harris display terminals, Harris Centronics printers, and their associated components to be provided by Sanders Associates, Inc. This contract is for the remedial and preventative maintenance of said equipment at a cost not to exceed $2,988.

This amendment shall delete the name "Sanders Associates, Inc." in line seven of paragraph one of said letter of award, and insert therefor "Harris Data Communications, Inc.," in conformance with an agreement attached to the contract for the provision of the above-referred equipment by Sanders Associates, Inc., whereby the city agreed to change all references of "Sanders Associates, Inc.," to "Harris Data Communications, Inc."

In addition, this amendment shall increase the amount of the contract by $996, increasing the city's total liability under the contract to an amount not to exceed $3,984. The increase is occasioned by the delivery and acceptance of the subject matter of the contract two months prior to the anticipated delivery date, and is computed at the same monthly rate as that in the original letter of award.

In view of the above, and as the cost, in my opinion, is reasonable and as no useful purpose would be served by publicly advertising for bids, your Honor's permission is respectfully requested to approve this amendment under the terms and conditions stated above.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

Snowplowing, etc.

Dear Sir:

Pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Board of Health and Hospitals, I hereby request your Honor's permission to amend, without advertising, the city's contract with Brennick Construction Co., Inc., 17 Harcourt Street, Boston, Mass. 02116, for providing plowing and removal of snow from the Boston City Hospital, Long Island Hospital, and Mattapan Hospital, for the period November 1, 1977, through March 31, 1978.

The contract was originally in the amount of $10,000, but was previously amended to increase the price by $15,000, because of the unanticipated severe weather conditions. This amendment will further increase the cost of the contract by $32,521, to a total amount not to exceed $57,521, and is necessitated by the need for service during the severe snowstorm in February, 1978, which created a state of emergency at the aforementioned hospitals.

Therefore, in view of the above, and because the cost is reasonable, I respectfully request your Honor's permission to amend this contract under the terms and conditions stated above.

Very truly yours,
David L. Rosenbloom,
Commissioner.

PARKS AND RECREATION DEPARTMENT Concrete Liners

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On April 13, 1978, your Honor approved the award of a publicly advertised contract for "development of burial area and roadways at Mt. Hope Cemetery, West Roxbury, Mass., to the lowest bidder, Landscaping by Schumacher, Inc., 53 Waltham Road, Wayland, Mass., for the approximate sum of $99,386.25.

Item 16 of the contract provides for furnishing and setting sectional concrete liners at new burial areas into which the casket is placed at the time of interment. The specification calls for the liners to be furnished to be 88 inches in length by 30 inches in width, by 23 inches in depth. Recent changes in the size of caskets require liners with greater depth than 23 inches in order to accommodate the larger units, without damaging the casket. Therefore, I propose to amend the contract by deleting the wording in the specification calling for concrete liners 23 inches in depth and substitute in place thereof the requirement that the liners be 25 inches in depth.

This change in the specification will increase the unit bid price from $70 per liner to $85 per liner. As 279 liners are to be furnished the total amount of this item will increase from $19,530 to $23,715. As the contract is encumbered for $123,756.81, there will be no increase in the overall encumbrance due to this change. The time for performance set forth in the contract will remain unchanged.

It is my judgment that the increased cost of $15 per liner is fair and reasonable. Therefore, your approval is requested to amend the contract between the City of Boston and Schumacher as outlined above.

Very truly yours,
Alan M. Austin,
Commissioner.

Outdoor Facilities Repairs

Dear Mr. Mayor:

A publicly advertised contract executed on August 9, 1978, for repairs and replacement to turf areas, drainage systems, and water systems, outdoor facilities, was awarded to the lowest bidder, Harold S. Sears Company, Inc., for the sum not to exceed $20,350.

The contract is for repairs and replacement to existing outdoor park facilities made necessary due to wear and tear, vandalism, or emergency conditions.

Individual work orders are approved and issued against this contract based upon a written breakdown by the contractor covering the cost of the scope of the work outlined in the work order. Except in cases of extreme emergency, where immediate repairs are needed to preserve health and safety of persons or property, individual work orders do not exceed $2,000.

An allowance, Item 4 of the bid form, in the sum of $1,000, was included in the contract to provide labor and/or construction equipment and/or services not covered under other items of the contract such as staging over 8 feet in height, watchmen, testing services, special construction equipment, cranes, compressors, generators, pumps, earth digging and moving equipment, etc., and the cost of transportation or delivery charges of material or equipment. The remaining items of the contract consist of Items 1 and 2 which cover the cost of labor and Item 3 which covers the cost of material and equipment furnished and installed in the project. We now find that the sum of money ($1,000), in the allowance item is not sufficient to perform work under the contract and propose to amend the contract as follows:

Item No. 1, Labor, original amount, $10,000; amended amount, $7,500.

Item No. 2, benefits, overhead, profit, $2,000; amended amount, $1,500.

Item No. 3, material and equipment furnished, $7,350; amended amount, $4,350.

Item No. 4, allowance, $1,000; amended amount, $7,000.

Total, original amount, $20,350; amended amount, $20,350.

The amendment to the contract will not change the existing total contract price or the time for performance. It is my judgment that the amendment proposed is in the best interest of the city. Therefore, your approval is requested to amend the contract between the City of Boston and Harold S. Sears, Company, Inc. as outlined above.

Very truly yours,
Alan M. Austin,
Commissioner.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT Chapter 636 Services

Dear Mayor White:

On behalf of the School Committee of the City of Boston, I request your written authority to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisement and to award to Tread, Inc., the following amendment to: (1) Change amount from $24,521, to $26,541.

On October 25, 1977, the School Committee of the City of Boston approved a contract with Tread, Inc. for $24,521, to evaluate chapter 636 projects. Subsequent to approval of the contract, two chapter 636 projects were approved by the State Board of Education. This amendment, approved by the School Committee on December 15, 1977, adds $2,020 to the Tread, Inc. contract from the budgets of chapter 636 Projects Nos. 78-9S-386 (Trotter School) and 78-9S-0387 (Wheatley School).

Because of the professional nature of the services to be provided under this contract and the expertise of the contractor in providing such services, it is the determination of the Board of Superintendents, and has been approved by the School Committee, that the public interest would not be served by public advertisement for bids.

Yours truly,
Edward Winter,
Secretary.

Chapter 766 Services

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On October 11, 1977, this department awarded a contract approved by your Honor without public advertising to Carney Hospital, 2100 Dorchester Avenue, Dorchester, MA 02124, for the purpose of providing core evaluations to English-speaking Children of the Boston Public Schools in accordance with Mass. General Laws, chapter 71B (chapter 766), and the regulations promulgated thereunder at a cost not to exceed $16,000, for period September 1, 1977, to June 30, 1978.

Your authorization is requested to extend the period of service of the contract to September 14, 1978, and to increase the maximum amount of the contract to $22,000, to provide for extra services rendered. Boston personnel (core evaluation team leaders and core evaluation coordinators) were not authorized to work during the months of July and August. In order to stay in compliance with chapter 766, the Boston Public School system assigned all students who had been referred late in the school year to Carney Hospital for evaluations.

Because it has been determined that these children are in immediate need of special attention and due to the professional nature of the services to be performed and the expertise of the facility in this area, it is the determination of the School Committee that the public interest would not be served by public advertising for bids. Payments to this facility will be based on the Rate Setting Commission of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

As amended, the cost of the contract will not exceed $22,000.00.

Very truly yours,
Edward J. Winter,
Secretary.

IBM Service

Dear Mr. Mayor:

On July 11, 1978, this department awarded a contract to IBM Corporation, One Gateway Center, Newton, Mass., for furnishing IBM machine service for Mag Card II, Model 6616, for the period September 1, 1978, to June 30, 1979, at a cost not to exceed $3,100.

Your authorization is requested to amend this contract by renting another IBM Mag Card II machine for the Boston Business School. The additional $3,100 will be granted from Discretionary Funds. The school needs this machine desperately. The equipment has proven satisfactory and the cost is reasonable. Therefore, the contract will be amended from $3,100 to $6,200. All other terms and conditions of the contract remain in full force and effect.

Very truly yours,
Leo J. Burke,
Business Manager.

NOTICE OF REQUIREMENT FOR AFFIRMATIVE ACTION TO ENSURE EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY (EXECUTIVE ORDER 11246).

The contractor's attention is called to the "Equal Opportunity Clause" and "Standard Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Construction Contract Specifications" set forth in this part.

The goals and timetables for minority and female participation, expressed in percentage terms for the contractor's aggregate workforce in each trade on all construction work in the covered areas, (See pages EEO-1 and EEO-2 of the bid specifications for goals and timetables).

These goals are applicable to all the contractor's construction work (whether or not it is federal or federally assisted) performed in the covered areas.

As used in this notice, and in the contract, the covered area is Arlington, Boston, Belmont, Brookline, Burlington, Cambridge, Canton, Chelsea, Dedham, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Milton, Norwood, Reading, Revere, Somerville, Stoneham, Wakefield, Westwood, Winthrop, Winchester, Woburn, and the Islands of Boston Harbor, Massachusetts.

The contractor's compliance with the Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4 shall be based on its implementation of the Equal Opportunity Clause, specific affirmative action obligations required to meet the goals established for the geographical area where the contract is to be performed.

The hours of minority and female employment and training must be substantially uniform throughout the length of the contract in each trade, and the contractor shall make a good-faith effort to employ minorities and women evenly on each of its projects.

The transfer of minority or female employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's goals shall be a violation of the contract, the Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR part 60-4. Compliance with the goals will be measured against the total workhours performed.

No bid for the award of this project will be considered acceptable unless the contractor complies fully with the following requirements for Minority Business Enterprise Utilization.

Pursuant to the minority participation section of the City of Boston contract, the contractor must give satisfactory assurance that at least 10 percent of his bid price shall be expended for minority business enterprise. For the purposes of this paragraph, the term minority business enterprise means a business at least 50 percent of which is owned and controlled by minority group members or, in the case of a publicly owned business, at least 51 percent of the stock is owned by minority group members who are Black, Hispanic, Oriental, or American Indians.

Included with the contract documents are copies of the "Minority Business Utilization Form," "Minority Business Identification Statement," "Minority Business Utilization Progress Report," and the "Minority Business and the General Contractor's Letter of Intent."

Each contractor must complete, sign, and file with his bid the Minority Business Utilization Form. Failure to do so will result in the rejection of the bid proposal. The three lowest responsive bidders are required to submit a Minority Business and General Contractor's Letter of Intent. The letter of intent shall be completed and signed by the minority business enterprise and the general contractor within five days after the time set for receiving bids. At the request of the city one or more of the three lowest bidders may also be required to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement.

Contractors shall also avail themselves of the list of minority businesses to be provided by the city through the Office of Minority Business Enterprise to facilitate compliance with these requirements.

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the provisions of the contract documents including, with limitation, the notice to all bidders (including subbidders), and the provisions with respect to bonds, insurance, equal employment opportunity, minimum wages, time of performance, liquidated damages, and the requirements set forth in the specifications on supplemental equal employment opportunity anti-discrimination and affirmative action program contract provisions, and to the requirements of mandatory compliance with section 3 of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and Executive Order 11246. A statement of workforce needs as requested by section 3 and a section 3 affirmative action plan shall be submitted with the contractor's proposal. A section 3 affirmative action plan consists of tables AAP-1 to AAP-3 and forms AAP-1 and AAP-2 and can be found at pages ST1-ST7 of the contract documents. A DECADE OF DEVELOPMENT IN BOSTON

A Site-Specific Array of Projects Completed 1968-78

FOREWORD

Kevin H. White, Mayor, City of Boston

The challenge of the last decade was no ordinary one for Boston or its Mayor. Thirty years of neglect of public improvements and private investment, following the onset of the national depression in 1929, had taken their toll in population decline, job loss, and a city in an advanced stage of decay. Mayors John Hynes and John Collins had moved to stem the tide with new tax incentives for investment and the use of federal dollars for urban redevelopment. But it was left to the next Mayoral decade to mount the public improvement program and the provision of services so necessary to demonstrate the city's commitment to economic revival and neighborhood revitalization. The rest is history; a decade of achievement which has brought a thriving economy, revitalized neighborhoods, and expanding opportunity; the preservation of the charm of the past while developing the new.

The record of the role of city strategy, Boston's public improvement program, and the outpouring of private investment, portrayed in this report, is important not only as a measure of how circumstances changed, but as an essential background base for formulating the next decade's strategy.

As Mayor, I am proud to have sparked the public improvements program which has given Boston a new infrastructure of schools and community buildings, renovated parks, and revitalized neighborhoods. I am proud of the private sector investment response, which has transformed the city's economy, brought it in tune with the future directions of the nation, and generated new jobs and income. I am proud of Boston's growing attractiveness to old and new residents, to the business community, and to the rising flow of visitors.

Not all of the city's needs have been met, nor all problems solved. On the contrary, the decade of development has left a legacy of things to be done. The lag in private housing construction must be turned around if Boston is to cope with the demand pressures of those who wish to live in the city and improve their living standards. Much renovation and preservation is needed also if Boston is to meet the rising demand for commercial space. Statewide tax reform remains a matter of urgent priority to give Boston the revenue base it needs to fulfill the forward-looking role of public policy, public services, and public investment.

I commend this record of the site-specific public and private investment projects undertaken and completed in the 1968-78 decade to those concerned with understanding how Boston's transformation came about, as well as those in-

BOSTON'S FORTY-FIVE MAYORS

Forty-Second Mayor
JOHN E. KERRIGAN

John E. Kerrigan first had some of the awesome responsibilities of mayor thrust upon him seven years before he was to assume the office in his own right.

The big hurricane of September, 1938, struck Boston when he was acting mayor during his first year as City Council president. To Kerrigan fell the task of mobilizing emergency forces to cope with the sudden rampage of nature. The storm hit when the mayor, Maurice J. Tobin was on the West Coast on a speaking tour.

MEMORIAL DAY

Each year every state in the Union sets aside a day to commemorate the services of the soldiers and sailors in the Civil War and, since 1898, of those in the Spanish-American and other wars.

The custom arose from the practice in the south of decorating the graves of the Confederate dead; this is the derivative of the name "Decoration Day."

It is observed in all northern and southern states alike, and in most of the states on the same day, May 30. In many localities the day has come to be a commemoration for all dead, and graves, even those of non-soldiers, are decorated with flowers and wreaths. Let us not forget to honor and pray for our own dearly departed on that special day.

A Decade . . .

terested in the formulation of the next decade's strategy and agenda for development.

PREFACE

Robert J. Ryan, Director
Boston Redevelopment Authority

Boston's transformation from a city in decline with a rotting waterfront, empty warehouses, moldering nineteenth-century public buildings, and deteriorating triple deckers, into a thriving metropolis with a dynamic economy and revitalized neighborhoods, did not just happen. An extraordinary decade of public improvements and private investment, and the related strategy for planning and development were the instruments of change. In the 1968-78 decade, federal urban renewal dollars for land assembly, tax incentives for blight-eliminating construction, and city-financed public improvements were marshalled to spur neighborhood revitalization and downtown development. This report records the site-specific investment projects which were the bricks and mortar of the process of change.

The achievements of the 1968-78 decade provide a solid base for very substantial advances over the next ten years. An impressive array of public and private investment projects are already in the pipeline, and the prospects and potential for the future are outstanding. While these will be the subject of another report, the key findings should be noted. In response to the scarcity of new office space, the rise in rent levels, and the expansion plans of firms occupying Boston's office buildings, more than eight million square feet of new office construction is anticipated over the next ten years. Boston may see as many as 1,000 new hotel rooms a year over the next decade. Substantial federally funded investment in public transit, as well as port, airport, roads and bridges is already in the pipeline.

With the tightening of the housing market and the projected growth in demand, some 25,000 new dwelling units are expected to be constructed over the next ten years. Growth in Boston's share of the metropolitan region retail market is foreseen, and the city is expected to add more than three million square feet of retail space over the next decade. Continued expansion of medical and higher education facilities in Boston will involve $1 billion of new investment. The prospects for theatre and cultural facilities development are outstanding. Recovery and growth in manufacturing will bring new investment, particularly in instruments, fabricated metals and marine-related industries, and transportation equipment.

Development over the next ten years will have a different dimension, with a larger role for hotel and convention centers, the theatre district, retail shops, older commercial building renovation, historic preservation, private housing, and public transportation facilities. Understanding the 1968-78 Decade of Development provides a better base for planning to meet the next decade's needs and opportunities.

I. INTRODUCTION

This is a report on the Decade of Development, 1968-78. It is the record of the last decade: the site-specific investment and development projects, and their impact on Boston as a place to work and to live. This is a report on development and transformation; how investment has changed the past and what it will hold for the future. It is a report on the role of public policy embodied in public investment and the effect it has had toward spurring the extraordinary private investment which revolutionized the city's economy and stimulated neighborhood revitalization.

In 1968, the future of Boston was still in doubt. Vacant buildings, decaying neighborhoods, and the flight to the suburbs all provided evidence of four decades of decline. Since that time, much has been accomplished which demonstrates that there was something special enabling Boston to recover and rebuild.

Between 1968 and 1978, at least:

36 new or converted office structures

7 new hotels or major additions

125 new housing developments

27 major medical projects

11 major educational developments

31 major cultural projects

32 new public schools

12 new or renovated fire stations

8 new or renovated police stations over 100 parks and recreational projects massive transportation improvements have been completed. This is the evidence of the public and private partnership in the rebirth of Boston as a place to live, work, and invest.

Boston Mayors . . .

Again in 1945 the mayoral powers passed from Tobin to Kerrigan when the former left City Hall to become governor.

Kerrigan, who had gone from City Council to the State Senate, to military service, and then back to city elective government, had the confidence of the Legislature and was accorded a rare vote of confidence. The General Court endowed the acting mayor with full powers of office for the entire year.

Although the end of World War II dominated all developments, it was a period of shortages of food and meat, fuels, and many commodities. Problems were similar to those to be faced three decades later by successors—greater allotments of fuel and heating supplies and an appeal for conservation by the public of electric power.

John Kerrigan also had to pilot Boston through the transition to postwar resettlement and its economic impact.

Mayor Kerrigan advocated a $20-million program to catch up on deferred construction programs as one way to spur the job market.

He was keenly aware of the backlogged need for more decent housing quarters for the citizens of Boston. He called for a massive ten-year program that would replace some 42,000 substandard living units in the city, at a whopping $114-million price tag.

One of Mayor Kerrigan's major accomplishments was his legislation, approved on Beacon Hill, to refinance the Sumner Tunnel bonded debt. By this measure, he was able to save Boston taxpayers about $12 million over twenty years by the device of retiring earlier obligations bearing higher interest rates.

During his period as mayor, he leased the entire Houghton Dutton Building at Tremont and Beacon streets to the federal government, bringing to the city landlord revenue.

He also supported antirace bias bills in the years long before the civil rights push nationally. He presided at the reopening of the East Boston Relief Station which had been closed for seven years.

Kerrigan lost his bid that fall for a full term as mayor. The race saw several aspirants in the contest and a fragmentation of votes with former Mayor James M. Curley winning the election.

Six years later, John Kerrigan won election to the first Plan A nine-member at-large City Council elections. As had happened in the case of some other senior statesmen in public service, the newest career was to prove even more outstanding.

He was to serve eleven terms or twenty-two continuous years in the at-large Council, and his name became a household word to most voters in the city. Although tagged the "silent man" in the Council, rarely speaking in debate, his voice was heard on the many major urban renewal votes that faced the council in the 1960s.

The honored and respected John Kerrigan retired at the end of 1973 at age sixty-seven, ending a long public career. He lives in a modest three-decker at 213 West Eighth Street, South Boston, the same address he maintained when serving as the city's chief executive.

Forty-Third Mayor

JOHN B. HYNES

1950-1951

To John Bernard Hynes, city service was more a dedication than a career. During his forty years in municipal employ, he rose from junior clerk to become the city's forty-third chief executive, serving the entire decade of the pivotal 1950s.

Those were the times when the new concept of urban renewal was emerging to help American cities combat blight and decadence. Federal aid, however, was modest for such undertakings.

One of the major legacies of the Hynes administration is Prudential Center. He had the vision and laid the groundwork for plans to turn the bleak, blighted Back Bay trackage area into one of the anchors for Boston's intown revitalization. Although construction of the giant complex started under his successor, it was Mayor Hynes who acted on a Back Bay real estate man's development idea and did the early hard work to launch the project.

After his death in January, 1970, the former mayor was given his city's tribute with the naming of the John B. Hynes Memorial Auditorium at Prudential center.

As a mayor, he was recognized for his love of Boston's traditions, his battle to hold down a spiraling tax rate, and his warmth. He was a lawyer and had a gift for composing poetry. As a former career employee, he found it difficult to phase out jobs and personnel when family breadwinners were involved.

John Hynes first experienced the responsibilities of mayor for five months in 1947, when, as city clerk he was designated to fill in as "temporary mayor" for Mayor James Michael Curley who had been sentenced to a federal institution. A chance remark by Mr. Curley upon his return to City Hall set the stage for John Hynes challenging him and winning the next mayoral election in 1949.

Boston Mayors . . .

Mayor Hynes won again in 1951 when the new Plan A, "strong mayor" form of government, took effect. In 1955 he defeated State Senate President John E. Powers in a bitter fight.

Using powers of the new charter, Mayor Hynes during his tenure reduced the number of city departments from thirty-eight to twenty-six, and reorganized the Assessing, Fire, Library, Welfare, and Planning Departments. He also coordinated inspections among the Building, Fire, and Health Departments and established the Auditorium Commission and Government Center Commission to plan and erect the new City Hall.

He launched a building demolition program in an attack on blight, constructed the first incinerator in the city, established a new housing code, installed Univac in the Auditing Department, reclassified job titles in city service, and established the city's first Complaint Department.

The Boston Christmas Festival, a tradition that brings more than a million visitors each Yule season to Boston Common, was founded by Mayor Hynes.

In urban renewal he inaugurated a pilot rehabilitation project in Dorchester and saw the start of the New York streets commercial renewal development, South End, and the West End residential redevelopment.

A self-made man, John B. Hynes early charted his road to success. He went straight from grammar school to work as an office boy with the telephone company. After service in the Air Corps in World War I, he began his city employment as a Health Department clerk. He went to the Auditing Department and then as chief clerk in Mayor Curley's office. He went to law school nights and won a law degree from Suffolk University in 1927. Two years later he became assistant city clerk, and after service in World War II as a lieutenant colonel, became a city clerk in 1945.

As mayor, he served the longest continuous period in the office in Boston's history. As a "dean" of big city mayors, he was recognized in Washington on his trips for federal aid and as national president of the mayor's organization. He was also named the Democratic national committeeman for Massachusetts.

After leaving old City Hall, Mayor Hynes set up his law office a short distance away at 73 Tremont Street. He was shortly afterward named state Commissioner of Banks and Banking, and was elected a life trustee and treasurer of Suffolk University.

Thoroughout most of his municipal career he lived in a modest home at Druid Street, Dorchester, and retired there, dying at age seventy-two.

When he was leaving City Hall, among the few items he took was a dust-covered 1922 typewriter he had used in the Clerk's Office. He left behind oriental rugs and other objects, explaining: "I took only those things that had my name on them."

Ten years later an appreciative Boston put his name on the municipal auditorium.

Forty-Fourth Mayor JOHN F. COLLINS 1960-1963 1964-1967

The administration of John Frederick Collins during most of the 1960s led the city in development of "the New Boston."

Mayor Collins coined the term to emphasize the era of downtown redevelopment and a start on neighborhood urban renewal along with a check on spiraling real estate tax rates.

His two terms in office also saw some major reorganizations in combining the Health and Hospitals Department; reorganizing the Assessing Agency; creation of the Public Facilities Department; and helping to pave the way for state assumption of the welfare burdens of Boston.

Physically, the Collins era produced the new City Hall building and several additions to the Boston skyline. Among them was Prudential Center, conceived by his predecessor, John Hynes, but helped to legislative implementation by the Collins administration.

In general, John Collins portrayed the image of a confident, articulate, strong-willed mayor. He had conquered the adversities of crippling polio to win the office and to govern from a wheelchair.

To carry out his urban renewal goals, Collins brought as his development administrator, another strong-willed individual, Edward J. Logue. The development chief helped obtain some $200 million in federal renewal fund commitments to begin Boston's renewal "master plan."

Roxbury-born John Collins early seemed destined for public life. After graduating from Roxbury Memorial High School, he went on to Suffolk University to win his law degree cum laude, and became a practicing attorney at age twenty-one.

Soon afterward, World War II broke out and Collins joined the army infantry. Four years later on discharge he had become a captain in counterintelligence work.

Returning home, he won election to the House of Representatives from Roxbury and Jamaica Plain in 1946, and the next year married Mary Cuniff. He served two terms in the House, two more in the state Senate, then as Democratic nominee for state attorney general, lost a bitter fight in 1954.

A year later he became a candidate for Boston City Council. A short time before the September primary a polio epidemic struck Massachusetts and other states. The four Collins children and then their father were stricken. The children recovered, but the father was almost totally paralyzed. However, he refused to quit the Council race and with the help of his wife, filling in as a campaigner, the bedridden candidate won and took his seat at the first Council session the following January in City Hall.

After a little over a year of service there, he was appointed to a vacancy as Suffolk County Register of Probate, virtually a lifetime job through reelection. He won election the next year, but in 1959 decided to challenge state Senate President John E. Powers, odds-on favorite to win the mayoralty. Collins ran second in the preliminary election, and went on to win an upset in another bitter fight.

The new mayor set out on a belt-tightening "austerity" theme aimed at winning business confidence in a "New Boston." For four successive years he lowered the tax rate. His programs for renewal won national attention. He was elected president of the 15,000-member American Municipal Association.

Mayor Collins easily won reelection in 1965. A year later, resisting urgings that he go for the governorship, he set sights on the United States Senate seat vacancy, but lost the statewide Democratic primary. A year later he declined to seek a third term as mayor.

While serving at old City Hall, Mayor Collins helped win passage of the 3 percent limited state sales tax to help relieve the burdens of the localities. He also instituted the nationwide design competition for the new City Hall. He oversaw plans for Government Center design. The Model City agency was started under Collins. He also started an Office of Neighborhood Information. Collective bargaining for city employee units was accepted by the Collins administration for Boston.

Before leaving office, Collins urged a regional incinerator plan for Boston to help in solid waste disposal. He unveiled plans for a $400-million federally aided downtown renewal proposal.

He was the first Boston mayor to be awarded an honorary doctorate of laws degree by Harvard University. After his service as mayor, John F. Collins joined academia as visiting professor of urban affairs, Sloan School of Management, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mayor Kevin H. White and the Department of Parks and Recreation of the City of Boston will be offering collegiate rowing on the Charles River for the second consecutive year. Commissioner Alan M. Austin says the program, under the direction of Mitchell Seavey, is designed for those who wish to develop quality rowing habits and skills, and experience sportsmanship and camaraderie through rowing. Knowledge of health and exercise as pertains to rowing and the oarsman's individual need will also be instructed.

The classes begin on July 5 and will go through August 28, Monday through Friday, from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. They will be held at the M.I.T. boathouse (boys) and the Boston University boathouse (girls). A certificate of swimming competency is required. For further information call Dorothy Curran, director of Parks and Recreation at 725-3239.

"T" CHANGES DOWNTOWN CROSSING ROUTES

The MBTA has announced that bus routes into the Downtown Crossing area have been changed.

The City of Boston has closed a portion of Washington Street between West and Bromfield Streets to begin water-main construction work. This is another step in improvements to the Downtown Crossing pedestrian shopping mall.

The following list of temporary diversions will become permanent routes on June 16, 1979, when the MBTA summer timetable becomes effective.

Route 11 — City Point-Downtown via Bayview; Route 49 — Northampton Street-Downtown via Washington Street. Buses on these routes are now operating via Chauncy Street and Arch Street, instead of Washington Street between Essex and Franklin Streets.

Route 43 — Egleston Station-Downtown via Tremont Street. Route 43 will resume its old routing via Charles, Beacon, Park, and Tremont Streets.

Route 92 — Sullivan Station-Downtown via Main Street; Route 93 — Sullivan Station-Downtown via Bunker Hill Street. These two routes will terminate at Franklin and Washington Streets instead of at Summer and Chauncy Streets.

Some 15,000 handy-size maps showing the changes in the above-listed bus routes will be distributed to passengers to alleviate possible confusion. In addition, some 100 posters have been put up throughout the Downtown Crossing area to help direct those who normally use this service.

Any additional questions concerning these changes can be obtained by calling the MBTA's Customer Service Office at 722-3200.

BOSTON: LESS GAS, MORE ALTERNATIVES

The City of Boston's Energy Office urges Bostonians to "carpool," and to use mass transit whenever possible, for weekend travel as well as for daily commuting.

That plea from the Energy Office comes because 95 percent of the gas stations in the city will be operating on reduced fuel supplies this month.

"Most people are very surprised to discover how good bus and train service to and from Boston is," Dean Nikitas, director of the Energy Office said, "It's one of the real benefits of living here." Delays on heavy travel days can be avoided by purchasing tickets a few days ahead of time."

Station owners and operators in Boston are receiving allocations as low as 70 percent of their May, 1978, allocations. The average allocation is 84 percent of year-ago gallonage.

Virtually all of the major oil companies serving Boston have now reduced gasoline allocations.

Nikitas said that the situation is worse than it was in March or April because more companies have cut back and the cuts are larger.

MAYOR PRESIDES OVER 70001, LTD. OPEN HOUSE

Mayor Kevin H. White on May 18, presided over the graduation ceremonies at 70001, Ltd., a youth employment skills training program operated out of the Dimock Community Health Center in Roxbury.

The program provides unsubsidized jobs in private industry for graduates of the program, which involves job training as well as attitude and motivation counseling.

The program was conceived in Wilmington, Delaware, in 1969, and presently has operations in twenty-three cities across the nation.

The 70001 program is nonprofit, and includes a national youth organization for school dropouts.

The Boston 70001 program was established in cooperation with the city's Employment and Economic Policy Administration. About seventy-five young people — called "associates" in the program — participate, and thirteen received certificates of completion from Mayor White during the ceremony.

The Mayor said, "the striking thing about the 70001 program is that young people are guaranteed a job in business upon completion of the program — and when they get that job — they are qualified and prepared to accept the responsibility for performing well.

"I can't say enough about the program except that I wish there were more like it in the city, programs that help young people develop maturity to take on jobs — and to keep them."

Also participating in the ceremony were Larry C. Brown, president of 70001, Ltd., and State Senator William Owens of Mattapan, and Selena M. Respass, program manager.

NEW APPOINTMENT

Mayor appoints Robert Connolly to the Coordinating Council on Drug Abuse

Mayor Kevin H. White, on May 8, appointed Robert Connolly of Jamaica Plain as a member of the Coordinating Council on Drug Abuse.

The Council, which was established by ordinance in 1969, is charged with the responsibility for coordinating the work of public and private agencies dealing with substance abuse. The Council is also responsible for developing substance abuse education programs and for advising the Mayor on drug policy.

An experienced alcohol rehabilitation counselor and program administrator, Connolly has been the project director of the Homophile Alcohol Treatment Service since 1978.

Prior to that position, made possible by a grant from the State Department of Public Health, Connolly served as the alcoholism coordinator for the Job Placement Project, a private nonprofit agency.

From 1973 to 1977, he was the head counselor and acting administrator for extended in-patient services in the Rehabilitation Department of the Washington Center for Addiction, a psychiatric hospital.

Before he became an industrial therapist in the Medfield State/Rehabilitation Program, a post he held from 1969 to 1973, Connolly held a variety of restaurant management positions.

Connolly, a U.S. Marine Corps veteran, is chairperson of the Gay Task Force on the Governor's Advisory Council's Subcommittee on Special Populations. SETTLEMENT CLEARS WAY FOR DEVELOPMENT OF CHARLESTOWN NAVY YARD

Mayor Kevin H. White, on May 10, announced a settlement between MassPort and the City of Boston Economic Development Industrial Commission that will clear the way for the $200-million development of the former Charlestown Navy Yard.

The Mayor announced the settlement at a press conference attended by: Robert Ryan, director of the Boston Redevelopment Authority; MassPort Executive Director David W. Davis; Robert Kiley, who served as negotiator of the agreement along with Robert Beale, president of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board and Thomas Hynes of Meredith and Grew management; and Thomas Leggett, vice-chairman of EDIC.

The agreement:

- Clears the title claim MassPort had to sections of the former Charlestown Navy Yard, permitting development by Immobiliare New England to begin.

- Provides for EDIC to lease ten acres of land at the former South

Boston Naval Annex to MassPort, and permit the filling of forty acres at the former South Boston Army Base for future marine-related activity.

● Provides MassPort to sublease to EDIC acreage at the former Army Base providing a buffer for shipyard operations already at work there.

Mayor White said the settlement, "clears the way for the developer of the Charlestown Navy Yard to begin one of the biggest, most essential development projects in New England."

The Mayor announced the redevelopment of the Charlestown yard in early February, but the developers had been awaiting the clearing of the title cloud on the property before starting work.

He thanked Kiley for his work in negotiating the settlement and described the agreement as a "workable, realistic document that secures the interests of all parties involved."

General Order No. 24

I. RIFLE HONOR GUARD DRILLS

Rifle Honor Guard Drills for May will be held on May 10th and May 24th from 1800 hours to 2230 hours at the Fire Academy.

II. COMMENDATION

"April 17, 1979.

Dear Commissioner Paul:

I am enclosing copies of my "Commendation to the Boston Fire Department" which appeared in the April 10th issue of the Congressional Record.

The officers and men of your department performed in the highest traditions of their profession. The individual acts of heroism by Boston Fire Fighters in the early morning hours of March 29th prevented a major disaster and undoubtedly saved many lives.

Truly, Boston Fire Fighters are the finest.

With all good wishes.

Sincerely,

Edward M. Kennedy."

A copy of the commendation from the Congressional Record accompanies this order.

United States of America Congressional Record

Proceedings and Debates of the 96th Congress, First Session
Washington, Tuesday, April 10, 1979

SENATE

COMMENDATION TO THE BOSTON FIRE DEPARTMENT

Mr. KENNEDY. Mr. President, I want to call the attention of my colleagues to a dramatic display of skill, courage, and dedication by the officers and members of the Boston Fire Department.

In the early morning hours of March 29, 1979, two major hotel fires broke out almost simultaneously in downtown Boston. This was one of the most potentially disastrous fire situations in the history of our city. Over 200 fire fighters were quickly and efficiently mobilized, and nearly 2,000 persons were safely evacuated from their rooms in the Copley Plaza and Sheraton-Boston Hotels.

Tragically, the fires resulted in one death, and sixty-nine people were hospitalized. However, there is no doubt that the courage and professionalism demonstrated by the Boston Fire Department that night averted a major disaster. Indeed, the many individual acts of heroism at these fires resulted in the saving of an untold number of lives.

My colleagues here in the Senate know that our fire fighters are engaged in one of our nation's most hazardous jobs, demanding great self-sacrifice and tremendous skills. Yet, unfortunately, all too often we take for granted the dedicated service of our fire fighters to our communities. All too often we fail to give them the public recognition and gratification they so richly deserve.

I want the Boston Fire Department to know that their heroic actions will not be forgotten, and I want to commend this very special group of public servants for their tremendous effort on the morning of March 29.

Mr. President, I ask that a Boston Globe editorial justly praising the work of the Boston Fire Department be printed in the Record.

The editorial follows:

A Test of Courage and Skill

It was a nightmare situation — Two big uptown hotels on fire and some 1,900 guests groping around inside, some of them threatening to jump from windows in their panic. The fact that no one died and relatively few people were seriously injured is a very great tribute to the training, discipline, and overall efficiency of the Boston Fire Department.

Within minutes of the early morning alarm at the Copley Plaza Hotel, a record thirteen Boston ladder companies were on the scene with 200 fire fighters manning the 100-foot ladders to bring as many as fifty people to safety. And just at that fire was brought under control, another broke out in the twenty-nine-story Sheraton, two blocks away.

There the situation was worse. The alarm system, checked out on March 7, had not been activated to warn guests above the first four floors that the emergency was indeed real. The fire had caused fuses to blow on some floors and staircases were in darkness. Yet weary firemen, trained for their job, checked every room, every closet on each of the twenty-nine floors, reassuring the fugitives and making sure that no one was left in the building.

The Department of Health and Hospitals, routinely alerted in any three-alarm situation, had emergency units at the two hotels and crews stood by in the city's main hospitals to receive all who might need attention. The Hynes Auditorium, next door to the Sheraton, was opened for those who had nowhere to go. There were coffee and blankets for those who remained. And, in the end, the disaster did not happen.

In any old city like Boston the threat of a holocaust is real. In Boston, memories of the Coconut Grove and the Hotel Vendome conflagrations make that threat vivid. On Tuesday the Fire Department and the network designed to meet such a crisis were tested. They came through with glory and the city as a whole owes them thanks.

May 15.

Part II

Perhaps the most significant aspect of the Decade of Development is the great contrast with the four decades which preceded it, a period of negligible public and private investment. Massive population loss, decline in income levels, and decay and deterioration of the city resulted from the investment drought. In effect, this is a report on the public leadership role and how public policy in the form of planning and public improvements spurred an extraordinary flow of private investment to bring forth a revived economy and revitalized neighborhoods from a long period of decay. The antecedents (Chapter III) presents the context of the past to which the 1968-78 decade (Chapter IV) relates and the prologue (Chapter VI) identifies implications for the future.

The report presents measures of the investment and development impact — how they made a difference, in jobs and in income. The report identifies the site-specific development projects and shows how investment brought about the structural change in the city's economy and the revitalization of neighborhoods. In this role, the last decade encompassed (1) the broadening of the city's services activity; (2) the absorption of the loss in manufacturing; (3) the adaptation of the city's economy to the future directions of that of the nation; and (4) the public sector role in leveraging private investment through planning and public infrastructure investment. In the course of this decade, new construction was complemented by the emergence of a strong movement for preservation and rehabilitation to maintain the heritage while building the new.

Private investment rose continuously, peaking in 1975, and then reacted to the effects of the national economic recessions. The city's economic recovery was swift in 1977 and extended into 1978 with a rapidity made possible by the prior nine years of continuous public and private investment.

The report details some $3.8 billion of capital investment for facilities completed in Boston between 1968 and 1978. An additional $1.9 billion of capital construction is estimated to have been put in place in the sectors covered. Those aspects of public investment which were not site-specific, and therefore were not included as such, were water, sewer, and street and sidewalk improvements, estimated at $2 billion. Finally, capital investment in equipment (the complement to plant) is estimated at $4.3 billion. The total capital investment, public and private, over the 1968-78 period, therefore, has been on the order of $12 billion. This paper concentrates on that capital investment portion for plant which could be itemized site-specifically ($3.8 billion).

Kevin H. White is descended from a politically prominent family that has long been active in Boston government.

From 1956 until 1960, he served as assistant district attorney for Suffolk County (Boston and three surrounding cities) and in 1960, in his first try for elective office, he became the youngest man in the history of Massachusetts to be elected Secretary of State. He was reelected to this statewide office by increasing margins in 1962, 1964, and in 1966. In 1964 he received the highest plurality of any candidate for constitutional office in the state's history.

While Secretary of State, Kevin White pioneered many election reforms, the most prominent being a law passed under his sponsorship in 1962, requiring all candidates to disclose all campaign income and expenditures.

On November 7, 1967, he was elected to a four-year term as Mayor of Boston, and was inaugurated as the city's forty-fifth chief executive on January 1, 1968. He was reelected to a second term on November 2, 1971, by the second

Almost four decades of negligible investment following 1929, with population loss and erosion of the economic base, were suddenly reversed as the city took heart, responded to leadership, and embarked on an unprecedented effort to rebuild the fabric of a great city in one short decade. The nature of the reconstruction process is best illustrated in a brief summary of the investment projects, by type, and the context in which they evolved.

City public capital investment made up 10 percent of the site-specific projects totaling $3.8 billion. The public sector leverage role encompassed not only the public investment dollars, but also the determination of the city to spur revival. As a consequence, major investment in office development, transportation facilities, and housing followed, making up respectively, 26 percent, 20 percent, and 19 percent of the investment projects in this period. (See Table and Chart II-A1.) When the full universe of investment is added to the site-specific projects, the Decade of Development signified over $5.7 billion of investment. The major concentrations again were in office buildings, transportation facilities, housing, city public improvements, and medical and higher educational facilities.

The Decade's investment required 138,000 man-years of construction activity for the site-specific projects and 208,000 man-years of construction work when the total universe of investment is considered.

More important for its significance to Boston's economic structure, however, was the creation of 103,000 permanent jobs associated with the site-specific investment and the 140,000 permanent jobs created when the full universe of investment is taken into account. The lion's share of these jobs, more than two-thirds, was in the broad array of activities encompassed in office buildings: professional, business, financial, communication, and public utilities services. Medical facilities and institutions of higher education followed up in importance and accounted for 20 percent of the new jobs created.

highest plurality in a mayoral election in this century. He was also reelected for a third term in 1975. contribution" to the field of government. In presenting its Fourth Biennial Citations for Outstanding Contribution, Who's Who in the East said:

"Wanting to give Boston more than words, Mayor White has been doing the 'right things.' Elected in a close campaign (1967), in which his opponent had 'white backlash' support, he has been able to gain the confidence of both blacks and whites. He has shown that in his city racial tension need not move toward hopeless division. Essentially he has worked for the forgotten, little people and has won their respect with intelligent and compassionate decision. By establishing several branch city halls, Mayor White has brought city government to the people's neighborhoods. There he listens, and gets to know their problems first hand. He not only listens to the poor, but he places them in positions of leadership. He has opened up the city's departments to prospective new employees from the ghetto, and initiated a program to recruit and train them. He wants the best men and women for responsible duties in his city, regardless of race, class, or religion. Mayor White through his energetic and imaginative efforts, is fast turning Boston into a model of interracial and interclass harmony—one that other strife-torn cities might well emulate."

Mayor White is a senior member of the Legislative Action Committee of the United States Conference of Mayors which spearheaded a drive for passage of federal revenue sharing, and in March, 1973, was appointed to the advisory committee of the Democratic National Committee by DNC Chairman Robert S. Strauss.

RECORD OF ADMINISTRATION COMMUNITY PROGRAMS

Little City Halls

Mayor White created the first Little City Hall in the country to bring municipal government closer to the people by providing on-the-spot basic services and information in the neighborhoods. The Little City Halls are making it easier for both government to respond to people's needs and for city residents to participate in making decisions which affect their neighborhoods.

Each week more than 10,000 people use the government services available at the eighteen Little City Halls such as: voter registration, assistance with tax abatements and Social Security, consumer information and protection, applications for Civil Service and public housing and rent control information.

In response to individual and neighborhood problems and complaints the highly trained staff at each Little City Hall helps people with a wide range of needs such as: suggested changes in police patrol; helping set up neighborhood teen centers; coordinating neighborhood clean-up efforts; speeding up the delivery of snowplowing, trash collection, and street lighting; inviting community groups to consult with appropriate city agencies dealing with urban renewal, recreation, school construction, and much more.

Summerthing

Mayor White created the nationally acclaimed neighborhood arts festival, Summerthing, which brings cultural opportunities and arts training to children, teen-agers, and adults. Each summer over 1,500 performances and events are given by local and professional groups. More than 11,000,000 people have attended Summerthing events, including rock concerts, since 1968.

Equal Opportunity

Mayor White established the city's first agency to fight against discrimination and for equal opportunity. Since 1968 the Mayor's Office of Human Rights has greatly increased minority employment in city government. In 1968, there were no minority administrators in city government and only 2 percent minority employment (presently 15 percent). In 1973, there were three minority administrators and up to 17 percent minority employment.

Since 1973, there are more minorities in administrative positions than at any other time in the history of Boston city government.

Consumers

Mayor White established the city's first agency to protect consumers. Since 1968, the Boston Consumers Council has saved 6,000 consumers more than $200,000. He was the first mayor in the nation to require drug-gists to publicly post prescription drug prices and he has introduced legislation to modernize the city's archaic licensing practices and to give the Consumers Council subpoena powers.

Rebuilding Boston and Its Neighborhoods

Since 1968, more neighborhood schools, libraries, police and fire stations, and swimming pools have been built and more playgrounds and parks have been reconstructed and floodlighted than at any time in Boston's history.

More public facilities have been built in the neighborhoods in the last five years than have been built in the past thirty years.

Downtown there is over 8,000,000 square feet of office space under construction and over the next five years this rate is expected to double, bringing 60,000 new jobs into Boston.

Mayor White has taken a strong stand on preserving the city's architectural heritage and the unique characteristic of each neighborhood, for example:

Restoration of the nineteenth century Old City Hall into a commercial office building;

Restoration of the eighteenth century Faneuil Hall Market area;

Prohibition of high-rise buildings in the historic Back Bay and encouragement of residential renewal;

Establishment of neighborhood urban renewal committees.

In 1973, three times as many housing units were under construction than in any year since World War II. During the next seven years, the rate of housing construction is expected to double with the construction of 30,800 units reflecting population stabilization, employment growth, and the preference of young people to live in Boston.

Education

Mayor White, aware of Boston's deteriorating school plant, has initiated the building of more new schools in the last five years than have been built in any other five-year period in Boston's history. Sixteen community schools have been opened since 1968, used by children and adults alike; and ten other schools have been substantially renovated.

Boston Mayors . . .

Mayor White has demanded that the new University of Massachusetts opening in Boston accept most of its students from the city's high schools and from lower-income families to insure equal educational opportunities for inner-city students.

Mayor White's support of equal educational opportunity for all of Boston's students led him to criticize the state Racial Imbalance law for its reliance on mandatory busing; he proposed a solution that would deal with the economic and social inequities between the city and its suburbs, and would involve the whole metropolitan area in a voluntary desegregation plan.

Elderly

Mayor White established the city's first full-time department to deal exclusively with the problems of the elderly. In March, 1970, it was known as the Council on Aging. On May 6, 1970, the name was changed to: Commission on Affairs of the Elderly.

He fought for and won half-fare prices for the elderly on the public transit system, and arranged for many theatres, restaurants, and stores to reduce their prices for the elderly.

Mayor White appointed thirty-nine of Boston's elderly leaders to an advisory committee to help the city develop the kind of program the elderly need.

Under Mayor White's administration the number of housing units for the elderly has tripled—over 4,062 housing units have been built throughout the city.

Mayor White introduced a volunteer work program that has placed over 350 elderly in community-sponsored programs. By 1974, 1,000 more volunteer positions were filled.

Mayor White fought for federal aid to continue the Senior Aide Programs that now employ ninety older Bostonians in city government.

Health Services

Although Boston is world renowned for its medical facilities, many of its people receive inadequate health care, yet must bear the tax burden of supporting these institutions.

Mayor White is fighting to make twenty-eight private hospitals, now operating on tax-free property, provide health care to the people of Boston.

He has made health care available to more people with the introduction of twenty-seven neighborhood-based clinics offering complete treatment and follow-up care throughout the city.

He started the city's first full-fledged program to prevent and control drug abuse with treatment, education, law enforcement, and community action.

The Mayor established a Methadone Maintenance Program which treats more than 800 outpatients at Boston City Hospital and greatly reduces the chance for drug-related crimes.

He started the largest building and renovation program in the history of Boston City Hospital, including staff buildings, a biochemistry building, emergency and maternity buildings, and a multi-service outpatient department.

He started a plan to reduce the operating deficit and to improve the delivery of health services at Boston City Hospital by consolidating specialty services and eliminating duplicating facilities.

Mayor White also constructed a $2 million central kitchen facility which makes and serves over 40,000 hot lunches regularly to school children.

Housing

Fifteen low- and middle-income housing developments have been built in every section of the city, comprising 4,062 elderly housing units and 3,190 family units. Thirty-six project commitments have been issued for several more elderly housing units.

Mayor White required the first accommodations for the handicapped in new construction. Over 100 housing units have been built that anticipate the needs of the handicapped.

Three thousand five hundred homes and 6,000 apartments have been brought up to housing code standards and rehabilitated under Boston's Community Improvement Program.

Mayor White cosponsored the first local Housing Court to deal exclusively with housing problems and to insure quick results for tenant complaints.

Mayor White sponsored the first local Rent Control Board in the state to control rising rent levels and to protect tenants from unfair rent increases.

Transportation

Mayor White has been a key figure in stopping the careless and disruptive expansion of both the highway and airport networks.

He has pressed for $1 billion in federal highway funding to be used in upgrading and expanding the mass transit system;

He has taken action on court and in the state legislature to halt airport expansion until a growth plan, taking the neighborhoods surrounding the airport into account, is made public.

He has filed suit against the Port Authority to force it to provide $10 million for soundproofing for fifteen schools affected by overhead planes.

He has filed suit against the tax-exempt businesses located on airport land to pay taxes in the city.

He has filed legislation for the state to assume half of the $80 million mass transit deficit in order to give it a sounder financial base than the property tax and to provide property tax relief for homeowners.

Mayor White has also frozen parking spaces and will increase traffic fines and reduce downtown and off-street parking facilities to discourage passenger vehicles and to encourage the use of mass transit.

Police Reorganization

Mayor White has generated a major reorganization of the Boston Police Department which is now under his control. The Mayor has directed a major overhaul in the tradition-bound department, including a reorganization of the department's command structure, from deputy commander down to patrolman; the creation of new units to root out corruption, eliminate waste of manpower, and increase accountability and supervision within the department.

Mayor White is presently working with Police Commissioner, Joseph M. Jordan, to redeploy 10 percent of the police force now assigned from interior clerical duties to visible street patrol, to streamline the department's communication facilities, to increase and improve the use of police manpower during high-crime periods, and to speed up police response time to citizen calls for assistance.

FINANCE (TAXATION)

Federal

Mayor White participated in an intensive nationwide campaign in 1969 with the Legislative Action Committee of the United States Conference of Mayors for passage of general revenue sharing. In January of 1973, he was the first mayor to criticize the President's New Federalism proposals as "a shell game of enormous proportions for the central cities of America."

Mayor White has said: "After rigorously supporting the President's plan for general revenue sharing, I now find myself opposed to a former ally. The President's elimination of seventy categorical grant-in-aid programs brings to a halt the progress of successful projects already under way in Boston. He's now telling us to make up the difference by tapping general revenue funds. But general revenue sharing was meant to supplement, not substitute, for existing federal programs. So, in effect, he's telling us to rob from Peter to pay Paul, but the net result would be to starve both. For Boston the hard arithmetic shows a loss of over $100 million in federal aid."

State

Mayor White has continually led the battle for passage of state legislation to relieve the tax burden on all of Massachusetts cities and towns, including:

State assumption of 50 percent of the $80 million mass transit deficit which had been paid exclusively by homeowners through the property tax;

State assumption of county court and correction costs, now supported exclusively by homeowners through a property tax.

City

Mayor White is fighting for state assumption of the burden of tax-exempt medical and educational institutions in the metropolitan area to ease the property tax load on homeowners. At the same time, he has proposed wide-scale plans for institutional cooperation in developing innovative solutions to problems ranging from public education to health care.

Mayor White initiated an intensive austerity program in January, 1973, designed to cut back the city's operating budget, to stabilize the escalating tax rate, and to ease the burden on property taxpayers. For the first time in a decade the city budget was reduced, by $5.4 million as a result of the ten following economies:

Ten percent cut in the city work force;

Ten percent cut in mayoral budget;

Elimination of the Civil Defense Department;

Elimination of the Boston Police Harbor Patrol Division and the reassignment of the seventy-one men to neighborhood patrol;

Nine percent cut in Boston redevelopment Authority budget;

Two and one-half million dollars cut in Boston City Hospital subsidy;

Freeze on Boston School Department budget;

Freeze on the county budget; and

A shutdown of two county penal institutions within two years, unless the state takes them over.

Boston has fared well in the competition for federal funds benefiting the city, largely because of Mayor White's "Boston Plan."

The plan has secured nearly $100 million in federal funds for four vital areas of the city, Hyde Park, the Waterfront, Columbia Point, and Blue Hill Avenue, leveraging another $400 million in private-sector funds for revitalization of the city.

A top Presidential aide, Jack Watson, said this about the Mayor's Boston Plan before the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce:

"The Boston Plan represents one of the most exciting, bold, innovative approaches to urban development in any city. . . . The Boston Plan needs to be replicated in the big and little cities across the nation."

Mayor White also acquired for Boston $23 million in Project Yes funds. The program provides jobs for students in Boston schools during the school year and full-time jobs in summer. Boston was one of seven cities to receive such funding, out of 200 cities competing nationwide.

Mayor White now serves as president of the National Democratic Mayors Conference, a group of big-city Mayors who have made substantive changes in urban policy and consistently defend the interests of the cities with the Congress and the Carter administration.

The Mayor's national reputation as a spokesman for the cities has not only served to raise Boston's visibility and reputation. it has also benefited the city materially.

In 1978, the Mayor took the unprecedented action of announcing that the city's tax rate would not be increased for the present year and the succeeding year.

In conjunction with the effort to keep the tax rate stable, Mayor White filed suit against the Commonwealth of Massachusetts seeking reimbursement to compensate for the city's disproportionate share of tax-exempt properties.

The Mayor said universities, hospitals, cultural attractions, and other tax-exempt facilities "are putting the city in a vice-grip of lost, tax revenues."

The suit asks that the court declare the present system of exemptions unconstitutional.

Other actions to increase the city's revenue-raising capability include improvements instituted in the collection of delinquent property taxes and parking fines, bringing in millions more in revenues.

Mayor White also headed the drive to pass the "Classification Amendment" on the 1978 ballot, which passed by a ten-to-one margin in Boston and more than two-to-one statewide.

Classification blunts the effects of 100 percent valuation by taxing residential properties lower than commercial and industrial properties.

Mayor White played an important role in raising the public's awareness of the complex referendum question, discussing the issue with residents at more than forty meetings in Boston neighborhoods.

In the late 1970s and early 1980s, Boston is a boom town, with exciting development prospects all over the city.

The most spectacular of these is the conversion of the former Charlestown Navy Yard into a residential complex with accompanying commercial facilities, a $200-million development establishing Boston's waterfront as the model for Eastern Seaboard, waterfront development.

Combined with the restoration of the Quincy Markets at Faneuil Hall, and other major developments city wide, the Charlestown developments secure Boston's proud title as the Athens of America—America's workable, livable, great city.

SPECIAL COMMISSION FORMED TO STUDY CABLE TV

Mayor Kevin H. White, on May 17, announced the formation of a commission to study cable TV in Boston.

The fifteen-member Cable Television Review Commission will "review every conceivable facet of cable TV and its future in Boston," the Mayor said.

hoods, two state senators, businessmen, academics, and clerics.

It will be chaired by Peggy Charren, president of Action For Children's Television (ACT) and a nationally-recognized specialist on the effects of television programming on children.

Mayor White said the commission "will thoroughly examine the potential impact of cable television on Boston's neighborhoods," in its deliberations.

"Cable TV has tremendous possibilities," the Mayor said, "not only for upgrading the quality of educational services, but also to enhance our recreational viewing."

TERI WEIDNER JOINS UIDC

Urban Investment and Development Co. (UIDC) announces the appointment of Teri F. Weidner as communications director in their Boston office. Formerly special assistant to Mayor Kevin H. White, Weidner leaves City Hall after seven years in a number of positions within municipal government.

Weidner will have responsibility for public affairs and media relations for UIDC's proposed Copley Place project. Additionally, she will assist Kenneth A. Himmel, vice-president and project manager, with special projects, including the community review process now ongoing in conjunction with the development.

The next phase of meetings with the Citizens Review Committee are scheduled to continue throughout the summer. In compliance with guidelines required of development firms seeking approval for viable projects, UIDC will be holding these public sessions along with the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority (MTA) and the City of Boston.

UIDC executed the Air Rights Lease last December with the MTA and plans to develop their land surrounding the Mass. Pike adjacent to Copley Square. The ten-acre tract has gone undeveloped since urban renewal made way for the Prudential Center and redevelopment in the South End. At an estimated $250 million, Copley Place is the largest multi-use project to be proposed for inner-city Boston. As such, it figures significantly in the economic and social prosperity of downtown Boston and neighborhoods bordering on the site.

BRA REQUESTS ALTERING BOSTON'S ZONING CODE

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has requested a change in the city's zoning code to facilitate a program for revitalizing Boston's theatre district.

The amendment would allow an area, near Stuart and Washington Streets, which is currently zoned for business, to become an urban renewal subdistrict.

That would allow Tufts New England Medical Center to proceed with plans for constructing a nutrition center at the corner of Stuart and Washington Streets and a new pediatric wing which will span Washington Street, just south of Stuart Street.

Approval of the zoning amendment will also allow Tufts New England Medical Center to move forward with plans to sell the Wilbur Theatre, along with a portion of land needed to expand the Music Hall Theatre as a performing arts center.

BRA Director Robert Ryan said, "The zoning amendment will make it possible for Tufts to implement plans which have already been approved. At the same time, Tufts will be able to convey property and land they do not need to help us in our efforts to strengthen the theatre district. This is a necessary first step in our program to make our theatre district a strong, lively, and attractive area."

facility, is upheld until the parking tickets are paid.

During the past three years, the boot's effectiveness has been proven dramatically through the number of vehicles which have been impounded for delinquent tickets.

January through April, 1977, 879 impoundments; January through April, 1978, 2,250 impoundments, 160 percent increase over previous year; January through April, 1979, 4,526 impoundments, 98 percent increase over previous year; and revenue for the first four months of this year, is ahead of similar period last year.

January through April, 1978, $1,682,312 fines paid; January through April, 1979, $2,105,834 fines paid — a 25 percent increase.

April, in particular, represents a 48 percent increase in collection this year over last year alone.

The boot is just one aspect of Boston's aggressive parking violations program. Another relatively new parking sanction calls for a $5 surcharge on any parking ticket which goes unpaid more than twenty-one days.

They are available to all Boston high school students, grades 10 through 12, including youths not now attending school and who are Boston residents. Adults residing in Boston also are welcome.

Such affirmative action shall include positive measures to ensure equal opportunity in the area of hiring, upgrading, demotion, or transfer, recruitment, layoff, or termination, rate of compensation, and in-service or apprenticeship training programs. Such affirmative action shall include all action required to guarantee equal employment opportunity for all persons, regardless of race, color, religious creed, national origin, age, or sex. A purpose of this section is to ensure to the fullest extent possible an adequate supply of skilled tradesmen for this and future city public construction projects.

The contractor and his subcontractors shall maintain a not less than 10 percent ratio of minority employee manhours in each category of the total manhours worked on this contract, including but not limited to bricklayers, carpenters, cement masons, electricians, iron workers, operating engineers, and other classes of work designated by the Contract Compliance Unit, at the time of project advertisement.

DISPLAY OUR FLAG PROUDLY

Traditions and Code of the U. S. Flag

Many traditions have grown up regarding the display and use of the United States flag. These traditions are intended as marks of respect and are widely observed. The Army and the Navy have their own regulations, but these do not apply outside the armed services. To supply a guide to civilians for the proper use and display of the flag, a code was drawn up at a National Flag Conference held in Washington on June 14-15, 1923. This was revised by the Second National Flag Conference, May 15, 1924. Finally, in June, 1942, Congress adopted a resolution (amended December 1942) which made the flag code into a law.

The code, as set forth below, embodies the provisions of the congressional resolution.

1. The Flag should be displayed only from sunrise to sunset, or between such hours as may be designated by proper authority. It should be displayed on national and state holidays, and on historic and special occasions. The Flag should always be hoisted briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously.

2. When carried in a procession with another flag or flags, the Flag of the United States of America should be either on the marching right, that is, the Flag's own right, or, when there is a line of other flags, the Flag of the United States of America may be in front of the center of that line.

3. When displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, the Flag of the United States of America should be on the right, the Flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

4. When a number of flags are grouped and displayed from staffs, the Flag of the United States of America should be at the center or at the highest point of the group.

5. When flags of states or of cities or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the Flag of the United States of America, the National Flag should always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs, the Flag of the United States of America should be hoisted first and lowered last. No flag or pennant should be placed above or to the right of the Flag of the United States of America.

6. When flags of two or more nations are displayed they should be flown from separate staffs of the same height and the flags should be of approximately equal size. (International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another nation in time of peace.)

7. When the Flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony, or front of building, the union of the Flag should go clear to the peak of the staff unless the Flag is at half-staff.

8. When the Flag is displayed in a manner other than by being flown from a staff, it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the Flag's own right, i.e., to the observer's left. When displayed in a window it should be displayed the same way, that is, with the union or blue field to the left of the observer in the street. When festoons, rosettes or drapings of blue, white, and red are desired, bunting should be used, but never the Flag.

9. When displayed over the middle of the street, as between buildings, the Flag should be suspended vertically with the union to the north, in an east and west street, or to the east in a north and south street.

10. On a speaker's platform the Flag, if used flat, should be placed above and behind the speaker. It should never be used to cover the speaker's desk, nor to drape over the front of the platform. If flown from a staff it should be on the speaker's right.

11. When used in connection with the unveiling of a statue or monument, the Flag should form a distinctive feature during the ceremony, but the Flag itself should never be used as the covering for the statue. Bunting may be used for this purpose.

12. When flown at half-staff, the Flag is hoisted to the peak for an instant, then lowered to the half-staff position; but before lowering the Flag for the day it is raised again to the peak. By half-staff is meant hauling down the Flag one-half the distance between the top and bottom of the staff. If local conditions require, divergence from this position is permissible. On Memorial Day, May 30th, the Flag is displayed at half-staff from sunrise until noon and at full staff from noon until sunset; for the Nation lives and the Flag is the symbol of the living Nation.

13. Flags flown from fixed staffs are placed at half-staff to indicate mourning. When the Flag is displayed on a small staff, as when carried in parade, mourning is indicated by attaching two streamers of black crepe to the spear head, allowing the streamers to fall naturally. Crepe is used on the flag-staff only by order of the President.

14. When used to cover a casket, the Flag should be placed so that the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The Flag should not be lowered into the grave nor allowed to touch the ground. The casket should be carried foot first.

15. When the Flag is displayed in the body of the church it should be from a staff placed on the congregation's right as they face the clergyman. The service flag, the State flag, or other flag should be at the left of the congregation. If in the chancel or on the platform, the Flag of the United States of America should be placed on the clergyman's right as he faces the congregation and the other flags on his left.

16. When the Flag is in such a condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, it should not be cast aside or used in any way that might be viewed as disrespectful to the National colors, but should be destroyed as a whole, privately, preferably by burning or by some other method in harmony with the reverence and respect we owe to the emblem representing our Country.

Cautions

1. Do not permit disrespect to be shown to the Flag of the United States of America.

2. Do not dip the Flag of the United States of America to any person or anything. The regimental color, State flag, or institutional flag will render this honor.

3. Do not display the Flag with the union down except as a signal of distress.

4. Do not place any other flag or pennant above or to the right of the Flag of the United States of America.

5. Do not let the Flag touch the ground or the floor, or trail in the water.

6. Do not place any object or emblem of any kind on or above the Flag of the United States of America.

7. Do not use the Flag as drapery in any form whatever. Use bunting of blue, white, and red.

8. Do not fasten the Flag in such a manner as will permit it to be easily torn.

9. Do not drape the Flag over the hood, top, sides, or back of a vehicle, or of a railroad train or boat. When the Flag is displayed on a motor car, the staff should be affixed firmly to the chassis, or clamped to the radiator cap.

Do not display the Flag on a float in a parade except from a staff.

11. Do not use the Flag as a covering for a ceiling.

12. Do not carry the Flag flat or horizontally, but always as in a parade, aloft and free.

13. Do not use the Flag as a portion of a costume or of an athletic uniform. Do not embroider it upon cushions or handkerchiefs nor print it on paper napkins or boxes.

14. Do not put lettering of any kind upon the Flag.

15. Do not use the Flag in any form of advertising nor fasten an advertising sign to the pole from which the Flag is flying.

16. Do not display, use, or store the Flag in such a manner as will permit it to be easily soiled or damaged.

Proper Use of Bunting

Bunting of the National colors should be used for covering a speaker's desk, draping over the front of a platform, and for decoration in general. Bunting should be arranged with the blue above, the white in the middle, and the red below.

Salute to the Flag

When the Flag is passing in parade or in a review, all persons present should face the Flag, stand at attention, and salute. Those present in uniform should render the right-hand salute. When not in uniform, men should remove the headdress with the right hand and hold it at the left shoulder, the hand being over the heart. Women should salute by placing the right hand over the heart. The salute to the Flag in the moving column is rendered at the moment the Flag passes.

Salute When Giving the Pledge to the Flag

In pledging allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, the approved practice in schools, which is suitable also for civilian adults, is as follows:

Standing with the right hand over the heart, all repeat together the following pledge:

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands.

"One Nation, under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

The President of the United States is empowered to alter, modify, or repeal by proclamation any rule or custom pertaining to the use and display of the Flag whenever he deems it to be desirable.

Hats Off!

*Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums,
A flash of colour beneath the sky;*

Hats Off!

The flag is passing by!

*Blue and crimson and white it shines,
Over the steel-tipped, ordered lines.*

Hats Off!

*The colours before us fly;
But more than the flag is passing by.*

*Sea-fights and land-fights grim and great,
Fought to make and to save the State;
Weary marches and sinking Ships;
Cheers of victory on dying lips.*

*Days of plenty and years of peace;
March of a strong Land's swift increase;
Equal justice, right and law,
Stately honour and reverend awe.*

*Sign of a nation great and strong
To ward her people from foreign wrong;
Pride and glory and honour,—all
Live in the colours to stand or fall.*

Hats Off!

*Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums;
And loyal hearts are beating high;*

Hats Off!

The flag is passing by!

— HENRY HOLCOMB BENNETT

Our Flag, May It Ever Wave

I swing before your eyes as a bright gleam of color, a symbol of yourself, the pictured suggestion of that which makes this Nation. My stars and my stripes are your dream and your labors. They are bright with cheer, brilliant with courage, firm with faith, because you have made them so out of your hearts. This is the real meaning, of old glory, the banner of the United States; for the flag is but a symbol of the nation. Whatever the flag which you give allegiance, you are, in a very real sense, one of its makers, as you are of the Nation for which it stands.

Part III

III. ANTECEDENTS

To understand the significance of the Decade of Development, one must know what it was like before. The negligible level of investment in the three decades following 1929 was equivalent to cutting off the lifeblood of the city.

The genesis of the decline had its origins in the evaporation of the the venturesomeness of Boston's money managers. But this was also compounded by the neglect and decay of the public infrastructure. Fortune Magazine noted in 1933 that "there can be no doubt but that the Bostonian has suffered a decay and disintegration of tragic proportions . . . the Bostonian of today has withdrawn from productive enterprise."

Russell B. Adams in his history of Boston's financial leaders* wrote about the evolution from pioneering in mercantile, trade, and industrial development to the conservative management of money.

In the 1880s and 1890s, Bostonians had owned and run the Bell Telephone Company, had been financial powers behind General Electric, had controlled thousands of miles of western railroads; the counsels of State Street, Beacon Hill, and the Back Bay were sought and valued throughout the nation, and Boston still warmed the seat of enterprise occupied ever since its daring merchants had put out in frail ships to bring home to America the riches of the world. Before two generations had passed, in 1928, Elmer Davis stood on the banks of the Charles River, looked up at the vista of Beacon Hill, and wrote that "It is flawless, complete, finished, static, dead . . . (Page 219)

Boston was also penalized for its early start and outstanding performance in the money-making game. As the center of American foreign trade for more than a century, as the cradle of industrial revolution and capitalization, Boston was the first U.S. city to offer a considerable number of its citizens the opportunity to grow rich. Inevitably, Boston became, too, the first city to spawn a really wealthy urban upper class, an aristocracy based, not on merit or achievement, but on inherited wealth and position. . . . As the first city to make large amounts of money, Boston became also the first city to grow preoccupied with conserving it. (Page 226)

As conservation became the byword of the Boston trustee, increasing amounts of Boston's wealth were squirreled away and removed from productive enterprise. By definition, trustee wealth must not be put at hazard, must not be risked on chancy ventures, and the proper place for money held in trust was in solid real estate, in the steady cotton mills, in tried-and-true railroad securities. Fortunes made by taking risks must not be risked again. (Page 226)

The default of economic leadership brought on broad decay in Boston's economic base. This is also vividly described by Adams.

In 1929, Boston itself seemed a reflection of washed-out glory, of blunted enterprise, and nowhere was this apparent more than on the wharves, raised as testaments to a thriving commerce but standing now as galling monuments of vanished and better days. Despite the steady decline of the New England textile industry as low-cost labor made Southern mills more economical and productive, Boston remained the world's largest wool center; the still-thriving footwear industry made the city the center for export of boots and shoes and imports of leather. But such workaday commerce was a far cry from the days when sailing ships had put out to sea with mixed cargoes and come proudly home with holds bearing the riches of China and the Indies. (Page 269)

The sagging, rotting, disused, misused wharves were not the only battered remnants of days long past. There were also ships, or what was left of them after the ravages of time and scavengers. Like dead and floundered sea creatures nipped by marauding sharks, a fleet of derelict hulls littered the harbor, bleached by the sun at low tide. Even at that, their day was not yet done; in the grim and needy winters of the early 1930s, some 120 of these skeletal vessels were dragged ashore, broken to bits, and picked over for firewood by the poor. (Page 270)

Downtown Boston, now a citadel of prudence and trusteeship, had fared only a little better than the old waterfront. Largely rebuilt following the great fire of 1872, it had remained virtually static ever since, a shabbily genteel image of its fiduciary role. (Page 270)

Boston's experience following 1929, contrasted with that of earlier times and other cities.

Bostonians of the past had found ways to adapt to changing economic conditions and to squeeze advantage out of seeming adversity. But as Boston dwindled in importance as a seaport, the city's role in other areas diminished as well. With New York's growth as a commercial center, the great Boston textile-selling houses opened branches there, and soon the branches were doing more business than the home offices. As New York became the coastal center of market distribution, it became, too, the city beckoned in the dreams of ambitious men on the make.

Bostonians had only themselves to blame for being upstaged by other cities, claiming that Boston investors who put their money and talents into projects far from home did so at the expense of their own city's development. (Pages 219-220)

The soaring hopes of the 1920s had spurred building booms in the more dynamic cities of the nation, but not in Boston. Save for the United Shoe Machinery Company's twenty-four-story headquarters building — 1930 — and a handful of other random structures the Boston skyline was all but unchanged since the Doric Custom House was defaced in 1914 with an incongruent office tower that would overshadow other downtown buildings for fully two generations. In stark contrast to earlier days, Boston had little need for building. And the men who held the purse strings, who tended the insurance companies and investment trusts and great family nest eggs, had mostly moved from the city to Wellesley or Westwood or Milton or Manchester-by-the-sea. (Page 270)

Boston's decline persisted long after its metro region was well into economic recovery and growth along with the rest of the nation.

By the mid-1950s the city was not only a financial and cultural center but the literal hub of a great and still-growing research and development complex. Near miracles were being worked in those trimly tailored buildings perched along Route 128's wooded and landscaped periphery, and Boston was the ultimate source of it all, had made it all possible by generations of building and achievement that began when the first captains set out to trade with the Indies. But Boston itself, good gray Boston so filled with memories and renewed promise, had not changed with the times, had seen no miracles on its own streets. Seedy, ancient buildings — ancient, at least by American standards — seemed to stamp the city still, to press it firmly into a mold unsuited to the needs of new and venturesome twentieth century enterprise. . . . Boston's money managers, with all the billions in their care, bore the dubious distinction of being beyond challenge the most poorly housed financial community in the nation, if not the whole world. There were those who likened metropolitan Boston to a gleaming apple with a rotten core, or called the ailing city "the patient." (Page 306)

Speaking at a Faneuil Hall meeting in the closing month of 1944, architect William Roger Greeley had gone unchallenged when he lamented that Boston had not shared with London the "advantage" of widespread destruction by aerial bombardment, leaving behind the rubble of an old city as foundation for the new. (Page 305)

The collapse of private investment had its counterpart in the drought in public infrastructure investment. Three decades of neglect of the city's public improvements are mirrored in the low level of the city's net funded debt, which sank to a low of $59 million in 1956. Even some ten years later this had increased to only $157 million. The level of the city's public investment in facilities and improvements remained abysmally low, averaging only $38 million per year (adjusted for inflation) in the twenty-three years preceding 1968. In this time there were only public housing, and the following major transportation improvements to fill the investment gap: 1) 1954-59 Central Artery ($100 m. fully state-funded); 2) Sumner Tunnel, 1930s; 3) Callahan Tunnel, 1950s; 4) Mystic Bridge, 1947.

With the withering away of private investment and the absence of public initiative in capital improvements and the resulting decay in the city's economy and infrastructure, Boston experienced a massive outflow of population. The nature of this outflow was far greater and more serious than that indicated by the population numbers themselves. Boston's population had experienced a rapid and unbroken growth through the nineteenth century and up to 1930. The city's population had risen tenfold from 18,000 in 1790, to 178,000 in 1860, another threefold to 561,000 in 1900, and a further 50 percent to 781,000 in 1930. In the decade following the Depression, Boston's population saw its first modest slump to 741,000 in 1940, thereafter rising with World War II activity to 801,000 in 1950. But between 1950 and 1960, bowing to suburbanization, the city lost 104,000 people, followed by a further loss of 56,000 in the 1960s. Stabilization came in the 1970s.

In the thirty years following 1929, the composition of Boston's population experienced a fundamental change. The extraordinary magnitude of this change is measured in the income levels of the population. In 1929, Boston's per capita income was the third highest of the nation's thirty largest cities and was well above that of its metro region. By 1959, Boston's per capita income level had fallen to the twenty-fourth rank among the thirty largest cities and was by then only 87 percent of the metro area level. The well-to-do had fled and Boston was left with a concentration of poorer residents.

The exodus of the middle- and upper-income households was matched by the loss of over one-half of the city's manufacturing base. Since 1945 alone, Boston had lost 59,000 of the 100,000 manufacturing jobs it still had in that year.

OUR FLAG

On June 14, 1777, more than two hundred years ago, the Congress of the United States enacted a resolution:

"... that the flag of the United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white, that the Union be thirteen stars, white on blue field representing a new constellation."

In 1795, eighteen years later, June 14 was designated officially in the United States as Flag Day.

The flag of the United States is a symbol of freedom and justice.

It is a symbol of home to the millions of people who live in fear, in poverty, and in slavery. To millions of people throughout the world it is a symbol of rich material blessing and a land of opportunity.

In the hearts and minds of these millions of people is a deep yearning that some day, somehow, they may have the opportunity of making their homes in this great land of ours.

In these days of doubt, fear, and uncertainty, when freedom and justice are so seriously threatened, it is fitting that we should pause to rededicate ourselves to the basic principles symbolized by our flag.

These principles have sustained us throughout our history.

They have enabled us to triumph when our freedom and our security were threatened.

They have made it possible for us to grow in power and in prosperity.

They have strengthened us when we faltered; given us courage when we were afraid; united us when we were divided.

In the principles of freedom and justice which our flag symbolizes lie our strength and our hope for the future.

For our own sake, and for the welfare of those who follow us, we should make sure that these principles do not perish in our time.

Love, honor, and respect your American Flag: it is the greatest and most comforting symbol you will ever have in your lifetime.

BATTLE OF BUNKER HILL JUNE 17, 1775

When George Washington was told that there had been a battle at Bunker Hill he asked: "Did the militia fight?" On being told that they fought he remarked: "Then the liberties of the country are safe." By that one sentence Washington showed that he realized the importance of the Battle of Bunker Hill, the first real battle of the American Revolution. This famous battle was fought on June 17, 1775, before Washington took command of the Army.

The colonial forces had been holding the British at bay in Boston, and heard that the enemy was planning to occupy some of the hills about the city. On the night of June 16, Colonel Prescott and his men started out to prevent this by occupying Bunker Hill, but they changed their plans and fortified Breed's Hill instead. On the morning of June 17, the British were amazed to see trenches crowning the hill. The vessels in the harbor immediately began bombarding the fortification, and later in the day the British troops attacked it. Twice they advanced to attack. All was silent as they marched up the hill, for General Putnam had given the command: "Don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes!" When they were within a few yards of the fortifications, a sheet of flame swept down the hill. The men in the front ranks were mowed down and the others beat a hasty retreat. A third time the British charged. This time nothing happened for the powder of the colonial forces was exhausted. The patriots fought with clubbed muskets, but were forced to retreat to Bunker Hill, leaving the battlefield in the hands of the British.

It was a victory which was dearly bought, however, for the British had lost 226 men killed and 828 wounded, while the loss of the Americans had been 145 killed and 304 wounded. Nathaniel Greene said, "I wish we could sell them another hill at the same price." Today a granite shaft 221 feet high stands near the spot where the gallant General Warren fell just as the retreat began. The cornerstone of this "Bunker Hill monument" was laid by Lafayette in 1825, the 50th anniversary of the battle. The monument was dedicated in 1843, with an oration by Daniel Webster.

HUB SCHOOLS TESTING CENTERS FOR G.E.D.

State Department of Education designates Boston Community Schools as first neighborhood testing sites for General Equivalency Examination.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on May 24, announced that the State Department of Education is designating the City of Boston's eighteen Boston Community Schools as official testing centers for the state's high school General Equivalency Diploma examination (G.E.D.).

The state's decision to decentralize the G.E.D. testing sites into the neighborhood-based, community schools means that Boston residents will be able to take the state equivalency examination in the convenience of their own neighborhoods.

The Boston Community Schools Program is the first community school program in Massachusetts to receive the designation, as a prototype for the statewide plan to decentralize testing sites into the neighborhoods. Currently two Boston Community Schools, the Condon Community School in South Boston, and the Agassiz Community School in Jamaica Plain, provide G.E.D. testing, with the other sixteen community schools expected to begin testing this fall.

Said Mayor White, "Our figures show that the grades in the equivalency tests are far higher when they are administered in the neighborhoods than they are at a central testing site. A comfortable, accessible, familiar environment for learning is obviously essential for this kind of program — and that's what the community school program provides."

The Mayor made the announcement prior to awarding diplomas to twenty-five South Boston residents at a G.E.D. graduation ceremony at the Condon Community School in South Boston.

The graduates, forty-two total, ages eighteen to sixty-seven, completed a fifteen-week, G.E.D. preparation, administered by Boston State College's Urban Learning Center, which resulted in 91 percent of the G.E.D. candidates passing the state equivalency examination. This figure represents a high percentage for Massachusetts, with the state average indicating 71.6 percent of G.E.D. candidates passing the exam.

Speaking at the ceremony, Dr. Gerard Indelicato, director of the Massachusetts Department of Education's Bureau of Adult Services, praised the Condon Community School's program for "its success as a community-based, service center and as an example of what can happen when we (the state) provide G.E.D. testing at the convenience of the neighborhoods instead of at the convenience of the state."

Other speakers at the ceremony included: James Green, chairman of the President's Advisory Council on Community Education; Eric Straughter and Sandy Young, director and assistant director of Boston State's Urban Learning Center; Paul Grogan, director of the Mayor's Office of Community Schools; City Councilman Raymond Flynn; Mike Taylor, administrative coordinator at the Condon Community School; and Patrice Devin and Linda Davis, educational vocational coordinator and G.E.D. teacher at the Condon Community School.

BOSTON CHILDREN'S MUSEUM REOPENS

On July 1, the Boston Children's Museum reopens at Museum Wharf, its spacious new home on Boston's waterfront.

Renovation of the nineteenth-century, brick and timber warehouse is proceeding on schedule and museum staffers are busily constructing new "hands-on" exhibits and planning events for the Grand Opening, July 1 through 8.

The move to Museum Wharf, in the planning stage for several years, will result in greatly expanded space for exhibits and programs and a location that provides easy access for all New England families.

New exhibits will include "City Slice," a three-story, cross-section of a city street and house; "We're Still Here," which compares how New England native Americans lived then and now; and the Ruth Harmony Green Hall of Toys, a display of the museum's magnificent collection of dolls, doll houses, and toys.

In addition, many of the museum visitor's favorite exhibits will be expanded. There'll be more computer terminals and zoetropes, and Grandmother's Attic will reappear as Grandparents' House. The Giant's Desktop, where everything is twelve times normal size, will be back with many new pieces, too.

The Resource Center will have studies with additional activities and information about the major exhibit themes.

Museum Wharf is adjacent to the Boston Tea Party Ship and near the new Federal Reserve Bank and South Station. It's easy to reach from all directions by car and public transportation and on foot.

By car, Museum Wharf is just off the Expressway (Rte. 3) and the Massachusetts Turnpike. By public transportation, it's just three blocks from South Station and the MBTA's Red Line. By foot, it's a short walk from the New England Aquarium, Faneuil Hall Marketplace, and the downtown shopping area.

The Children's Museum will be sharing Museum Wharf with the Museum of Transportation.

THE WASHINGTONS BELONG IN BOSTON!

Mayor White kicks off $5 million fund raising drive for Stuart paintings.

Mayor Kevin H. White, on May 29, formally inaugurated a $5-million, fund-raising campaign to keep the historic Gilbert Stuart portraits of George and Martha Washington in Boston. He announced the formation of "The Washingtons Belong in Boston Committee" at a press conference held in Faneuil Hall.

The committee, which is headed by Honorary Chairman General James Gavin, is made up of over 100 representatives of the arts, government, business, and education in Massachusetts and will raise the funds to purchase the portraits through public subscription.

"The Stuart portraits of George and Martha Washington belong in Boston and will remain in Boston," Mayor White said. "These portraits are at the very heart of Boston's cultural heritage and have hung in the Museum of Fine Arts since 1876. The people of Boston and Massachusetts will not allow the Smithsonian Institution to strip them of their cultural heritage."

The Stuart portraits became the center of controversy when it was disclosed in April that the Boston Athenaeum, current owner of the portraits, intended to sell the paintings to the Smithsonian Institution for $5 million because of financial difficulties.

Mayor White was joined by Senator Edward Kennedy, on April 11 at the Museum of Fine Arts, to denounce the sale of the portraits and initiate efforts to form a fundraising committee to purchase the portraits through public subscription and block the sale to the Smithsonian.

The Athenaeum has since announced a moratorium on the sale until the end of 1979 to allow for the fund-raising effort by the Massachusetts group.

Mayor White was joined at the press conference by General James Gavin, Polly Logan and Genevra Counihan, campaign chairperson and executive director, respectively; Massachusetts Lt. Governor Thomas P. O'Neill III; Senator Edward Kennedy; and Howard Johnson, president of the Museum of Fine Arts.

Also in attendance were former Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, former Senator Leverett Saltonstall and former Speaker of the House John W. McCormack.

MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS, OPENS SATELLITE MUSEUM AT FANEUIL HALL

On Saturday, June 2, Howard W. Johnson, president of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, Jan Fontein, director of the Museum of Fine Arts, Mathias J. DeVito, president of the Rouse Company, and Edwin A. Daniels, Jr., vice-president of the Rouse Company simultaneously cut the ceremonial ribbon that opened the "Museum of Fine Arts at Faneuil Hall."

"This step," said Johnson, "makes history for the Museum of Fine Arts and for the City of Boston by bringing great art right to where the people are. We are grateful to the Rouse Company for donating the space, to the City of Boston and to its Mayor for having had the vision to create this remarkable marketplace, and to generations of Boston's forebears who helped to build the Museum's collections which will be on display at the Faneuil Hall Museum."

The premiere exhibition, titled, "Faces of Five Thousand Years," presents more than 160 images of the human face as depicted by artists over the past 5,000 years. Included in the exhibition are faces of gods and goddesses east to west, kings and queens, heroes and villains, and works by such well-known artists as Picasso, Winslow Homer, Rodin, and Gilbert Stuart.

Types of works in the exhibition are paintings, sculptures, furniture, prints, textiles, musical instruments, and decorative objects made of gold, silver, and bronze.

The installation of the exhibition is under the direction of Kenworth Moffett, the museum's curator of Twentieth Century Art, who will serve as curator in charge of the Faneuil Hall project. To bring together this extraordinarily wide collection of objects, Moffett has led a team of curators from all curatorial departments at the MFA.

"Our aim," says Moffett, "is to present the exceptional range and diversity of the Museum's collections. The 'faces' theme permits us to present works in all sizes, all media, and in every style from ancient times through the present. The theme of faces seemed just right for a place where people spend so much time watching other people."

The exhibition includes many objects not likely to have been seen by many museum goers. A bronze sculpture (1880) by Sarah Bernhardt will surprise many who did not know that the famous actress was also an accomplished painter and sculptress. The complex, 10-inch-high bronze (which was designed as an inkwell) surrounds a remarkable likeness of the actress with mystic and foreboding symbols — sphinx, bat wings, and a horned skull.

Other artists are quite unknown, such as the one who painted and gilded an ancient mummy mask nearly 4,000 years ago. Placed over the head and shoulders of the mummy, the elaborate mask handsomely portrayed the deceased for his journey into the next world.

From the Department of Classical Art at the Museum of Fine Arts comes a magnificent marble sculpture which was probably made for the garden of an old Roman villa. Set atop a tall pedestal are the joined heads of Herakles, an immortalized hero, and his wife, Hebe, goddess of youth and cupbearer to the gods.

An African mask, the only object in the exhibition not from the Museum's collection, has been loaned to the presentation by the National Center of Afro-American Artists. The NCAAA and the museum have enjoyed a collaborative arrangement for years. Called a "Guli Mask," this ceremonial piece was inspired by the spirit of the buffalo, an important totem to the West African Baule tribe.

Along with these varied objects, the exhibition includes groupings of objects such as "faces of spirituality." This selection of sculpture includes an historic span of images of the Buddha as depicted by artists from China, Japan, Thailand, India, and Cambodia.

Admission to the Museum of Fine Arts at Faneuil Hall will be free, although voluntary contributions will be urged to match grants in support of the Downtown Museum from the National Endowment for the Arts ($200,000) and the Committee of the Permanent Charity Fund, Incorporated ($100,000). In addition to visitor contributions, all proceeds from the sale of art books and art reproductions in the small Museum Shop on the Gallery Floor will also be put towards these matching funds.

The museum's hours will be: 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., Tuesdays through Saturdays; and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Visitors may reach the "Faces of Five Thousand Years" exhibition by taking the Entry I Level elevator to the Fifth Floor of the South Market Building. The nine, daylight-filled galleries in the new museum were designed by Tom Wong and Judith Downes of the Museum of Fine Arts Office of Design.

CASA MARIA ELDERLY HOUSING SET FOR NORTH END

Mayor White praises Casa Maria Elderly Housing as "clear evidence of a vital neighborhood."

Mayor Kevin H. White, on June 1, praised the development of eighty-five units of low-and moderate-income elderly housing in the North End as "clear evidence of a vital and dynamic neighborhood."

The Casa Mia development, funded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development through almost $3.5 million in Section 8 monies, will provide approximately seventy one-and two-bedroom apartments, with the remainder especially equipped for handicapped persons.

Said Mayor White, "Projects such as the Casa Maria development are vital to the stability of this city's neighborhoods. Twelve years ago there were no subsidized housing developments in the North End. This project is the fourth to be constructed over that period."

Mayor White added, "These projects recognize the contribution that the elderly have made to their community, and the special needs they have. Higher rents should not force people on fixed incomes from the communities that they have fought so hard to establish."

The new development will stand on the site formerly occupied by St. Mary's Church. That church was demolished to make way for the housing after long negotiations between the city, St. Mary's Housing Corporation, and Greater Boston Community Development, Inc.

Peabody Construction Company expects to complete the construction in twelve to thirteen months.

Rents in the apartments will be set on a sliding scale, not to exceed 25 percent of the elderly tenants' incomes.

RENOVATION PROJECT PLANNED FOR SYMPHONY ROAD

The Mayor's Office and the Boston Redevelopment Authority will convey four, tax-foreclosed properties on Symphony Road to a community-based, development corporation which will rehabilitate the structures for low-and moderate-income housing.

The four properties, which were seriously damaged by fire, are being sold by the city to the BRA for a price of $1. The BRA, in turn, will sell the buildings to Symphony Area Renaissance, Inc., (SARI) a non-profit, community development corporation directed by residents of the area.

SARI has already received a commitment of $400,000 in section 132 rehabilitation funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to repair and manage the properties, which are located at 29, 30, 31, and 33 Symphony Road, respectively. The renovation project, which consists of buildings at 29, 30, 31, and 33 Symphony road, will produce twenty units of housing.

In addition, the City of Boston will make available $32,000 in community development funds to SARI to assist them in carrying out the project.

Mayor Kevin H. White expressed his strong support for the project, saying "I am delighted that the city can provide help to a community-based group involved in this kind of project. The renovation of these buildings will help strengthen the entire neighborhood and contribute to the resurgence that is taking place throughout the Fenway area."

SARI was organized to encourage the rehabilitation of properties in the Fenway area and to encourage private investment.

Anderson, Notter, Finegold, Inc. will be architects for the project.

SPECIAL DAY TRIPS FOR SENIORS

Mayor Kevin H. White and the Mayor's Commission on Affairs of the Elderly have announced special day trips to Thompson's Island for Older Bostonians during the months of July and August.

"The Elderly Commission is planning a summer recreation program which will enable thousands of seniors to leave their neighborhoods behind for a day of fresh air, beautiful surroundings, and exercise. There's truth to the adage that to stay healthy people need to be active," Mayor White said.

Each day from July 10 through August 30, Mondays through Fridays, groups of seniors will participate in a cruise to Thompson's Island, situated in Boston Harbor and half an hour boat ride from downtown Boston. The island contains salt marshes, wood groves, orchards, fields, and an abundance of plant and animal life.

The Elderly Commission will sponsor a full day of events on the island including live entertainment, bingo, shuffleboard, croquet, arts and crafts workshops, guided island tours, nature walks, and movies. Lunch will be provided.

Interested seniors should contact the Commission on Affairs of the Elderly, care of Thompson's Island Cruise, Room 271, Boston City Hall, Boston, MA 02201. For more information, call the Elderly Commission at 725-3981.

PENAL INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT

Mr. John E. Murphy, Jr.
Supervisor of Personnel.

Dear Sir:

Miss Hildegard Paris has been employed by the Penal Institutions Department since October 4, 1976. She first joined the Penal Department as a social worker at the House of Correction through the CETA program. In March of 1978, she was appointed to the position of head case manager (Social Services) on our Safe Streets Case Management grant.

Because of her extensive experience in the area of offender services and her excellent record as head case manager (Social Services) at the House of Correction, the department appointed her to a provisional social worker position, R13-1, effective May 16, 1979. This was required as a result of the termination of our Safe Streets grant. At this time we are requesting that Miss Paris' second through sixth increments be determined under Rule 15F of the Classification and Compensation Plan for County Employees, effective May 16, 1979.

Sincerely,
WILLIAM R. CELESTER, Penal Commissioner.

ART IN THE PARK RETURNS TO BOSTON

On Saturday, June 16, and Sunday, June 17, one of Boston's favorite rites of spring, the eighth annual June Art in the Park, will transform Boston Common into an open-air gallery in celebration of the visual arts. The area between Frog Pond and Park Street, will feature a display encompassing a wide spectrum of artwork including paintings, sculpture, photographs, crafts, and printmaking. The works will be for sale and several of the artists will present live demonstrations.

Treat your senses as you stroll through Boston Common enjoying the displays which represent the work of local artists and neighborhood art organizations from the Boston area. Classical quartets throughout the park will accompany the exhibition.

In recent years, June Art in the Park has become one of Boston's most delightful events. This year, in celebration of its one hundredth anniversary, the Copley Society of Boston will present a special exhibition in the Park.

June Art in the Park is sponsored by the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs in affiliation with the Department of Parks and Recreation and is free to the participating artists and the public.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis X. Moloney 1911-1979

Boston has been diminished by the untimely, tragic death of "Frank" Moloney, 68, Assistant Director of the Boston Public Library. Mr. Moloney and his wife Elizabeth Ann (Higgins), residents of Jamaica Plain, died as a result of injuries received when struck by a speeding motorist on May 28. Mr. Moloney was a kind, gentle, and thoughtful person, always willing to lend a helping hand to those who needed it. He was acclaimed as an authority on Boston and its history and co-operated with the news media, municipal departments, and anyone who sought his expertise. He was affectionately (and rightly so) referred to as "Mr. Reference." Mr. Moloney was born in Charlestown, attended Boston Latin School, and graduated from Jamaica Plain High School as president of his senior class.

In 1952, Mr. Moloney joined the Boston Public Library staff as assistant director and for six years was head of business operations.

He was a founder and director of the Citizens for Boston Public Schools; a member of the board of directors of the Boston Five Cent Savings Bank; a director of the Eire Society; a member of the board of Rogerson House; and a founder and past chairman of the Jamaica Pond Association. He was also a member of the Catholic Sodality of Boston; the Harvard Club of Boston; the Back Bay Civic Association; and the Charitable Irish Society of Boston.

The couple leaves a son, Kevin Francis Moloney of Jamaica Plain, a member of the City of Boston Law Department; three daughters, Ellen M. Detwiller of Newton, Anne E. O'Shea of Wilmington, and Jane P. Moloney of Jamaica Plain; a sister Mary Lyons of New York City; a brother, Dr. William C. Moloney, and four grandchildren.

A funeral Mass was celebrated June 1, in St. Thomas Aquinas Church, Jamaica Plain. Burial was in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

May the dearly departed souls of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Moloney ever rest in peace.

V. HIGH COMMENDATIONS

On April 8, 1979, Engine Company 32 and Ladder Company 9 responded to a still alarm on the report of a man in the water of the Mystic River near the Alford Street bridge.

Upon arrival of the companies at the scene, members observed a man who was in need of help about fifty feet from shore in the icy water. Fire Captain George Gravalles of Engine Company 32 immediately removed his fire coat, boots, and helmet and with the aid of a life line, entered the water and swam out to the struggling victim and brought him to a position where members of Engine Company 32 and Ladder Company 9 were able to bring the man to street level where he was taken to the Boston City Hospital by ambulance.

The Fire Commissioner/Chief is pleased to recommend Fire Captain George Gravalles, Engine Company 32, because of the personal risk without regard for his own safety at this incident and recommends his case to the Board of Merit for further consideration.

On March 15, 1979, the department responded to Box 1541, Incident No. 10053, at 0147 hours which was struck for a fire at 606 Tremont Street, South End.

Upon arrival of the companies at the scene, members were informed that a man was still in the building on the fifth floor. Fire Lieut. General Order No. 29

BOARD OF MERIT

The Board of Merit, consisting of the Fire Commissioner/Chief of Department and the Deputy Fire Chiefs, has considered all meritorious acts referred to it for the year, 1978. After careful consideration and study, the Board submitted the following recommendations which are hereby approved by the Fire Commissioner/Chief of Department.

1. Cases of Fire Fighter Thomas E. Bernhard, Engine Company 21, and Fire Fighter John E. McNally, Engine Company 21.

At 0915 hours, March 5, 1978, Engine Company 21 responded to Box 1873 (two alarms) at 96 Sawyer Avenue, Dorchester. Upon arrival, six or seven people were noticed trapped on the third floor rear porch and when Engine Company 21 tried to reach them by placing their ladder on top of an exceptionally high snowbank, it was found to be too short.

Fire Fighters Bernhard and McNally went up the rear stairs which were heavily charged with smoke and in danger of bursting into flames at any minute. Their efforts were further complicated by the lack of visibility and large amounts of debris and storage including rubbish, automobile parts, cases of oil, and a large rolled up 12-ft. by 12-ft. rug. They calmed the panic-stricken people down and then guided them down the rear stairs to safety.

The panic-stricken people were greatly endangered by the heat, smoke, and flames. Their ages were mostly in the twenties and thirties and it took the expertise and courage of Fire Fighters Bernhard and McNally to effect the rescue.

The Fire Commissioner/Chief highly commended these members in General Order No. 20 of 1978, for these rescues which were performed under great personal risk.

The Board recommended that the names of Fire Fighter Thomas E. Bernhard, Engine Company 21, and Fire Fighter John E. McNally, Engine Company 21, be placed on the Roll of Merit.

2. Case of Fire Fighter James R. Neff, Ladder Company 18.

At 0943 hours, April 17, 1978, Ladder Company 18 responded to Box 7236 (two alarms) at 17 Middle Street, South Boston. Upon arrival, Ladder Company 18 found heavy fire and smoke showing at the rear of the building. Fire Lieut. Paschal of Ladder Company 18 was informed by civilians at the scene that a small child had been left in a rear bedroom on the third floor.

Lieut. Paschal, with Fire Lieut. Solletti of Engine Company 1 and Fire Fighter Neff, gained access to the third floor but were driven down the stairs because of the intense heat and smoke. A second attempt was made immediately but without success.

At this point, Fire Fighter Neff went to the rear of the building and as a line commenced operating in the rear stairway, he made his way ahead of the line into the third floor. At this time, the fire was in the walls of the stairway the stairs were heavily charred, and fire was also in the ceiling and wall of the third floor. He made his way into the bedroom at the rear right-hand side of the building, removed the child from the bed, made his way to the front of the building, down the stairs, and then to a waiting ambulance, giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on the way. There was intense heat and smoke on the third floor during this rescue.

The child was removed to the Boston City Hospital where she was admitted. Fire Fighter Neff was also removed to the Boston City Hospital where he was treated for heat exhaustion and later relieved from duty.

The Fire Commissioner/Chief highly commended Fire Fighter Neff in General Order No. 28 of 1978, for this rescue which was performed under extreme personal risk.

The Board recommended that Fire Fighter James R. Neff, Ladder Company 18, be awarded the John E. Fitzgerald Medal for the Most Meritorious Act.

3. Cases of Fire Fighter Peter F. Nee, Ladder Company 20, and Fire Fighter Lawrence C. Holt, Ladder Company 20.

At approximately 1850 hours, June 20, 1978, at Marine Park, South Boston, Fire Fighters Peter F. Nee and Lawrence C. Holt, both of Ladder Company 20, successfully resuscitated Fire Captain James D. Kennedy, Ladder Company 20, on four occasions when he had apparently succumbed to a severe coronary attack.

Off-duty members of the department were participating in a softball league game when Fire Captain Kennedy, a spectator, was stricken with a severe coronary attack. He had stopped breathing and had become cyanotic. Fire Fighters Nee and Holt immediately commenced cardiopulmonary resuscitation until Fire Captain Kennedy resumed breathing. While other members called for an ambulance and resuscitator service, Captain Kennedy again lapsed into a cyanotic condition and Fire Fighters Nee and Holt resumed cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

Upon arrival of Ladder Company 19, oxygen was administered until the arrival of the Boston City Hospital ambulance. Fire Captain Kennedy lapsed into a cyanotic condition on two occasions while being transported to the Boston City Hospital and was revived by Fire Fighters Nee and Holt.

The Fire Commissioner/Chief highly commended Fire Fighters Nee and Holt in General Order No. 41 of 1978, for their swift and efficient administration of cardiopulmonary resuscitation and their persistence in reviving their Company Commander.

The child was removed to the Boston City Hospital where she was admitted. Fire Fighter Neff was also removed to the Boston City Hospital where he was treated for heat exhaustion and later relieved from duty.

The Fire Commissioner/Chief highly commended Fire Fighter Neff in General Order No. 28 of 1978, for this rescue which was performed under extreme personal risk.

The Board recommended that Fire Fighter James R. Neff, Ladder Company 18, be awarded the John E. Fitzgerald Medal for the Most Meritorious Act.

3. Cases of Fire Fighter Peter F. Nee, Ladder Company 20, and Fire Fighter Lawrence C. Holt, Ladder Company 20.

At approximately 1850 hours, June 20, 1978, at Marine Park, South Boston, Fire Fighters Peter F. Nee and Lawrence C. Holt, both of Ladder Company 20, successfully resuscitated Fire Captain James D. Kennedy, Ladder Company 20, on four occasions when he had apparently succumbed to a severe coronary attack.

Upon arrival of Ladder Company 19, oxygen was administered until the arrival of the Boston City Hospital ambulance. Fire Captain Kennedy lapsed into a cyanotic condition on two occasions while being transported to the Boston City Hospital and was revived by Fire Fighters Nee and Holt.

The Fire Commissioner/Chief highly commended Fire Fighters Nee and Holt in General Order No. 41 of 1978, for their swift and efficient administration of cardiopulmonary resuscitation and their persistence in reviving their Company Commander.

The Board recommended that Fire Fighter Peter F. Nee, Ladder Company 20, and Fire Fighter Lawrence C. Holt, Ladder Company 20, be awarded the Distinguished Service Award.

4. Case of Fire Lieut. Nicholas P. Keenan, Ladder Company 15.

At 1711 hours, June 16, 1978, Box 1579 was struck for a fire at 287 Beacon Street, Incident No. 26241.

Upon arrival of Engine Company 33 and Ladder Company 15 at the above location, members were informed that a child was still inside the fire building. Fire Lieut. Nicholas P. Keenan, Ladder Company 15, donned an air mask and proceeded to lead a search of the premises. Lieut. Keenan found a child on a bed adjacent to the fire area and as he removed the victim from the building, he performed mouth-to-mouth resuscitation until he reached the outside where other members relieved him until arrival of an ambulance. The child was removed to the Children's Hospital for treatment by Health and Hospital personnel.

Since fire, heat, smoke, and gasses had built to a considerable degree because ventilation had not been accomplished or lines of hose placed into operation, Fire Lieut. Keenan performed this act without regard for his own personal safety, under extremely hazardous conditions.

The Fire Commissioner/Chief highly commended Fire Lieut. Keenan in General Order No. 43 of 1978.

The Board recommended that the name of Fire Lieut. Nicholas P. Keenan, Ladder Company 15, be placed on the Roll of Merit.

5. Case of Fire Lieut. James M. Solletti, Engine 1.

On August 17, 1978, at approximately 1105 hours, Fire Lieut. James M. Solletti of Engine Company 1, while off duty, was stopped in traffic opposite 1826 Dorchester Avenue. Lieut. Solletti observed the roof of the Ashmont Creamery, 1826 Dorchester Avenue, suddenly collapse due to demolition work in the adjacent building.

Lieut. Solletti had observed three small boys enter the store just prior to the collapse and, without regard for his own personal safety, hastened to enter the collapsed structure to assist any victims present. He found the three small boys and the owners of the store, Albert and Estelle Winn, and assisted them to safety.

This act was performed by Fire Lieut. Solletti with half of the roof timbers collapsed on the grocery shelves, a heavy pall of plaster dust in the air, and the remaining half of the roof in imminent danger of collapsing.

The Fire Commissioner/Chief highly commended Fire Lieut. Solletti of Engine Company 1 in General Order No. 46 of 1978, for his actions at great personal risk.

The Board recommended that the name of Fire Lieut. James M. Solletti, Engine Company 1, be placed on the Roll of Merit.

6. Cases of Fire Lieut. Stephen E. McLaughlin, Rescue Company 2; Fire Fighter Roger J. Dunn, Rescue Company 2; Fire Fighter Ronald Gatnik, Engine Company 52; and Fire Fighter John L. Cheatham, Ladder Company 16.

On November 17, 1978, members of the department were called to the scene of an accident at a construction site adjacent to 700 American Legion Highway, Roslindale.

Engine Company 45, Ladder Company 16, Rescue Company 2, and District 12, District Fire Chief Emmett J. Kiley commanding, responded to the alarm, Incident No. 51846, 1550 hours.

Upon arrival of the Fire Department, District Fire Chief Kiley was informed that two men were buried in a construction trench that had caved in. Chief Kiley ordered another ladder company to the scene and had members begin removing the dirt from the caved in excavation. The members had to work in a very dangerous environment for fear of more cave-in and continued until both victims were removed from the site.

The Fire Commissioner/Chief highly commended these men in General Order No. 1 of 1979, for their bravery and extreme personal risk under most dangerous and difficult conditions which existed at this incident.

The Board recommended that the names of Fire Lieut. Stephen E. McLaughlin, Rescue Company 2; Fire Fighter Roger J. Dunn, Rescue Company 2; Fire Fighter Ronald Gatnik, Engine Company 52; and Fire Fighter John L. Cheatham, Ladder Company 16, be placed on the Roll of Merit.

7. Cases of Acting Fire Lieut. Edward J. Hudalla, Ladder Company 20, and Fire Fighter Richard L. Stedman, Engine Company 43.

On December 22, 1978, the department responded to still alarm, Box 1812 at 0420 hours for a fire at 19 Montpelier Road.

Upon arrival of Engine Company 43 and Ladder Company 20 at the scene, members were informed that occupants were trapped inside the burning apartment. The apartment was locked with numerous devices which impeded access and hindered rescue efforts; a battering ram was required to effect entry.

Acting Fire Lieut. Edward J. Hudalla, Ladder Company 20, entered the apartment and made his way through the heavily charged area to the rear rooms where he found an unconscious woman on the floor. He moved her to the front of the apartment where he was assisted by Fire Fighter Richard Stedman in removing her to safety. Acting Lieut. Hudalla continued the search and found a young boy under a bed in the rear bedroom whom he carried to safety.

The Fire Commissioner/Chief commended Acting Fire Lieut. Hudalla and Fire Fighter Stedman in General Order No. 3 of 1979.

The Board recommended that Acting Fire Lieut. Edward J. Hudalla Ladder Company 20, be awarded the Walter Scott Medal for Valor.

The Board recommended that the name of Fire Fighter Richard L. Stedman, Engine Company 43, be placed on the Roll of Merit.

Attention is also directed to the Instructions to Bidders — Award of Contract: Rejection of bids and the prohibition of abnormally high and abnormally low prices for any class or item of work.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum salaries and wages set forth in the contract documents must be paid on this project and that the contractor must ensure that employees and applicants for employment are not discriminated against because of their race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. Attention is also called to the requirements relating to Workmen's Compensation and conditions of employment and to the Boston Redevelopment Authority's Equal Opportunity Compliance Policy, adopted February 20, 1969, revised June 1975, and to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Supplemental Equal Employment Opportunity, Anti-discrimination and Affirmative Action Program and City of Boston Affirmative Action Compliance with contract specification and to the required certification of the bidder regarding equal employment opportunity.

At the request of the city one or more of the three lowest bidders may also be required to submit a Minority Business Identification Statement.

Contractors shall also avail themselves of the list of minority businesses to be provided by the city through the Office of Minority Business Enterprise, to facilitate compliance with these requirements.

terms for the contractor's aggregate workforce in each trade on all construction work in the covered area. (See Pages EEO-1 and EEO-2 of the bid specification for goals and timetables.)

These goals are applicable to all the contractor's construction work (whether or not it is federal or federally assisted) performed in the covered area.

As used in this notice, and in the contract the covered area is Boston, and the Islands of Boston Harbor, Massachusetts.

The contractor's compliance with the Executive Order and the regulation in 41 CFR Part 60-4 shall be based on its implementation of the Equal Opportunity Clause, specific affirmative action obligations required to meet the goals established for the geographical area where the contract is to be performed.

The hours of minority and female employment and training must be substantially uniform throughout the length of the contract in each trade, and the contractor shall make a good-faith effort to employ minorities and women evenly on each of its projects.

The transfer of minority or female employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's goals shall be a violation of the contract, the Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4. Compliance with the goals will be measured against the total workhours performed.

The Boston Redevelopment Authority reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any informalities in bidding, if it be in the public interest so to do.

Bids may be held by the Boston Redevelopment Authority for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days from the date of the opening of bids for the purpose of reviewing the bids and investigating the qualifications of the bidders, prior to awarding of the contract.

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the provisions of the contract documents, including without limitation, the notice to all bidders (including subbidders), and provisions with respect to bonds, insurance, equal employment opportunity, minimum wages, time of performance, liquidated damages, and the requirements set forth in the specifications or supplemental Equal Employment Opportunity Anti-Discrimination and Affirmative Action Program Contract provisions, and the requirements of mandatory compliance with section three of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 and Executive Order 11246. NOTICE OF REQUIREMENT FOR AFFIRMATIVE ACTION TO ENSURE EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY (EXECUTIVE ORDER 11246).

1. The offerer's or bidder's attention is called to the "Equal Opportunity Clause" and the "Standard Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Construction Contract Specifications" set forth herein.

2. The goals and timetables for minority and female participation, expressed in percentage terms for the contractor's aggregate workforce in each trade on all construction work in the covered area, are as follows: (See Appendix 1 to Standard Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Specifications).

These goals are applicable to all the contractor's construction work (whether or not it is federal or federally assisted) performed in the covered area.

The contractor's compliance with the Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4 shall be based on its implementation of the Equal Opportunity Clause, specific affirmative action obligations required by the specifications set forth in 41 CFR 60-4.3(a), and its efforts to meet the goals established for the geographical area where the contract resulting from this solicitation is to be performed. The hours of minority and female employment and training must be substantially uniform throughout the length of the contract and in each trade, and the contractor shall make a good-faith effort to employ minorities and women evenly on each of its projects.

The transfer of minority or female employees or trainees from contractor to contractor or from project to project for the sole purpose of meeting the contractor's goals shall be a violation of the contract, the Executive Order and the regulations in 41 CFR Part 60-4. Compliance with the goals will be measured against the total work hours performed.

3. The contractor shall provide written notification to the Director of the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs within ten (10) working days of any construction subcontract in excess of $10,000 at any tier for construction work under the contract resulting from this solicitation. The notification shall list the name, address, and telephone number of the subcontractor, employer identification number, estimated dollar amount of the subcontract; estimated starting and completion dates of the subcontract; and the geographical area in which the contract is to be performed.

4. As used in this notice, and in the contract resulting from this solicitation, the "covered area" is systemwide in Suffolk, Norfolk, Middlesex, and Essex Counties, Massachusetts.

All bidders will be required to certify that they are not on the Comptroller General's list of ineligible contractors.

The provisions of Massachusetts Executive Order No. 130, Anti-Boycott Covenants, are incorporated by reference as part of this contract.

All bidders will be required to certify as part of their proposal that they are able to furnish labor that can work in harmony with all other elements of labor employed or to be employed on the work.

Proposal guaranty shall consist of a bid deposit of one hundred forty-four thousand dollars ($144,000), in the form of a bid bond, cash, certified check, or a treasurer's or cashier's check issued by a responsible bank or trust company, payable to the order of the MBTA. A bid bond shall be from a surety company authorized to do business under the laws of the Commonwealth and satisfactory to the Authority.

The successful bidder shall be required to furnish a performance bond and a labor and materials payment bond, each for the full amount of the contract price. The surety shall be a surety company or the bonds shall be in the form of securities satisfactory to the Authority.

The Authority reserves the right to reject any or all proposals, to waive informalities, to advertise for new proposals or proceed to do the work otherwise, as may be deemed to be for the best interests of the Authority.

A DECADE OF DEVELOPMENT IN BOSTON

Part IV

IV. DEVELOPMENT PROJECT COMPLETION LISTINGS AND ECONOMIC SECTOR DISCUSSIONS

A. City Public Improvements

Insignificant amounts of public investment in the city's infrastructure facilities had been made prior to 1968. As recently as the mid-1950s, the total amount of the city's direct, long-term debt issued for public improvement purposes aggregated less than $60 million. In the years 1960-67, public improvement outlays averaged only $20 million a year. As a consequence, much of the city's public ways, buildings, and facilities were in an advanced stage of deterioration and obsolescence. Then in one decade, from 1968 to 1978, some $674 million was expended by the city to replace new community buildings for old and to rebuild parks and streets.* As a result, many aspects of Boston's public facilities are modern, reflecting a new city emerging from the old.

The city's confidence and determination to build a new future led the federal government and the state to invest some $550 million and $600 million, respectively, in transportation, port, and urban redevelopment in the 1968-78 decade.

For the future much remains to be done to replace, repair and maintain Boston's public infrastructure and to provide for those facilities needed for the new private investment potential.† The need, the potential, and the problem of surmounting fiscal constraints to achieve Boston development goals will be the subject of another report.

The leadership of Boston's modern mayors — John B. Hynes, John Collins, and Kevin H. White — and their visions of the need to invest in the rebirth of Boston made the essential difference. Mayor White seized the opportunity to mount a far-reaching public improvements program and shape those policies and plans which spurred a larger flow of federal, state, and private investment for the Decade of Development.

The following tables list the $338 million of site-specific city public improvements. The simple listing of the investment projects highlights not only the magnitude, but also the scope of the public infrastructure investment, reaching into every neighborhood of the city.

In the nineteenth century Boston City Hospital had been a pioneering institution. The substantial investment in upgrading Boston City Hospital in the Decade of Development was designed to enable it to meet the needs of the city's low- and middle-income households. Boston invested some $52 million in the Boston City Hospital complex and smaller amounts in six neighborhood health and family service centers.

"SENIOR PROM" CULMINATES ACTIVITIES FOR OLDER BOSTONIANS MONTH

The Boston Commission of Parks and Recreation, on May 31, sponsored a "Senior Prom" for Boston elders in City Hall as the culminating event of Older Bostonians Month. Two thousand seniors danced to the music of Jack Alessi and his band and enjoyed refreshments, wine fountains, as well as flower corsages.

The "Senior Prom" was the last of a series of activities scheduled throughout the month of May to inform, honor, and entertain Older Bostonians. Events during May Month included: a Faneuil Hall appearance by Maggie Kuhn, national convenor of the Grey Panthers; a city-wide bingo game; a Mother's Day celebration in the Public Garden; an Older Bostonians Festival; the First Annual New Generation Music Festival; special theatre and dance performances; crime prevention presentations; a slide show premier and two photography exhibits.

"By involving Boston's elderly population in May's specialized activities, the city hoped to increase senior awareness of programs offered for Older Bostonians," Mayor Kevin H. White said. "One of our foremost goals during this month was to reach those isolated seniors who knew little or nothing of the many services and resources available to them through the City of Boston."

For more information about programs for Older Bostonians, call the Mayor's Elderly Hotline at 722-4646.

To provide Boston's youth with modern educational facilities, the city built thirty-two schools spanning virtually every neighborhood, at a cost of $234 million, replacing many facilities built in the nineteenth century.

A dozen new and renovated fire stations were constructed at a cost of $4 million, providing modern facilities in most of the city's neighborhoods.

New and renovated police stations were built in six neighborhoods spanning the city at a cost of $5 million.

Public parks and recreation facilities sprung up everywhere throughout the city. Not since Olmstead's "Emerald Necklace" system of the nineteenth century had any significant attention been paid to Boston's parks. Over 100 facilities were built at a cost of $56 million.

A major addition to Boston's public library in Back Bay and seven new branch libraries from one end of the city to the other provided modern facilities in an area in which Boston has lead the nation. Thirty million dollars was spent for this library facility upgrading over the Decade of Development.

BALLET PERFORMANCES AT HATCH MEMORIAL SHELL

The Boston Ballet Company will perform at the Hatch Shell, Charles River Esplanade, now through Wednesday, June 20, and later from Wednesday, June 27, through Saturday, June 30. All Boston Ballet performances begin at 8:30 p.m. The ballet company had been scheduled to perform later in the summer, but a change was made in order for the company to perform at the Nervi Festival in Genoa, Italy, in July.

Other upcoming performances include the Metropolitan Wind Symphony on Friday, June 22, at 8:30 p.m.; a 5 p.m. concert by the Teddy Kirk Orchestra on Sunday, June 24, sponsored by the MDC and the Charles River Watershed Association; and a Big Band Sounds concert, sponsored by the Boston Musicians Union on Monday night, June 25, at 8 p.m.

A full schedule of summer events at the MDC's Hatch Shell will be released in the near future, Commissioner Carbone concluded.

IZAAK WALTONS: TAKE NOTE!

A new Massachusetts fishing record has been established at the Metropolitan District Commission's Quabbin Reservoir, MDC Commissioner Guy A. Carbone said today.

Two Ware men, Peter Deslauries and John Demereck, landed a trout weighing 18 pounds, 9 ounces, on Saturday, May 26. The old record was 17 pounds, 13 ounces.

MDC officials reported Quabbin, always a mecca for fishermen during the season, has been yielding an unusually large number of "big ones" this year. The '79 season began on Saturday, April 14, and continues until the third weekend in October.

Quabbin Reservoir covers 39 square miles of river valley. It is 65 miles west of Boston, easily accessible either via the Massachusetts Turnpike or Route 2. Boats with or without motors are available for rent in the fishing area.
